DENTON, MARYLAND.

Thursday, Sept. 15 1898.

A dyed-in-the-wool Democratic paper soliloquizes thus on a wind cattle it has built (in its mind) of great success. It says: 1st. That the district is naturally Democratic. 2d. Dr. Barber went in on a tidal wave. 3d. That the Democratic majority last year was a normal one. 4th. That John Walter Smith is a strong candidate and a hustler.

Editors of this district are naturally putting forth their best showing, and if this is one of them, what do you think of their poorest? All of its appeals are to passions and prejudices of men. It tells of the past and clings to dead issues because it has no live ones to offer. It did nothing for State or nation when in power and therefore it must come before the public empty handed; yes more than that, not even a platform for this campaign. With the Republican party it is different. While the Democratic administration failed to raise enough revenue by $262,000,000 to run the government the four years of power, the Republican party in the eighteen months of power has remedied these evils and today there is the largest gold reserve ever known in the history of this country, and was put there without hardships to its people. We have just passed through the most successfully managed war known in history, besides rekindling fires in idle mills and furnaces and re-employing laboring men who were tramping this country over begging for bread. These are not all that has been done but will suffice as a pointer. Let the intelligent voter, regardless of past political affiliations, ask himself how he can best promote his own interests and the welfare of his country. Let him ask himself which is the poor man's party and various other questions of a similar nature and then he will begin to show an independent spirit that should characterize every voter. Think and act for yourself. Demand that your candidate should be more than "a nice man." They are good as far as they go; but business men are what we want in office. Let every inteligent voter of this district carefully consider the past and present of the two parties before he casts his vote next November.

For years past it has been customary for the grand jury to recommend a new jail at this place. This recommendation has been so often presented to the public, it has lost its effect and is considered of but little importance. All this time the jail has been becoming weaker, until it is a little better than nothing. A fortnight ago two men broke jail with but little effort. Last Friday night one of the same prisoners and another man broke from the same cell, and this time used only a jack knife to accomplish their purpose. It is unnecessary at this time to dwell on the importance of a new county jail, and therefore in behalf the citizens of the county would urge that the Commissioners give this matter immediate attention. To attempt to repair it would be time and money wasted, as past experience teaches. The patching process has proved expensive in the majority of cases in this county. Over a quarter of a century ago this jail was condemned and a new one recommended, but that is all that has been done along this line. Notwithstanding the fact that the tax payers are heavily burdened, it will be policy for them to do well what they attempt. This improvement has been deferred so many times that now it is almost a necessity.

It has been the custom of the Journal to give publicity to a person after he changes his political faith, but is as silent as the grave about its own change. Can it be that the Journal thinks its own obituary wouldn't be of interest to the public or is it policy? Be the reason what it may, the conversion seems complete. It used to break out every little while and tell its readers "the silver flag was flying," but all such as that has ceased to be. It swallowed a gold-bug in less than two days after the Ocean City convention, and there it stopped and is content to tell its readers what the public all know; that he is a nice man. Newspaper readers generally like to be told something else about a candidate than that which goes without saying—what they don't know is usually preferable reading to what they do. We imagine it will take lots of pluck to make a clear breast of the whole affair, but after it does it will have more freedom with the quill.

WHEN the Republicans got control of the 55th congress they promised to replace the Wilson low tariff bill with one that would raise sufficient revenue to run the government, and the Dingley bill was the result. Now the Republican press tells us that the war stamp will be continued in force even after the war is ended, because the Dingley bill does not raise revenue enough for government expenses.—Easton Ledger.

For a newspaper to indulge in such talk as the above, shows lots of powder and no shot. The Republican press (and Democratic too) said the Wilson bill was a failure, but the reputable Democratic papers don't say that of the Dingley bill. After this bill got into good working shape it paid the expenses of the government and was laying up something besides. If this bill is the failure claimed by the small-fry press, where does all this money come from that is in the U. S. treasury? At this time we have over $232,000,000 in gold, the highest mark yet reached, and still the little Democratic press attempts to cry down this money getter. Such procedure shows an intimation to be unfair. Out of the abundance of money on hand the Secretary of the Treasury wants to redeem $14,000,000 of the outstanding bonds. Don't look as though Uncle Sam was very poor, does it? As to the other charge it is no less silly than the first. It did not go into effect until a short time before the war closed; hence to repeal it at this time would be unwise, to say the least. The Secretary of the Treasury wants this war tax to do that for which it was intended; pay off the war debt. It is working no hardships on any class, as the bulk of this money comes out of the rich, yet the Ledger and other papers of its class want the luxuries of life to go free. This is simply a dodge these papers are attempting to play. They have neither a live issue to offer the public this year or a past record that will hold its own weight; therefore it is not surprising to see them pursuing the dog-in-the-manger tactics.

