It is not known whether his coffin is also in his barn or not.

Kelly's Ticket.

About 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Wm. T. Kelly, in company with the two most prominent Democratic nominees, and followed by many leading Democrats, marched to the court-house steps. It looked something like a funeral procession, but "Moses" mounted the steps and then proceeded to announce the ticket which had, a few minutes before, been made up in the Journal office. It is generally understood that this movement is the offspring of Democracy, and a bait set in a trap to catch the colored vote. They will have to spit in their hands and try it again. Where is your $110?

Good Common Sense.

MR. EDITOR:—I have taken the Union for many years, and have taken the Journal for quite a while; but in all my life I never read such a dirty, contemptible article as appeared in the Journal last week over the signature of A. T. Warren. The assertion made by you last week were only too true; I heard him publicly declare on the streets in Denton that he "didn't deny he wanted a nomination on the Republican ticket." For writing such a piece of vulgarity, A. T. Warren deserves to be publicly cowhided. He has made himself a filthy cur, and the people around here denounce him thoroughly.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

Tuckahoe Neck, Oct. 21, 1885.

Another Lie Nailed.

It is circulated in some parts of the county that quite a number of Republicans are going to vote for Mr. Gadd. This is nothing but political capital to influence Republicans to turn their backs upon B. Gootee Stevens. It is also currently reported, and generally believed to be true, that the Democrats are going to turn all their capital and strength towards Mr. Gadd, and let the balance of the ticket "go by the board." The following letter sent us we take the liberty of publishing:

HENDERSON, Oct. 17, 1885.

MR. EDITOR:—I wish to say that the rumor that is in circulation to the effect that I am going to vote for L. H. Gadd this fall is false and without foundation

W. L. PRITCHETT.

To the Public.

TO THE CHAIRMAN OF THE KELLY, GADD AND MELVIN SELF-CONSTITUTED DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

SIR:—It is with regret that we learn that our names has been made use of in the making up of your newly fledged party ticket; one evidently conceived in iniquity and bribery, and intended to injure and possibly to defeat the present good and satisfactory Republican ticket; while you are aiding in the success of the Democratic Bribery ticket. We are and always have been humble, but honest members of the Republican party; and as such, we are not disposed to aid in strengthening the bribery ticket of the Democratic party. You will therefore erase our names, as we consider such conduct by you nefarious and an insult.

PERRY CANADA,
ANDERSON MATTHEWS.

MR. EDITOR:—Knowing that you were not present at the Anti-bribery meeting last Tuesday evening, I take the liberty of giving you a partial account there of.

In the absence of the regular chairman, Mr. John W. Kerr, was called to the chair and introduced Mr. A. T. Warren to speak. This man began a harangue which was not only insincere but shameful to himself. He said that when a nomination was offered him on his ticket he recoiled at the idea; but his leader informs me, however, that when he offered him the nomination for clerk, he bit like a lean, hungry, selfish pike. He spoke of the Republican primaries and of the vituperations which were hurled at him several times during this campaign. Now, Mr. Editor, how can this man speak of vituperations when his whole make up is characteristic of foul and uncouth things (see some of his recent specimens). He spoke and boasted of his christianity and how he would scratch off and erase from the church record the names of those who in my opinion had committed acts much less offensive then that the speaker had done by his assuming and hypocritical mutterings. In boasting of his religon he reminded your writer very much of the Pharisee of old: "I thank God that I am not as other men." Then some gentlemen were introduced and each spoke in a very creditable and enthusiastic manner, after which the band rendered some delightful music and the assembly adjourned.

LISTENER.

Denton, Oct. 21st, 1885.

A Card.

To all who are suffesing from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

Rev. A. D. Davis, formerly of our town will preach in the M. E. Church on November 1st.

Anti-Bribery Meeting.

