UNDER the caption of "the silver flag is flying," the Journal at last emerges from its seclusion since the wheat combination has been broken and takes fresh courage. It has been so long since our neighbor had spoken on the silver question, we had began to think it was hedging. It is very evident, however, the Journal, like other free silver papers, is weakening. Its first utterance is a practical admission that the silver question is dead, for it says "it is claimed by some Democrats of the class that sets the party utterances at naught that the silver question is dead." It is not only Democratic papers that call it a dead issue, but papers and leading men of all parties recognize this fact and say it is used at this time because the party has no live issue to present. The Journal, not unlike the drowning man, grasps at straws, and here is one of them. "Within the past two weeks a liberal number of Republican senators voted with the Democrats to coin the seignorage in the government vaults." The Republican party doesn't recognize silver Republicans, as the Journal calls them, any part of the Replican party, any more than the Democratic party at large recognizes the silver Democrats as the genuine article. The coinage of the silver seignorage in the government vaults, made, owned and redeemed by the government for 100 cent dollars is one thing, but for the silver kings of the West to take 45 to 48 cents worth of silver and have it made in the [illegible] dollar and then ask our [illegible] business men to give them 100 cents for it, is too silly to even consider. The Journal, like others of its kind, says in words the present dollar has too many cents in it but in practice receives these dollars and never thinks of saying to the farmer 45 or 48 cents is my idea of what you should pay for the paper. Journal theory and practice don't mix at all. We told our readers the Journal was on the wrong side of most every State and national issue, and already these predictions are being verified. It is no longer considered wise or expedient to bring this issue up again, but free silver advocates think it will beat nothing. We don't agree with them, however. Another delusion we showed that they were under was the free trade Wilson bill. That word "free" is very dear to the Journal. If it can make an unsuspecting public think the same, it has scored a point. When our contemporary was so willingly comparing the Wilson and the Dingley bills' receipts a while ago, we told it to say its say then for soon it would be a subject it could'nt talk on. For the past few months that paper has found it so, and were its readers compelled to rely on the Journal for tariff news, they would be behind the times. What is true of the way the Journal ignores the tariff news, will sooner or later be said of free silver. It, too, will be an unmentionable subject, and the headings we now see like the "Silver Flag is Flying," will be seen no more.

WHEN it comes to voting, the Republicans of this county have a fairly good turn out on election day, but when responsible positions are to be filled, the Executive is obliged to make his selections from the Democratic ranks.—Centreville Observer.

Here is another exhibition of political bigotry. The papers of that faith used to say the Republicans couldn't run the State, but the voters thought they could and put the reins their hands and it has been demonstrated that they can, and on a more economical basis. There is a great deal of ignorance in Queen Anne's county and it is very evident the Observer thinks so. Let us come a little nearer home and say that was at one time the doctrine of the Democratic papers of this county, but they "presumed on the credulity of their readers" too long and got left. If our neighboring county would profit by the lessons taught her by the State at large, it would be wiser and richer soon. We hope it will not always be with our neighbor as it is at present.

THE pay of members of the Delaware Legislature is $300 per term of two years. Very few men are economical enough to get rich on that sort of a salary.—Journal.

Indeed! but when they can sell out on almost any kind of a bill for three or four times the amount of their salary, don't that look different to the Journal?

DELAWARE democracy is becoming alarmed at the fact that the two factions of the Republican party are getting together. They realize the strength of the party when united. It has been arranged in each of the three counties to submit a joint list to the respective registration boards of men from whom are to be chosen the Republican members of the various registration bodies in the several districts. Not only are the Republicans of Delaware gratified, but other States also rejoice with her. One of the leading papers of that State is elated over the prospects and says the conditions are such that at the election in November a Republican majority will be piled up in the state and in nearly every legislative district. The Republican party has a clear majority in Delaware and that majority should be made effective. The Democratic party is rent and torn over the currency question, as well as along other lines. The election in Oregon has demonstrated the general trend of public opinion, and the fight was made by the Republicans on a platform declaring for the gold standard, won with majorities far greater than have been piled up by the party for many years. No side issues were injected into the campaign and upon a sound money basis alone the state was carried by the Republicans. What is true in Oregon will apply with equal force to several other state that will hold elections this fall. The currency question is not yet settled. Free silver theorists are still hopeful that something to their advantage will yet turn up. The Republican party is perfectly willing that they should bring this issue up again this year and make a test case of it in State elections. It has been tested as a national issue with disasterous results and if we can judge anything from the Oregon election, the silver issue this year will be a greater failure than ever. The public is learning the meaning of free silver, which is not in its favor at all.

STATE'S Attorney Urie for Kent county, uttered a few words about the "local option whisky" while in Easton that has been largely circulated and commented upon. The State's Attorney attended the annual county convention of the W. C. T. U. and when asked to explain why the speak-easy and illicit whisky have continued to hang on with such persistency in his local option county said: "The most practical way to break up these vile places is to make a personal appeal to our judges for improved juries, for it is through the State's Attorney, constables and juries that the law is enforced. In many instances the jurymen and sheriff work together to save these violators, so that it is impossible to convict them. Witnesses are given notice and leave before the case comes to trial, etc." For some time past there has been much speculation on the subject in this county and the responsibility for the violation of the law has been variously placed. We partially agree with Kent's State's Attorney in placing the responsibility on the jury and think they could do better than they do in many cases. Some censure the State's Attorney for these violations. The responsibility doesn't rest here. Before he can act the grand jury must give him something to work on. Back of these is the Court and public sentiment. The latter especially is the prime mover in the whole thing. When that is thoroughly aroused something will be accomplished, and that speedily. Everything must have a starting point.

