[ELECTION—TUESDAY, NOV. 3RD.]

THURSDAY, November 26th, is Thanksgiving day in Massachusetts.

THE Democratic dodges have all played out. The colored people "know their business."

THE oldest postmaster in Maryland is said to be Joseph Chancy, of Bristol, who was appointed June 1st 1849.

AFTER Tuesday's election, there will be "weaping and wailing and gnashing of teeth" among the sore-head "bolters."

THE chief weapons of Democracy are: BRIBERY, TRICKERY and rot-gut WHISKY. Let our citizens denounce it on Tuesday next.

THE Democratic party has been "weighed in the balance and found wanting." Young men! Old men! Everybody! Vote the Republican ticket.

MRS. EUGENE BELT, of Baltimore, had her reputation vindicated and a divorce granted a mensa et thoro last Thursday by the circuit court of that city, with an allowance of $40,000.

THE average Democrat wears a depressed and disappointed countenance. They have exhausted all their ingenuity, but were caught each time. "The way of the transgressor is hard."

LET every Republican exert his manhood on Tuesday next, and the proud history of Caroline will be redeemed. Look out for Democratic tricks; that is their only hope of salvation.

THE future of Caroline Democracy is a little hazy; the Republicanism is too wide awake for it. A few lines of "Wait till the clouds roll by" would perhaps give it temporary encouragement.

OUR post-office, as well as all others in the county and throughout many states, has been unsupplied with postal cards for several months. This is only one sample of the new administration.

THE Democracy of the land still opposes the admission of Dakota as one of the United States. Dakota has a large population, and is wealthy; but, because it is overwhelmingly Republican, Democracy says no.

THE verdict of the jury in the case of Nellie Wilcox against Fred Wilcox, at Rochester N. Y., establishes the validity of plantiff's marriage to Otis N. Wilcox and her right of dower to his estate, valued at over $1,000,000, to which Fred Wilcox claimed to be sole heir.

REPUBLICANS of Caroline county, now is the time for you to plunge in, "cross the Rubicon" and conquer the enemy. Never, in the history of politics of this county, can you work under more harmonious auspices. See that every Republican goes to the polls, that his vote is received and demand a fair count. Work faithfully and victory will perch upon our glorious banner.

THE nine now living ex-Senators who were members of the United States Senate at the beginning of the war, and who took their seat at the memorable first session of the Thirty-seventh Congress on July 4, 1861 are Williard Saulsbury, of Delaware; Lyman Trumbull, of Illinios; James Harlan, of Iowa; Samuel C. Pomeroy, of Kansas; Henry M. Rice and Morton S. Wilkinson, of Minnesota; Daniel Clark, of New Hampshire; John Sherman, of Ohio, and James R. Doolittle, of Wisconsin.

Two months have pleasantly glided by since we made our editorial bow; and, our experience, during which time, confidentially related to an old stager, would cause him to "smile a smole."

However, we appeared last week in an enlarged edition and will continue the same in the future; and, notwithstanding some difficulties under which we labor, we propose to make the UNION just exactly what it ought to be. We are desirous and have been encouraged to do our utmost to present to an intelligent public a paper, up with the times, appreciated, interesting and deserving of hearty support; therefore, all we ask is, that many of our patrons who are in arrears for subscriptions will let us hear from them.

We shall, from time to time, present the political issues of the day; give the latest local news; exclude all communications which savour on the unrefined and make our paper a welcome visitor in the family circle.

—Mr. Shadrack Raughley, who last year was robbed of considerable money on the Philadelphia Union line, and was injured in getting off, has sued the com- d the case is before the Jury.

A Libelous Newspaper(!)

In our last issue we published a statement in reference to the Kelley ticket, in which we said in substance that, Kelley, in company with two of the most prominent democratic nominees, followed by many leading Democrats, marched to the court house and then announced a ticket which had, a few minutes before, been made at the Journal office.

The Journal, in its last issue, denies that statement simply; which may be satisfactory to some few Democrats, but the majority of their leaders know better. It says "The Republicans have all along striven to saddle the responsibility of the fourth ticket upon the Democrats." The Journal that time spoke a plain truth, and we have undoubtedly saddled the right horse.

We don't know positively that this fourth ticket was sprung into existance in the Journal office; but if it wasn't, then all the signs fail. And throughout that day, Kelly was surrounded, interviewed, and urged on by Democrats, who cried unto him: "Save or we perish." It further says that "Kelly was only prevented from addressing them by the monkeyish antics and the incoherent-boisterous and outrageous language of Col. Willis and others who were present evidently for the purpose of breaking up the meeting." This shows the Democratic sympathy of the Journal for friend Kelley. Well, perhaps it is a good thing for the Democrats to shield and symyathize with him, for his course has brought upon him the ridicule and denunciation of the Republican party and especially of the colored adherents thereof.