The brass band from Smyrna arrived in due course of time and rendered the music for the occasion in quite a creditable manner, and long before the meeting began, some of the faithful were so enthused that they could exclaim with true puffed-up feeling, "my cup runneth over." At about 2 o'clock, Col. R. C. Carter, a most prominent and highly esteemed citizen of our State, was called to the chair, and throughout the time executed the duties thereof in a respectable and dignified manner, characteristic of himself.

The first speaker announced to address the large and attentive audience was Mr. Howard Bryant, son of Col. Joshua W. Bryant, and it affords us special pleasure in congratulating him on the substance of and the graceful manner in which he delivered his well prepared address. In the course of his remarks, however, he took off the head of the Greensborough Free Press. The next speaker was the Hon. John F. Dawson, one of Caroline's most consistent and most honorable citizens; he entertained the audience for a short while in an impressive and well received speech. The chairman then introduced Mr. E. W. Williamson; this gentleman, though generally refuted to be a disappointed Republican, and though in our absence he did try to comb the "white head" of the Union, we unhesitatingly assert he is a sincere man and true christian. He was pleased at the presence of the ladies and predicted that if their desire was gratified, anti-bribery would sweep the county. We can only be of the opinion that if ladies be admitted into his party, the first thing they would do would be to comb this gentleman's "white head" and then arrange his grammar. During and at the close of each address, applause was a principal feature.

The chair then announced and introduced Mr. L. M. Keedy, of Hagerstown bar. He is a prominent lawyer of that town and in his good effort maintained his plausible and creditable reputation. The band interspersed music which made things pass off with a greater variety of pleasantness. And while this theory is the same as has been announced by men of old, and while we in no wise concur with the present movement, we must congratulate them on their good time. They are taking the wise precaution to enjoy their fun before the election.

From Preston.

The political outlook in this part of the county is decidedly favorable to the Republicans. There is a disposition among voters of all shades of opinion, to inquire into the antecedents, qualifications and personal fitness for official station, of the men who are seeking their suffrages. The more widespread and general these inquiries become, the larger the Republican majority will be in the county this fall.

The botchery in law-making—the passage of laws that the courts have declared unconstitutional by recent Democratic legislatures, and the unfair and ungenerous discrimination against Caroline county incorporated by the last General Assembly into the Oyster law now in force, have made our people extremely cautious, and many of them—both democrats and republicans—declare emphatically, that they will vote no man on the legislative branch of either ticket, who has ever forgotten his allegiance to his county, or who has not the capacity to manage his own private business affairs with some degree of success. I intend to speak more at length upon the lack of qualifications of some of the candidates, but an episode out of the usual order of things political, occured here last Saturday evening, the relation of which will take up my allotted space, and will no doubt be more entertaining to your readers.

Quite a sensation was created on Wednesday morning of last week, by the appearance of hand bills announcing that there would be a meeting in Denton on the 20th inst., "to nominate a straight out republican ticket." The call was without name, and was not even by order of that convenient personage, "Many Citizens." The democrats smiled, and chaffed the republicans good naturedly over the affair, and the latter appeared a little restive, until it was generally known that it was a political manœuver in the interest of the democratic candidate for clerk, engineered by William T. Kelly. Knowing, as everybody in the locality does, Mr. Kelly's eccentricities, as well in politics as in other matters, and his utter lack of influence among the colored people, but little notice was taken of, or attention paid to his "call" for a convention to nominate a "ticket composed of white and colored men." The next night, however, another "poster" was distributed through the town, announcing that "Samuel Q. Sanks, Esq., the most gifted orator," and all the rest of it, would address the colored republicans on their rights, duties, &c., &c., &c., at Marsh Creek, on Saturday night, 17th inst. Mr. Sanks put in his appearance on time; so did the republicans, and in force. We found Mr. Sanks to be very intelligent, and very courteous and gentlemanly in his bearing; but Mr. Sanks would not consent to address the meeting without first consulting some other republicans besides Mr. Kelly; nor would he consent to speak in the interest of any democrat,—or do or say anything that would have the remotest tendency to weaken the Republican ticket now in the field. "I am a republican," said Mr. Sanks, "and I have been paid to address the people and lay before them the solid truths of republicanism, and I intend to do it. I have learned since my arrival, that Mr. Kelly has declared his intention to support one of the democratic candidates for an important office; if that be true he has misrepresented himself, as well as the republican party. I can't serve Mr. Kelly," and he did not. So the little arrangement to elect Mr. Gadd clerk of the court with the ballots of colored men, so many of whose names he has caused to be put in jury-box, fell through. It didn't work, and Mr. Kelly will learn, if he lives long enough, that "honesty is the best policy." The republicans are jubilant, and the other fellows correspondingly depressed.