ANOTHER "war revenue" speech and the Long-despised Senator Gorman will be a gold bug idol. His erstwile detractors are already tempering the wind to the shorn lamb. —Chestertown Transcript.

Who would have thought that such papers as the Transcript could be induced to lay aside the pride of their heart and their State idol in a few short months? The shining light of Maryland democracy has seen the evil of his way and cut loose from dead issues. We are not sure but that these free silver advocates think as Senator Gorman does on this subject, but they have not the courage of their conviction in tempering the wind to the shorn lamb.

SENATOR R. R. Kenney has been indicted by the grand jury as being in the Boggs case. There seems to be a movement to get all the leading Democrats in the State in this matter. There is not one of Senator Kenney's friends who believe that he is guilty and he will prove to the satisfaction of all, when the time comes, that he is entirely innocent. His account in the bank is straight and the only charge against him is that he loaned Boggs his check. Time will tell why so many innocent Democrats have been dragged into this Bogg case, and why certain parties wish them prosecuted.—Seaford News.

The democratic press began some weeks ago to send out protests against punishing Bogg's accomplices, and the greatest excuse they offer is that they are Democrats. We have, as yet, to see the first Republican paper offer such a flimsy excuse for Boggs, or any others implicated in it. In this matter we must say the Republican press has shown better judgment. The law considers Senator Kenney, and the six others, innocent until they are tried. The News, or any other paper, has a right to pronounce any sentence on these men at this time, to say nothing of bad taste here displayed. It is very evident those papers have their misgivings for their friends' ability to disentangle themselves from the net already around them, hence the cause for alarm at this time. Again the News exclaims that "there is a movement to get all the leading Democrats in the State in this matter." If we are to take this for what it says the better class of Democrats of the Diamond State must be praying for a general shaking up of dry bones.

SPANISH LOSSES.

The war with Spain has now been running along for a month and a half. Barring the battle of Manila there has been no serious engagement between fleets of the two nations, the work of the American warships in the Cuban waters being largely confined to smashing of forts and other work preparatory to the invasion of the island and the capture of the Spainish strongholds. This work has no doubt been well done, and Admiral Sampson still keeps hammering away at the forts near Santago. By the time he is finished them, they will be a mass of ruine, the capture of which ought to prove very easy task.

Admiral Dewey's great work at Manila took away from Spain just about one-half of her navy. Eleven warships belonging to the dons were in that battle and all were either sunk or burned by the Spainards to prevent their capture. Two other smaller vessels were captured later on, so that altogether Spain lost thirteen ships in that one engagement. There were bottled up in Santiago four cruisers and two torpedo boat destroyers, which are looked upon as about the best vessels that Spain has left. One of these cruisers, the Renia Mercedes has been sunk in that harbor by shots from the American ships, so that there remains but three of these fighters. These are rendering no service to Spain now, and it is not likely they ever will again. They are in a horbor, the enterance of which is blocked, are being watched by a huge fleet of splendin vessels, and their escape from either destruction or surrender is utterly impossible. As a reserve fleet at home or at Cadiz or somewhere else, Spain has now probably only three vessels, outside of a few auxiliary ships, that could be of any use to her or that could be sent across the Alantic, with a fair chance of not going to the bottom before they got here. So, in reality Spain's navy now consists of five bottled-up vessels at Santiago and a little fleet nearer home, which is not likely to take part at all in the war, unless Uncle Sam decides to send a squadron across the Atlantic to take it in.

Spain's policy of prevarication in regard to every engagement makes it almost impossible to estimate the loss of life on her side. In the battle of Manila the most reliable reports show that two hundred were killed on the ships, nearly the same number in the forts and fully six hundred wounded. The losses in the Cuban cities and at San Juan cannot well be estimated, but there are several hundred more. Altogether it is likely that Spain has lost a thousand men or very near that number so far.

On the American side, had it not been for the perilous undertaking of the Winslow under the guns at Cardenas there would hardly have been a life lost. Eight men were captured from the Merrimac and are now prisoners of war. Two naval officers high in rank have died in the service since the war began. The Winslow was badly damaged, and the Merrimac, a collier, sunk for a specific purpose. Barring these, not a vessel in the United States navy has been hurt. Spain's navy is already hors du combat, and it will not be long before her army in Cuba is in the same condition.

Order of Publication.

Rudolph Cephas vs. Ann E. Cephas. In the Circuit Court for Caroline County In Equity

The object of this suit is to procure a divorce "a vinculo matrimonii" by the complainant from the respondent. The bill states;

1. That on or about the 9th day of November 1876 he was married to his wife, formully Ann E. Thomas, by the Rev. Charles Ash, in Denton in Caroline County, Maryland, and that he resided with her as husband and wife until some time in the year 1889.

2. That although the conduct of the complainant towards the respondent has always been kind, affectionate and dutiful, she was without any just cause or reason abandoned and deserted him, and that such abandonment has continued uninteruptedly for three years, is deliberate and final and the separation beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation.

3. That since the said abandonment and desertion, the complainant is informed, believes and so charges, that the respondent has been guilty of gross acts of adultery and that as a result of said acts of adultery illegitimate children have been born to her.

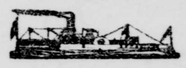

4. That the said respondent is not a resident of the State of Maryland, but resides in the District of Columbia.

It is thereupon, this 1st day of June, 1898, ordered by the Circuit Court for Caroline County in Equity that the complainant by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper printed and published in Caroline County once in each of four successive weeks before the 2nd day of July 1898, give notice to the said absent respondent of the object and substance of this bill, warning her to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 18th day of July, 1898, to show cause if any she has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.
