☞The Orphan's Court for Caroline County, will meet Tuesday, Oct. 13th.

Caroline County.

.....Fire and overcoats begin to feel "hot."

.....Orphans' Court was in session on Tuesday last.

.....The best treat of the season Ducello's entertainment. Tickets 25 cents.

.....For a rich evening's entertainment, go hear Ducello next Saturday evening.

.....20,000 baskets of fruit have thus far been consumed this season at Roe's cannery.

.....County Commissioners met on Tuesday last but no important business was transacted.

.....We are pleased to state that Judge Stump, who has been somewhat indisposed, is now better.

.....The lecture, "Modern Delusions," by Hon. Geo. Colton, on Tuesday night, was a rare and rich intellectual treat.

.....For good fare and home like comforts, the "Maltby House," of Baltimore, is unsurpassed, and the terms are surprisingly low.

.....When in Easton visit Beck's large stove rooms. He knows all about his business and will sell you goods 20 per cent cheaper then you can buy them in the city.

.....Among the new "ads" this week will be found that of T. D. Larrimore. He is up with the times, has the requisite energy to succeed and keeps everything you want. Go to see him.

.....Victor L. Emerson and wife arrived in Denton on Sunday by boat; and after a pleasent meeting with friends, left on Monday. They were accompanied by Wm. R. Emerson, Esq., brother of the groom.

.....A little daughter of J. A. Smith, of Burrsville, had its hand so badly mashed in a cider mill, last week, that the amputation of one finger was necesary. Dr. Saulsbury rendered her medical aid.

.....Chestnuts will soon be ripe and the boy who starts to school will soon find himself in the top of some chestnut tree. We have been there. We got chestnuts in the morning and "thunder" in the evening.

.....In the case of State vs. Charles Higgins, which the court has been holding sub. curia was, that under the Act of the Assembly and the construction of the law, local option did not effect the Sixth district; it having been subsequeut-been laid off from the Third district.

.....The County Commissioners have appropriated one hundred dollars for the improvement of the hill road leading from the causeway into town. It is,and has been for some time, in very bad condition and we hope that the improvement will be made at an early day. This amount will not be sufficient to place it in thorough good order.

.....The business of the Denton National Bank continues to increase. Its officers are busy, not only during banking hours, but frequently late at night. We learn that the actual deposits exceed $100,000, and that the bank is discounting all good paper offered. It is certainly a great convenience to our people,and its prosperity is assured.

.....A Delaware paper says that in 1760 a liar was legally punished by having a hole bored through his tongue. If this were the fashion now it wauld go hard with several follows in the neighborhood of this town—their tongues would look like sieves. Now we don't know that we have any liars in our community but we do know that we have some persons who take the cake for relating remarkable circumstances.

.....The Circuit Court for Caroline county met on Monday last at one o'clock, Judge Stump on the bench. There is very little business before the court this time, quite a number of trial cases having been continued to next term. Judges Robinson and Wicks arrived yesterday. On account of space being taken up by other reading matter and advertisements, we are unable this week to give an account of the court proceedings; but will give it in full next week.

Peninsular Items.

—72,000 lbs. of peaches have been evaporated at Milton Del., this past season.

—The Methodist of Housten, Del., have bought a lot and are making preparations to build a parsonage.

—It is said that a vessel has not been built at Milton Del., for over a year. This is not keeping up her past record.

—Geo. A. Millington, the propriter of Capital Hotel, Dover, grew this season four hundred baskets of sweet potatoes on one acre of ground. The potatoes were what is termed "poplar chunks."

—A suspicious case of homicide if not murder, near Oxford, has given rise to investigaton. Major W. E. Stewart, States Attorney for Talbot county, was at Oxford on Sunday last, looking into matters. It was in evidence before the jury of inquest that a sloop with a mainsail and a new patch on it, was seen scraping on the sands; that a man was seen to go aft and then go to the bow and choke and beat a man over the head several times. The last time, the man was knocked overboard. The sloop then sailed away. The body was afterwards scraped up and brought to Oxford. It appeared to be an extreme case of cruelty if not murder and the captain and owner of the boat is believed to be Capt. John R. Taylor, of Dorchester county.

Go to Trazzare's for the best 2 for 5 cent cigar in town, the "Laughing Eye."

(This space is this week devoted to the Anti-bribery cause, and the sentiments herewith expressed we have nothing to do with. Our columns are open to fair and honorable discussions for the public good.)

Mr. EDITOR:—I have an important item of news, and have hesitated for two weeks as to which newspaper to send it. I thought first of sending it to the two boys of the Journal, but I was afraid that the elder brother might get the letter and appropiate the item to his local column in that Great Paper published at the Capital. Well I thought I would send it to the Free Press; but I remembered the last time I shook hands with the editor I thought I had got hold of the leg of a frog, and besides I never knew of his having a good word for anybody—not even for the leaders of the Anti-bribery cause, harmless individuals as they are, so I am going to let you have the item of news. Well, old Father Grinnage's lost his mule; that mule has gone to the land where mules don't kick.

