THE recent ballot law passed at the last session of the Delaware legislature seems to have stirred up the Democratic papers of that state in a manner that is peculiar and interesting. One of the catchy phrases in the bill is where it says "it provides for the secrecy and purity of the ballot." The Index says why this bill was given this title is beyond its comprehension. Instead of making the ballot secret and pure, it will have a tendency to have just the opposite effect. The bill contains several features which should they ever become operative, will surely land the Democratic party on the shoal of Addickism. Another objection is that the ballots are allowed outside the workers of the political parties, as demonstrated in times gone by, unwise. It is not necessary for the tickets to be of a uniform size, etc. Again, the Index goes on, we do not know that was done at the instance of an emissary of John E. Addicks, but this fact alone should cast suspicion upon it. Here is where a great deal of the imaginary trouble comes in on this bill. If it isn't an Addicks bill then the Index might think more of it. Or, if the Democratic party could use this law to their advantage then we want it, but if not, and Addicks and his followers are to gain any advantage from it, then the Index don't want it to become a law. In the meantime while this discussion is going on and the Democratic papers are all at sea over it, they want the governor to [illegible] action on it until they [illegible] either or not it is an Addicks measure. The Delawarean is also out commenting on this law and views it from another standpoint and says "just why any sensibly or reasonable man should oppose the law passed or prefer the present expensive and difficult ballot system to the one just passed, is beyond our comprehension." And so it goes with the Democratic papers of the state, [illegible] so long as [illegible] governor takes action on the bill or the party finds out whether or not Addicks has any part in it.

IN the U. S. Senate a few days ago Senator Wolcott's amendment to the war revenue bill, providing for the coinage of the silver seigniorage, was adopted by a vote of 48 yeas to 31 nays. The vote in favor of the amendment was made up as follows: Independent, 1; Populist, 4; Republican, 16; Democrat, 27; total, 48. The negative vote was: Republican, 28; Democrat, 3; total, 31. Only 3 Democrats go on record as being with the administration. The sixteen Republicans who cut loose from their party did so because most of them are from silver states. This vote clearly shows that petty partisan advantage was sought at a time when it was beneath the dignity of any party to take it. It shows clearly, too, that the silver wing never let an opportunity pass to gain advantage, let the cost be what it may. The mere handful of silverites know well the verdict of the American people in '96 when they were sat upon so hard. To call them unlawabiding citizens only partially expresses it. This is no time to take party advantages, of all others. The duty of the Senate at this time is to provide a war revenue measure, and abandon the foolhardy, dog-in-the-manger policy. Wolcott and his followers were the ones who clamored for war, and now that they have it, are the first to cut off revenue measures. The heighth of their ambition in the past has been destruction, and being on the wrong side. The death struggle is usually considered a vigorous one and as the free silver party is in its throws its course need not be surprising at this time.

IN the matter of his uniform, it is hardly likely that Col. Bryan will insist on silver lace in lieu of the regulation adornments of gold —Ex.

Certainly not, neither will he take 47c silver dollars for for his pay in army service, if he does he will act differently from what he did while on his presidential tour, for then he demanded 100 cent dollars for his speeches, and in some cases demanded it in advance, not that he was afraid to trust them; oh, no! but he thought a bird in hand was worth two in the bush. Mr. Bryan would not have his silver followers do as he does but do as he says.

ADMIRAL Dewey's men will get an average of $800 in gold for the excellent work accomplished by them at Manila on Sunday. Ma[illegible] Our other t[illegible] on

THE eight men who took their lives in their hands, led by Lieutenant R. P. Hobson, is one of the most brilliant exploits in naval history, which drove the cork into the bottle at Santiago de Cuba harbor, barred the door and dropped the key into the bottom of the sea. This volunteer crew under cover of the darkness after the moon had set after 3 o'clock Friday morning, ran the big collier Merrimac into the throat of the harbor, swung her broadside across the channel, and then exploded and sank her. This desperate enterprise was accomplished under the fires of the batteries which guard the entrance without support of our fleet. Ensign Powell, of the New York, with a steam launch kept close under the guns of Morro Castle to take off the heroes of the Merrimac, until daylight, without seeing the Merrimac's brave crew, retired to a safer distance. These men are now prisoners of war, as a flag of truce announces, and will be exchanged in due course of time. Their mission, without doubt, was a success. Ensign Powell distinctly saw the spars of the wrecked ship in the middle of the channel, the place selected. Cushing's memorable feat in blowing up the Confederate ram Albemarle, does not compare with Hobson's act, for Cushing's men crept up Albemarle sound at midnight and took them by surprise, while Hobson took his large ship into the mouth of several forts and blew her up at the desired spot. Discovery at the end of his journey was sure, and death probable. Hobson, like Cushing, conceived the idea which made him great. It is said Admiral Sampson and Commodore Schley had ascertained that it would be impossible for the fleet to cross the mines, pass the forts and enter the harbor without blocking the channel. It was then that Hobson conceived the idea of sinking the large collier across the channel. After he had gained permission to make the attempt, ten torpedoes, each containing 82 pounds of gunpowder, were strung along near keel of the Merrimack, and were connected with electric wires that were run in different parts of the ship. The bravery here displayed surpasses that of Commodore Dewey in many respects and has made for himself a name that will do him honor in history.