Instead of his being prevented from speaking by the monkeyish antics and the incoherent &c., Col. Willis endeavored to furnish him food for his speech, but not not being able to digest it, quit in disgust to himself and to the utter disappointment of the Democratic party. Oh Democracy, thou art a jewel! Thy last resort and cunning tricks are laying up treasures above where moths and rust lo not corrupt(?) The great result of this Democratic-Kelley movement is, that the monkeyish, incoherent, boisterous Democrats got caught in their own trap and the Republicans wont let them loose until after election.

The Journal further states that the "bills calling Tuesday's (the Democratic-Kelly) convention were printed at the UNION office." Well, it is a fact that the bills referred to were printed at the UNION job-office, and they were paid for too; and by Democratic money, according to well circulated reports. That is not much loss to them but, however, where is your $110?

Work! Work!!

There are decided indications that the Republicans will carry the county by a handsome majority. All signs point to an emphatic victory. Still we shall not allow the purport to relax our exertions. Our partial defeat two years ago resulted from too much confidence. Let every Republican continue to WORK. He will thereby, not only show his fealty to that party and add to its strength, but also act for the best interests of the county by insuring the election of suitable persons to office.

We have an excellent ticket—men who are well known for their integrity, good character, and qualifications.

In a recent issue we made personal reference to many of the Republican candidates, but omitted some for want of space. We continue the subject:

John H. Stack, our candidate for register of wills, is about 53 years of age; has resided in Federalsburg many years; entered into the mercantile business in early life, and by careful attention and just dealing, has succeeded. He has large business experience, good judgment, and is thoroughly competent. Nominations have been tendered to him frequently; the only one he ever held was that of collector for the years '82 and '83. He discharged the duties of this office faithfully, and paid over the revenues promptly.

Wm. F. Towers, for County Treasurer, is a good farmer and experienced business man, 41 years of age, and a resident of Tuckahoe neck. His integrity, capacity and fitness for the position are admitted by all who know him. He has never held but one office—that of Collector—the duties of which were well and faithfully discharged. He will make a careful, accommodating and reliable Treasurer.

Robert R. Edgell, for county commissioner, is about 55 years old, and a prominent and successful farmer of the fifth district, where he has resided for about 30 years. He was county commissioner for the years '82 and '83; brought a clear judgment to the consideration of the matter of county expenses, and gave special efforts to secure economy and to lessen taxation.

Chas. W. Hobbs, for county commissioner, is also a successful farmer, and of sound judgment. He is about 35 years of age; a resident of the third district, and also a good business man. His character is without reproach, and his fitness for the position admitted by all who know him. He was collector of taxes for two years, and discharged his duties faithfully and promptly.

John Whitaker, for surveyor, is a good and quiet citizen; known as a careful and accurate surveyor, and has had much experience in the profession.

So, Republicans, as we have a good ticket—the best ticket presented—let us make earnest and continued efforts for its success! Let us give it a majority unprecedented! and thus establish, beyond question, the prevalence of Republican principles in the county, and contribute greatly to the grand reform in the administration of State affairs, which will be secured at an early day.

Wm. Shireman, Esq., Hillsdale Farm, Pa., says he has been using Powell's Prepared Chemicals for several years, and has had as good results from the $12 invested for them as from other fertilizers costing $35 per ton. In future will use Powell,s exclusively. Address Brown Chemicle Co., Baltimore, Md.

—Fifty-one gunners slaughtered a thousand rail birds on the Elkton marsh on the high tide one day last week.—Smyrna Times. Caroline lays that in the shade; seven gunners recently killed 555 on the high tide.

WHETE is that Democratic $110?

A Young Man's First Vote.

SIR: Wishing to become an enthusiastic Republican this fall and in the future, I would like to ask a few questions: I. Why should every young man vote the Republican ticket? II. How should every young man who wishes to become a true citizen to his country convince his friends and political enemies that the Republican ticket in this State is the ticket to vote for with a good conscience? T. S. B.

I. Because the Republican party has been on the right side of every public question during the last thirty years, whereas the Democratic party has invariably been on the wrong side. The Republican party has stood for progressive ideas and sound policies; for the indissolubility of the Union; for the resumption of specie payments; for honest currency and a stable National banking system; for the protection of American industries and the promotion of every legitimate National interest; for civil rights, purity of ballot, educated citizenship and Civil Service reform. It deserves the support of young men because it is progressive in its tendences and because the great mass of its voters are in sympathy with genuine reforms in Nation, State and municipality. On the other hand, the Democratic party is stationary in its tendencies and the great mass of its members are not in sympathy with reform or progress.—Tribune.

These are true facts and the young men of Caroline county should regard them on Tuesday next before they cast their ballot.