By the way, talking of Anti-bribery I'll tell you a story about them. On old man Jake's goods boxes, the other evening, I heard an old resident tell what used to be going on at Bridgetown. Why he said right here a man could just hollow out and for fifteen cents he could get a whole gallon of the best whiskey a man ever put in his mouth; but with temperance and local-option, a man can't get a drink for love or money, and what a time we had a horses-racing and playing cards and niggers to do all the work in them days. But the Abolitionists and the war came along and sot the niggers free and we aint had no fun since. And now then a lot of what the Denton Journal boys call impraticables who say a fellow shall not sell his vote on election day. Ah my! what is this world coming to, anyhow, no whiskey, no horse-racing, no slaves, no cards, and soon a fellow aint to sell his vote no more. I suppose the next thing there will be a a law passed, if a man buys anything on credit he will have to pay for it. Well, when that is the law. I intend to move away from these parts and go West, where there is plenty of whiskey and no cussing laws and where a man can sell his vote every time, and whip an Editor if he puts too much mouth in his peices." The old man gave a groan and hobbled away.

Our people wonder why all you politicians don't come up to Bridgetown and show us how to vote this time for one candidate or one time for their candidates.

If any thing else happens that I think the Journal or the Free Press ought to publish I will remember you.

WONDERER.

Bridgetown, Oct. 2. 1885.

MR. EDITOR:—I trust I do not misinterpret the kindness of the UNION in saying that the columns of your paper were open to the discussion of all questions affecting public good. The great question now before our community is what verdict shall the people pass on the Anti-bribery movement. Shall it go down in failure never to rise again, or will it receive such encouragement in its first trial against the the organization of party, power and cash as shall give its adherents hope of a final triumph. It would be strange indeed if the cause won in the first collision of arms, and its excellent ticket now marching on to battle should shake the soil of Caroline with hallalujahs of victory the morning after the election. Man struggling for a great principle has ever to stand the buffeting storm of established corruption, tyrauny and organization. The press of the county in a party sense is against us. We are therefore especially under obligation to the a editor who appreciates the noble right of man to honestly differ with his fellow man. Our cause is right and if defeated at this election will come with twofold power at the next. The law is ours now; it says it is a crime for men to buy political suffrage. The man who will buy a vote is a criminal. The man who advocates buying a vote is liable to indictment and punishment in our courts. The man who sells his vote is a criminal and the penalty is disfranchisement. Both the parties are preparing to buy votes. Both parties are the enemies of the constitution, the laws and the moral power of our State and County government.

When cash controls elections the people are disfranchised. The Democratic party tried to hold Anti-bribery with one hand and dishonest men with the other, offering a hypocritical pledge, which on its face shows it was never intended to be kept. The Republicans, when called on refused to pledge themselves and now then there is nothing left for a free people but to rise above party and support the men who have courage to stand forth for the honor of the State and the cause of honest government, for Webster truthfully says, "Nothing can be more grateful to a man than to be elected to office by the combined suffrage of free, enlightened citizens." The mockery of the elections of Caroline conducted by fraud and cash if not resisted will bring bloodshed and resistance,for we cannot meet our adversary with cash. The law and honor forbid it, but we have the blood of freemen in our veins and we mean to die as freemen rather than slaves.

Greensborough, Sept. 28, 1885.

URIE TOWNSEND, ESQ., CHAIRMAN ANTI-BRIBERY COMMITTEE.

Dear Sir:—Your circular letter refering to the resolutions of the late Anti-Bribery Convention has been received. In reply can say that I am opposed not only to bribery at elections, but to bribery and corruption of the public morals in any form. The sacred rights to vote according to the dictates of every man's judgement and sense of duty, should be upheld by every honest man. While I agree with the convention and am opposed to bribery in all its forms, I cannot consent to sign a pledge that compels me to controls others, over whom I have no power, neither a right to dictate what they shall do, or how they may act.

Were I in a position to act upon the question in a legislative capacity, my influence and vote would always be found upon the side of justice and good morals, not doubting my vote would meet the views of the most progressive Anti-Bribery man in Caroline County.

Very truly yourse,

GEO. W. ERNST,

Candidate for the office of of County Commissioner.

Hon A. B. Roe, whose letter we have not, declined to make such a pledge as requested of him, and stated,in substance, that such action would be a reflection on his self-respect. He stated, however, in his letter to the Chairman of Anti-Bribery Convention that he would not contribute money toward his own election or any one's election. Mr. Whitaker made a postive pledge in writing to that effect, and the whole Republican party denounced the use of money at elections. The Republican party is not under the necessity of making pledges of such character,as desired by the Anti-Bribery Convention, to it or any other party. The Republican party stands on its achievements and merits and its ticket will be elected.