IN the Wright murder trial at Easton, States Attorney Urie is credited with having said that the murderer and some companions had been to Kennedyville and loaded up with "local option whisky" before committing the crime. It would be interesting to know just what the prosecuting attorney for Kent means by "Local Option" whisky.—Chestertown Transcript.

We should judge that the State's Attorney called their whiskey by its right name when he said "local option whisky." Here it is called "Sweet Cider," and our best citizens seem content to let it go in that way. For several years past this county has had local option laws in force, but drunkeness has prevailed with the low classes to a certain extent. People may be seen most any day going into these "sweet cider" houses sober and go away drunk. The only difference between Kent and Caroline is that our neighbor calls it by its proper name, while we give it a name that sounds a little better to the refined ear, but it is whisky just the same. We take it for granted Kent has'nt a W. C. T. U. or a Prohibition party.

HON. Wm. A. Stone was nominated for governor of Pennsylvania by the Republican State Convention at Harrisburg last Thursday. This is a complete Quay victory and a waterloo for John Wanamaker. He may do very well running Sunday schools and stores or being appointed to government positions, but when it comes to Mr. Wanamaker's running Pennsylvania politics, he isn't in it as doubtless he will find out. Now that he has been whipped at a fair fight for the gubernatorial nomination it remains to be seen whether he will go back on the party that has honored him and given him distinction.

SIXTY days hereafter will constitute a Delaware legislative term, much to the satisfaction of the taxpayers. As the last legislature did pretty much as it pleased; and it pleased to suit itself regardless of others wishes, insomuch that its record for doing nothing is great. It remained in session at Dover until it spent what money there was in the treasury and then borrowed $50,000 more before they could return home. Should the good people of Delaware not need their services any more in this capacity, they, doubtless, are in a position to live without work.

AN ill wind that blows no one any good is a trite saying. While the protracted rains during the spring has had its effect on many crops for injury, it has also had a good effect on others, especially the hay crop. Last year this crop in the United States was valued at $400,000,000, while the current season should far exceed last year's yield.

OREGON has just held her state election and paid the Republican party and its principles a high compliment by a large majority. It was thought that this State did herself justice in the presidential year, but this election surpassed it, clearly demonstrating that that people were in sympathy with the Republican party. At this election a governor and two congressmen were chosen, besides legislative tickets. Counties that gave Bryan a majority in '96, gave Republican pluralities this year. The Republicans conducted their campaign on the gold standard basis, while the Fusionists clung to the exploded idea of free silver. The Orgonian says the Republicans have carried the State by 5,000 majority, and show heavy gains in every county of the State. The Legislature is overwhelmingly Republican, as follows: Senate; Republicans, 23; opposition, 7. House; Republicans, 44; opposition, 16. This will give the silverites something to think about until another State is heard from.

THE grand jury of the United States court on Tuesday, returned indictments against seven prominent citizens of Delaware for aiding Wm. N. Boggs in robbing the Dover bank. The men indicted are Senator R. R. Kennedy, for $23,461.91; J. Frank Allee, $3,604.15; J. R. McGonigal, $2,532.62; Wm. E. Cotter, $1,014.92; Amos Cole, $741.25; Chas. H. Butler $188.25; Harry F. Ford, $115. Bills against John F. Saulsbury, John D. Hawkins and Wm. S. Satterfield were quashed.

THE Delaware legislature passed a law making it lawful for women owning property in the state to vote for the first time in its history, at annual school elections. The election this year will be held 25 inst.

Rudolph Cephas vs. Ann E. Cephas. In the Circuit Court for Caroline County In Equity

The object of this suit is to procure a divorce "a vinculo matrimonii" by the complainant from the respondent. The bill states;

1. That on or about the 9th day of November 1876 he was married to his wife, formully Ann E. Thomas, by the Rev. Charles Ash, in Denton in Caroline County, Maryland, and that he resided with her as husband and wife until some time in the year 1889.

2. That although the conduct of the complainant towards the respondent has always been kind, affectionate and dutiful, she was without any just cause or reason abandoned and deserted him, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for three years, is deliberate and final and the separation beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation.

3. That since the said abandonment and desertion, the complainant is informed, believes and so charges, that the respondent has been guilty of gross acts of adultery and that as a result of said acts of adultery illegitimate children have been born to her.

4. That the said respondent is not a resident of the State of Maryland, but resides in the District of Columbia.

It is thereupon, this 1st day of June, 1898, ordered by the Circuit Court for Caroline County in Equity that the complainant by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper printed and published in Caroline County once in each of four successive weeks before the 2nd day of July 1898, give notice to the said absent respondent of the object and substance of this bill, warning her to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 18th day of July, 1898, to show cause if any she has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.