OBITUARY.

ON THE DEATH OF NORWOOD K. POOLE BY MRS. HATTIE PURTE.

After a prolonged illness and much patient suffering with lung and throat trouble Norwood left us September 26th 1885, aged 17 years 10 months. When 16 years of age, while in health, he dedicated himself to the Lord, but, like many others gave way to doubt, and in the following fall, he was again found at the altar seeking Jesus, whom he found in a peaceful, holy calm of soul. Owing to his failing health he was deprived of church helps, and at times the way seemed dark, thus he spoke of it to his Grandpa Numbers and others who interrogated him about his soul's welfare. 10 days previous to his death, I called to see him and was requested to talk to him. After a pleasent chat, finding him perfectly himself, I said "Norwood, do you know that you can't get well?" He answered, "Yes, I know it." Then said I "Is all well?" And with much feeling he answered me "No, I am not sure I will be saved and I am not willing to go this way, but" said he "if I can only get good enough, I think the Lord will save me." Seeing his trouble I reasoned with him as I tried to make plain to his anxious mind the plan of salvation; he remarked "Then Jesus must save me just as I am." We prayed together and I left him praying for a full assurance. Three days later I visited him again and he said "My mind is about the same. The way seems dark." I left a book with him, which was read to him by his dear mother and others, when he could listen. On Wednesday morning four days before his death, he called on his sister to sing for him, which he frequentdid, after which he remarked to his pa, "I would as soon die as live. I know I am young and would liked to have lived longer, but Jesus will take care of me." I called in the afternoon found him very weak, not able to talk much. While sitting watching his calm, peaceful face, he said to his pa and to me "You talk about what we did this morning," and though we were too full of sympathy to say much we tried to gratify the dear boy. As we spoke of the happy company he would have in heaven; his dear Saviour and two grandmothers and others, his face was radicnt with joy. We paused to watch his happy features and he opened his eyes and said "Talk on" I then read to him from the book spoken of. "Christ will cleans our hearts, if we will only trust him to do it." There was such a holy confidence expressed when he looked up, I asked him if he could trust Jesus. He answered with much emphasis "I can, I do. The work is done." Happy thought for us all. The work is done. Washed in the blood of the Lamb. I called the next day but found him too weak to talk yet still conscious. I asked him if I should repeat some verses, he whispered "Anything for Jesus" While repeating the following lines from "Passing Away" there was such a happy expression, I could but wish others to behold it.

While the summers flit o'er earth's green plain
The roses die and the thorns remain
But the heart's sweet flowers know a better way;
The blossoms live and the thorns decay.
Thank God all is not passing by
Our holiest treasures cannot die.
And as we climb heaven's stairway, we need not grieve,
For the fine carved work of the step we leave,
For brighter than all which has gone before
Is the near approach to the palace door,
And oh! the joy as we enter in,
And find nought gone but the stain of sin;
And know as we look back over the way,
That only the shadows were passing away.

I spent the night with him. During the evening quite a number of his young friends called to see him. He asked for them with his sisters to come into the room and sing. He tried to join his bass voice with theirs, but failed, saying "If I only could."