Our party caused five millions of slaves to thank God for the existance of the REPUBLICAN PARTY. Through many years of bondage, the onlooker and by-stander bent his ear to the earth and listened, and lo, he heard the prayer and the plantation song ascending to the Creator. He heard it mingled with the wail of transcendent sufferings, and amid the outburstings for liberty. They thanked God for Abraham Lincoln and the Army of the Potomac.

When our party caused secession to be mooted, American citizens from California to Maine thanked God for the existance of the REPUBLICAN PARTY. It has made this country "the land of the free and the home of the brave" and an attraction to the inhabitants of all the world, lifting them up to the royalty of AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP. The Republican party opens its flood-gates of intellectual knowledge and of liberty to young men, and says drink and be freemen indeed. This is but a drop out of the ocean of blessings which has been showered upon this county by the Republican party, and if young men will ponder over the history of our party for the last 25 years they will surely vote the Republican ticket.

Wanamaker's.

PHILADELPHIA, October 26, 1885

It is high time to speak of that part of the furniture in which our taking the lead is a matter of comparatively recent date.

It is tolerably well known that all the resources of furniture-making are ours as much as if they were under our roof; and that there is gathered a more inclusive collection of proper wood-work of every grade than there is in all Philadelphia together besides. So that, whatever wealth or poverty seeks, here is the place to find it, surrounded by similar things that ought to be seen before a choice is made.

It is tolorably well known too what our system of trade is—fair trade is the shortest name for it. We consider what we ought to sell an article for and mark it so that everybody can read it, while the prevailing practice is to mark it with secret signs—what is the secrecy for? So that the sellers can gague his price by the buyer, his knowledge, his conceit, his vanity, his money tact, his money. The price of furniture is generally made from a study of human nature. Every body knows it, and guards against it by going about from store to store, comparing and haggling. And yet nine-tenths of the stores—perhaps ninety-nine in a hundred—stick to their crooked ways. A common trick is to sell some article very low indeed, so low as to fasten the buyer. He pays enough before he gets through.

It is well enough known that nothing of that sort happens here. But haggling has a certain fascination when the money amounts to much. Wholesale trade consists almost entirly of haggling. Houses, horses, carriages, pianos are sold by haggling—why not furniture? Banking, dealing in masses of money itself, consists of haggling. The Stock Exchange is the biggest haggling-machine in the world. To the poor the little sums they pay for daily use are big. The business of almost all the little local stores is done by haggling.

The world is not so full of haggling without some reason. Haggling has its advantages. Here we are, our prices just so—no more, no less. A dealer outside can ask more for his things; and then, if his customer happens to know our prices, he can drop—he would rather make a very little profit than nothing. Hence elastic prices and haggling. We have only one defense. We have got to have better things and deal with generosity. That is our only way to beat a townful of haggling.

Excuse the digression. It was needed to state with some fulness what you know in a shadowy way and act as if you didn't know at all.

Wanamaker's.

The part of our furniture stock you haven't had the chance to know the state of so well is upholstered work, mantels, tables, chairs, cabinets, easels, bookcases, desks for house and office—all those difficult wares to manage well because of the number of forms they come in, the room they require, the skill in choosing, the knowing where to go on and where to stop.

Upholstered work is mostly out of sight. Vast sums of money in it. Somebody has got to be trusted. There must be a way to be sure of the maker. It belongs to us to be sure. It belongs to you to trust. Another day, perhaps, we'll tell you how we know the inside of these things. You see here a long array of sofas and chairs not only upholstered, but actually covered with costly stuffs. A roomful besides of other stuffs. It isn't common to buy these things with any sense of sureness. The softness and spring may come of something else than steel and curled hair. They may flatten out in twelvemonth. In the higher range of upholstery you are scarcely willing to buy by what you can see and feel.

The more difficult part is the getting together of shapes enough and styles enough: for all this getting has got to be paid for. The things of last year must be gone. A swift current of trade makes everything easy.

How many shapes of tables and chairs do you think? We could fill this building no two alike. Of all the crooked ways of putting pieces of wood together the table maker seems to have discovered most; the chair-maker next; the cabinet-maker not far behind.

In short we have a ready-made stock of furniture, much of it such as people pay twice-over for having it made to order; and we make to order besides.

Some may get the impression that we deal in nothing but costly wares. By no means. The humbler wares are not so various. A little space is enough for them. This acre or more is mostly filled with costly work; but the plainest of things are here.

We would be ashamed to have this store a less good place for the the things of the poor than for those of the rich. Was it made by the rich? Are there so many rich in this comfortable city of ours as to fill such a store as this? It's an everybody's store. We hope the time when we shall really need to advertise for the trade of the poor is very far off indeed.

We have every sort of furniture a poor man can buy; and we sell it so that he needn't get into the hands of sharpers.
