was last week when it attempted to tell its readers that the $15,000 debt made by Democratic mismanagement belongs to the Republican commissioners who have been in office only a few months. Who ever heard of a more silly statement to shift responsibility? It made no attempt to explain this shortage, but was content with making faces at the UNION and calling it names, as though such childish actions would explain away a $15,000 shortage to the satisfaction of the tax payers. We have shown the Democratic leaders of this town and county up on several other occasions and immediately the Journal would take it up, not to deny it, but the same old dodge has been tried with the same result as in this case; to get out from the responsibility of it by saying it belongs to the Republicans. As we have said it explains nothing, but on the other hand makes admissions that are damaging to its case, if it has any. It has also run to words that are meaningless and express nothing. In one or two instances only, it even approaches near an explanation why this $15,000 exists, but that is wide of the mark. It refers to the new Dover bridge as that might be the principal reason for this shortage and says the UNION favored it a while ago. So we did and said enough had been paid out on repairs to have a new bridge. Had this been done the $4,500, with $500 more for work not included in the contract, would have been avoided, and the taxpayers relieved of this $4,500 debt and over. But to attempt to say that this Dover bridge expense account even belongs to last ye[illegible]ry, shows ignorance on the part of the Journal, as the bridge was not contracted for until late in the spring, and is still unfinished, so therefore not a dollar of this shortage can be traced to this source. The next excuse the Journal offers for this shortage is the increase of 15½ cents on the new levy. This likewise has nothing to do with the $15,000, only that the increase here is largely due to other debts the old boards have left behind. By increasing the levy at this time shows that the commissioners propose pay off the debts as quickly and easily as possible for the tax payers, and also to put the county again on a clear footing. This board of commissioners have already made several reductions from former Democratic rules; one of which we will mention, where the old boards have paid the Journal and company $700 a year for county printing, the new board has cut it down to $500, which is ample for the work, yet the Journal wants to deceive the unsuspecting tax payer and palm its party off as reformers. What it wants above all else is to get its hands again on the county's purse and sweeten its labor with reward. It is not surprising that the Journal, turned out as it is, and looking over the bars should sigh: "What peaceful hours I once enjoyed, their memories haunt me still, etc." Now if the Journal realy wants to do the tax payers of this county a favor, let it explain why this $15,000 shortage exists and what has gone with the money. Don't attempt to evade the question by hiding behind the new board. The Auditors have gone over the accounts of the old Democratic board and here is where this shortage is found, they say. Now let the Journal speak out and tell why it is so. For full (?) particulars see Journal this week.'

THE names of either Dewey or Schley would ornament any Democratic ticket.—Centreville Observer.

Yes, that's true, but where would the honor come in for either Dewey or Schley?

to champion the dead issue. These papers don't favor any issue after they find that it is a losing one. During the last campaign the Major was looked up to as a leader—now he is frowned upon by these papers for the same views. As yet the party is without a platform or an issue for this fall.

DR. Isaac A. Barber is not a candidate for Congress in the Frst district. He so declared his position to a representative of the Baltimore American. Though the rumor has been current for several weeks, based on the prophecy made, the very fact that Dr. Barber continued to fight for the control of his county delegation led many to believe that he was still a factor in the contest.—American.

If the American is correct in its statement that Dr. Barber is no longer a candidate for Congress, this removes the strongest candidate on the Eastern Shore from the contest. He would be a winner a if he can be induced to take the nomination.

THE Journal is still on the fence waiting for Chairman Vandiver to find an issue for this fall. They will soon have a candidate in this district but no platform to put him on. As soon as the Journal gets instructions from headquarters it will jump down from its lofty perch, get into the Democratic band wagon and play as vigorously as though it had a winning issue. All it knows at present is that it is a "Democrat," but what kind it knows not.

THE Republican party is making peace abroad and war at home.—Ex.

It is making a little too much war at home on the Democratic party for their comfort.

SUNDAY AT WYE CAMP.

A colored camp meeting is in progress at Wye, in Queen Anne's county. A boycott was formed against the camp committee, and consequently no Methodist Episcopal ministers are at the camp. The trouble arose several weeks ago over certain privileges to be allowed on the ground on Sunday. At the last session of the conference the ministers passed a resolution not to attend any camp that allowed unnecessary articles to be sold on Sunday. This year the committee wanted to grant unlimited privileges. The congregation was divided. The pastors in charge of the camp published notices that they would have nothing to do with the services. The committee published a notice that the meetings would be conducted by them independent of the Methodist ministers. The congregation threatened to withhold the pastors' salary, but no avail. The presiding elder on that district notified all the preachers under him not to attend any session of the camp. The camp has been in progress several days, but no Methodist ministers have been present. Most of the services have been conducted by a local preacher. Sunday excursions were run from Philadelphia, Baltimore and all parts of Delaware. Large numbers were present from Baltimore. It is said some 25 passenger coaches passed this depot on Sunday loaded with excursionists for the camp.