Young friends, Norwood has joined the angels and is singing the song of Moses and the Lamb. The following day his pastor (Bro. Bowman) called to see him finding him too weak to talk, he asked others if Norwood was a christian, but the happy boy did not wait for any one to answer for him but with great earnestness he motioned "Yes," That timid nature gave way and gladly spoke for Jesus. His last audible words were "Praise the Lord". Though having suffered much for days, he at last passed off quietly, and as our Sabbath began on earth, he entered upon that eternal Sabbath above.

The remains, followed by many friends, were taken to Concord where Norwood was a member and a Sunday school boy. The service was indeed beautiful, opening with his favorite song "Is my name written there," followed by prayer by Bro. Bowman, who after joining the audiance in singing, "Forever with the Lord," preached a short but impressive sermon from the text "A little child shall lead them."

While the relations were taking the last look at of their loved boy, his Sunday-school friends sang "Home of the Soul."

Thus amid bright hopes his body was given back to mother earth to await the glorious resurrection.

"With songs let us follow his flight,
And mount with his spirit above,
Escape to the mansions of light,
And escape to the Eden of love,

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

WHAT'S the USE!

What's the use of croaking about "hard times" and scarcity of money? Money is as plentiful as ever, and it only needs some incentive to cause its circulation.

Like the blood, if allowed to congeal, it must necessarily cease to circulate. Business has been allowed to congeal on account of general inactivity; and the country feels the depression the same as the human system.

All that is needed, is a remedy to promote the circulation of the life sustaining fluid, which is alike applicable to the business as well as human life; and returning health will soon manifest itself and the patient grow strong and vigorous. What's the use of palid cheek? Aching head, and dishevelled hair, pondering over pages of disaster produced by the imaginations of a mind ill at ease; it is simply "bosh" and of no effect, and should not be entertained and fostered by any business man, in the country; but while the remedy is at hand, it should always be applied and that speedily, ere the disease assumes malignant form. We have used the remedy, and can speak knowingly of its great efficacy; and we now use it as a preventive to future attack, and whenever we experience a feeling of business despondency, we immediately resort to the great remedy "Push" and at once banish its evil effects, by placing before the public Calicoes at 3, Ginghams 5c, Flannels 12½ c, Ladies Jersey's 50, and a beautiful line of ladies Dress Goods from 12½c to $3.00 per yd; Embracing all the latest novelties to the present date.

New and beautiful designs in Dress Trimming, "Feather Trimming" and "Moss Trimming" also the different shades in Worsted Laces.

Carpets, a splendid article for 25c per yd., better grades 40, 50, 75, 85, $1.00 beautiful patterns in Brussels 75c.

Ladies wraps of every fabric perfectly astounding in prices.

Ready-made Clothing for Men, Boys Youths, 25 per cent less than ever offered before in this market.

What's the use "of grumbling about hardtimes" when our house is always crowded with customers, purchasing goods at the above low figures.

We have inaugurated better times within the scope of our business, and we do not intend to harbor for a moment, an idea as dull times. Come see us, and be convinced. Public's obedient servant.

AUTUMN!

We are admonished of the approach of this season by the appearance of all Nature. The beautiful groves which a few months ago were adorned with a lovely foliage of green, now have assumed a different garb, and present an aspect pleasant to behold, but full of warning. Mother earth with carpet of velvet, shows a care-worn appearance, and is slowly laying aside her summer covering, preparing for the chilly blasts of winter. Man is also admonished by the approach of winter to prepare himself to combat with the icy monster and must necessarily lay off his summer apparel, and cover himself with clothing necessary to preserve the required warmth of body and while doing this he is also admonished that Charles H. Leonard, two doors south of Dover Street, Easton, Md., has all the requisites for the comfort of man in this particular, and would most respectfully invite the citizens of Caroline when visiting Easton to call and see him. Clothing in all its branches and prices guaranteed to suit in every particular.
