Col. James M. McCarter, of Preston was seriously injured in Easton last week. He was in his carriage to go home, and when near the railroad station the horse became frightened and ran away. Colonel McCarter could not control him, and the animal ran the vehicle with great force, against a box car, throwing the Colonel's head against the side of the car and dragging him in that position its whole length. When clear of the car he fell to the ground. He was badly wounded about the face and head.

The Fruit Prospects.

The Delaware peach-growers appear divided in their opinions concerning the peach crop. Some of the leading growers of upper Sussex county say that there will be a good yield of fruit. They recall that the largest peach crop on the Peninsula was in 1875, and this crop was preceded by a storm similar to that of two weeks ago. Some of the fruit growers of the county state that their peaches were not materially injured by the recent cold snap, and they expect fair crops.

An examination of orchards in this vicinity, shows that the buds injured have about all fallen off, and yet many buds remain. Considerably more than half the buds on the trees have been killed but the original number of buds was unusually large. Some varieties were injured much worse than others, but if the curculio is not unusually active in stinging those that are left there will be some money in the peach crop yet. Other fruits, apples, pears and plums, also show some fruit left. Apples are probably the worst hurt of the three. Some varieties of pears and plums are scarcely injured at all. Abundance plums and Keifer pears are probably the worst injured, and yet there will be some of both if insects do not destroy what the frost has left.

OBITUARY NOTICE.

In loving remembrance of our dear grand-father, John Collins, who departed this life Saturday morning April 9th at the home of his daughter, Mrs. M. E. Noble, near Hynson. He was eighty-five years of age and leaves one son and three daughters to mourn his loss. For the last two years he has been a great sufferer and only his vigorous constitution enabled him so reach his eighty-fifth birthday. But with all his suffering he bore his pain with christian fortitude and died trusting and believing in the Lord. Oh, what a heartache to be conscious of the fact, that the death angel is hovering near to bear our precious ones away, yet, God's will must be done. His constant trust in our Savior entitled him to look forward confident of a heaven'y home. Safe in the arms of Jesus is he is sweetly enjoying the rest which God gives to His chosen ones. God's own word says, "precious in My sight is the death of My saints."

You are not forgotten, grand-pa dear,
Nor will you ever be,
For as long as life and memory lasts,
We will remember thee.

And yet no voice, no whisper,
Comes floating down from thee,
To tell us what glad wonders,
There was in store for thee.

Grand-daughter, ANNIE.

Death of Mrs. Addie F. Nuttle.

Mrs. Addie F. Nuttle, wife of Mr. William B. Nuttle, living near Andersontown, died on Monday from a complication of diseases; aged 44 years. She had been a great sufferer for several months past and bore her affliction with christian submission, yielding to the Divine will. Mrs. Nuttle was known and recognized as a christian example, one worthy of emulation who merited and received the highest praise from her friends and neighbors. By her death the home has met a great loss and the church and community a zealous worker and a good neighbor. She was the daughter of Mr. Elias W. Williamson, a well-to-do farmer near Williston. Four sons and a daughter survive her. The funeral was held at her late home Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Burial took place at Concord.

Is This a Sample of Delaware?

A Millsboro correspondent to a Wilmington paper says: "An oil tank wagon, while driving through Millsboro last week spread consternation among a number of people, who believed that some enemy had invaded the country and was preparing for hostilities. The tank, which is one of the regulation oil carrying vehicles which are used for conveying oil to the different towns, appeared on the street at a time when a number of residents of the swamp near Millsboro were in town. They had never seen anything of the kind and, upon making inquiry, were informed by a practical joker that it was a Spanish weapon of war and that hostilities were about to be commenced. They were unsuspecting, and, believing what was told them, fled to the swamps without much ceremony."

If this is a sample of the material that Delaware is putting into her State militia, we are afraid Uncle Sam will have to look further for soldiers. We also have heard from Lewes, and they are all ready to evacuate at any time—even the rumble of thunder scares them to the woods. We have always had a better opinion of the Diamond state than this and hope they will redeem themselves before the war scare is over.

The Treasury System for Queen Anne's.

Among the local laws passed for our neighboring county is one to substitute the Caroline county treasury system for the old district system in the collection and disbursment of county taxes. The act provides that the county commissioners shall appoint a treasurer to serve until the next general election — November 1899—on and after which time it becomes an elective office. The salary is fixed at twenty-two hundred dollars a year, the treasurer to furnish his clerical force should he need any. Among the other local bills passed is one fixing the salary of the Queen Anne's county commissioners. There was strong opposition to the measure among the many who feared political misfortune as a consequence. It only needs a trial, however; a few years faithful execution of the measure will so thoroughly demonstrate its superiority over the district plan that there will be no advocates of a return to the old. The only thing we do not understand about the Queen Anne's act is that the Treasurer's salary is put $400 higher than Caroline's.

A Sword Seen in the Heavens.

Shortly after noon Thursday the attention of the citizens of Centreville was called to a mysterious looking cloud that was seen high in the heavens. It reached almost from horizon to horizon from west to east. It looked almost exactly like a sword unsheathed with edge toward the south and point turning north. The blade was a perfect imitation of a sword while the hilt was not so perfect. The Record in its issue of March 12th published an article entitled "The Great War Star," which contained the following paragraph: "The war of the rebellion was presaged in many years. Some years before came what is known as the falling of stars. This portentious vision was followed by a roaring comet, which swept across the skies from North to South. But the most direful sight of all was seen in the winter of '61 shortly before the commencement of hostilities between the North and the South. One night in January a great sword was seen over the moon. Its sharp edge was turned toward the earth and its point seemed to be dripping blood. It was seen only one night, but its weird prophecy was fulfilled to the grief of the nation.—Centreville Record.

War Preparations at Lewes.

Acting under orders received from the United States Goverment, the Pennsylvania railroad official began, last Friday, the construction of a mile and a half of railroad track, to connect the Delaware, Maryland & Virginia railroad with the iron pier at Lewes, which is owned by the general government. The framework of the government pier is of iron. The planking has become somewhat disarranged, but it is being put in good shape, as is also the remainder of the government property here.

The object in building the connecting link is to run cars up to the pier to make connections with boats, so that the handling of supplies and men, incident to war preparation, may be facilitated.

It was reported that earthworks and fortifications are to be thrown up in the vicinity of the Breakwater, for the protection of the mouth of the bay and the national harbor for coastwise vessels and craft bound for Wilmington and Philadelphia.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Garton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four Doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. Kings New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottels free at Geooge & Redden's. Regular size 50c and $100. Guaranteed or money refunded. 1