At Wye colored camp Sunday morning, a little after 8 o'clock, James Green, colored, walked into a crowd on the outskirts of the camp and began to shoot, one of the bullets taking effect on William Coleman, colored.

James Green is a negro from Church Hill, Queen Anne's county. As he drew his pistol and began shooting he said he would kill some black — before night. The words were no sooner out of his mouth than Coleman fell wounded. The ball entered his right chest, just below the colar-bone, and took a course across his body. The negroes all agreed not to tell who did the shooting and decided to send Coleman to Centreville for medical treatment by James Green, the man who handled the dangerous weapon.

The wound was dressed and Coleman was sent to his home, in Church Hill. He is seventeen years of age,

000 visitors were on the grounds
during the day.

Shortly after midnight Saturday some one arrived on the ground selling whisky, and as soon as the negroes got a taste of this "fighting whisky" trouble began. They "scrapped" from 1 o'clock Sunday morning until a late hour in the evening when the larger part of the crowd left the grounds. The greater part of those who caused the trouble are non-residents of the county, a number of them residing in Baltimore and Philadelphia. One negro was very badly cut, but he was carried away before the officers heard it, and, as with others, the colored people refused to tell who he was or who did the cutting.

MATTERS OF INTEREST.

Arthur S. Walls, son of Mr. Samuel G. Walls, of Sudlersville, has been appointed to the vacant scholarship in Washington College, Chestertown, by the Judges of the Orphans' Court for Queen Anne's county.

The President has appointed the following postmasters for Delaware: Wilmington----Hugh C. Browne, Milford---William V. Sipple.

The total wheat yield on the Mc Kenney estate, in Queen Anne's county, for this year was 62,056 bushels, against 97,000 bushels last year. All of the crops with the exception of 2,000 bushels, is still in the hands of the administrators.

The John Carey farm, 200 acres on Corsica river, was sold to S. R. Hurlock for $15.20 per acre.

John A. Vansant, aged twenty-two years, of Ingleside, Queen Anne's county, died of appendicitis. He was buried from the Methodist Episcopal church, Templeville.

The next election in Delaware will be of unusual importance, as several officers not heretofore elective will be filled by the vote of the people. In addition, the first Legislature under the new Constitution will be chosen, under the district system.

It is estimated that from seventy-five to eighty carloads of Kieffer pears will be shipped from the Eastern Shore peninsula this season, as against twice that amount last year.

Fisherman report that the man-eater sharks are playing havoc with rock fishing at the Narrows. These sharks are said to be very numerous in the bay this year and one it caught every day or so by the bay fisherman.

The dwelling of Joseph Richardson, near Queen Anne, was struck by lightning and greatly damaged. A valuable horse was also killed.

They Still Explain.

The following explanation is taken from a Centreville paper, where they are kept busy explaining discrepencies and deficencies. As almost any kind of an explanation goes there, here is one of them. "Why was the tax rate increased ten cents this year has been frequently asked. The following reason is given: During the last fiscal year the expenses of the county amounted to $6,000 more than it was estimated they would be, and with an extra appropriation of of $3,500 to build a male school in Centreville, the amount above the the usual expenses, was made to reach $9,500. Our taxable basis is a little on $8,000,000, and in order to raise $9,500 from a basis of this size it requires a tax rate of nearly twenty cents, but the increase over last year is but ten. In other words had not this extra expense been incurred, our rate would have been lowered instead of increased."

Cervera Pays War Tax.

The adage that the "law is a respecter of no person" was demonstrated at the Farmers and Merchants' National Bank, in Annapolis, when Admiral Cervera, commander of the late Spanish squadron, was compelled to lick and fasten an internal revenue stamp on a check which he deposited in that bank, for $7,000 which was forwarded to the Merchants' National Bank of Baltimore and by them sent on to Portsmouth, N. H, where the money was to be used in paying off Spanish prisoners confined there. After the Admiral had affixed the stamp he was requested to cancel it, which he did by placing his initials across the face of the war tax stamp.

The Admiral returned this afternoon from Portsmouth, N. H., in good spirits.