The Cecil News has made a discovery and says its party has nominated Mr. Smith for Congress, and the Republicans Mr. Mudd, of the Fifth district, and has endeavored to make a pun of it, by saying the candidate will be mud on election day. Conservative Democratic papers say Mudd's chances for election is good, while the odds are greatly against Smith. The Democrats are dependent on Queen Anne's to elect him, and their own party say unless their financial trouble is satisfactorily adjusted they can't hold their county in line. Again, the free silver wing of the party is rebelling against being ignored. Either of these dissentions would be sufficient to insure defeat of their candidate. If the convention which meets today at Ocean City are wise and put a good candidate in the field, present indications point strongly to his election. The Democratic party have no issue at this time and nothing to recommend their candidate to the public only on past issues. They have repudiated their '96 platform and stand shoulder to shoulder with the Republicans so far as the platform goes. The outlook for success in this district is assuring for the Republicans if no mistakes are made. Caroline is in line and promises to do for the next Republican Congressman what she did for Dr. Barber two years ago. McKinleyism and Republicanism is just as popular in Caroline as elsewhere, and the voters will show their love for it at the ballot box this fall.

Major Wm. E. Stewart, of Easton, had a long letter in the Baltimore Sun last week, addressed to the Democratic National and Congressional Comittee, and says in part: "The Chicago platform is the supreme law of the Democratic party, and puts some pertinent questions to them." He wants to know if the Ocean City convention had a right to repudiate the party platform and says: "For more than thirty years I have been a loyal supporter of the Democratic party, and without a scratch have voted the straight ticket. Yet, now, as never before, am I and thousands of consistent Democrats, forced to face a pitiable and seemingly impossible complication. We were and are firm believers in the supporters of the Chicago platform, and I had the honor of canvassing the State for Bryan. We can neither ignore nor change our principles for policy's sake; the golden harvest is success! the right and title of a gold-standard representative in Congress. Out of the depths of this miserable environment we orthodox Democrats of the First Congressional district appeal to Democratic authority—our national platform—for Congress."

With free silverites like Major Stewart, W. Willis, Esq., and others, demanding that the Chicago platform shall be recognized, means trouble for those who deserted their former faith and allegiance to free and unlimited coinage.

The result of the Maine election is satisfactory to the Republicans.

A Democratic correspondent of this place to the Baltimore Sun says: "When this county was put on a cash basis some eighteen years ago by the sale of $20,000 of bonds, and it was also provided that a sinking fund should be created for the redemption of the bonds at a certain time. Every year there was included in the levy a thousand dollars for this sinking fund and nearly enough money was levied for this fund to meet the indebtedness. The fact remained, however, that the money was never actually set apart and the sinking fund was merely a name. The money to meet the several recesses of amount expended over amount levied for several items had to come from some source, and moneys intended and levied for a sinking fund went to meet these new exigencies. The report shows that the indebtedness, both bonded and floating, now reaches about $70,000."

Comment here is unnecessary as the above shows. Let the tax payers, irrespective of party lines, ponder the subject of county finances, and they will readily see that mismanagement has been apparent. The Union will shortly publish the county levy for the past year.

With this issue the Union completes its forty-second year. During these years there has been many and varied experiences it has had to deal with, but has met them all and handled them in an inteligent manner. This paper has always been a staunch advocate of Republican principles believing it to be the party that must advance and develop this nation. During the past it has stood for reforms along all lines and today it is at the same thing, and as the public know and appreciate what it has done along these lines, it is unnecessary to dwell on them at this time, other than to say the past is an index that points to the future. The Union has past its youthful days and is in the vigor of manhood and will continue to stand for the right as we see it.

The Democratic papers of Delaware remind one of a clam at low water, says the Harrington Record. Their mouths are clinched and their tongues frozen. They say hush, don't say a word, there is no issue this time. Well, you wait and see.

This oversensative journal apparently stands alone for free silver this fall in the Diamond state. Even the Smyrna Call is beginning to wane on the white metal. Talbot is the banner county for the white metal this fall and it might be profitable for the Record to turn its attention to that field.

The Easton Ledger says there is no rot connected with John Walter's nomination at Ocean City. Who said there was but the silver Democrats? They were at the convention, got on the merry-go-round and had an opportunity to see the whole proceedings. Republicans are not condemning this nomination as it pleases them too well. If their own party call it a rotton convention, it surely must have some decaying matter somewhere close by.

MATTERS OF INTEREST.

The condition of Hon. Thomas F. Bayard is gradually growing worse, and it is thought he can't survive.

The stream which supplies the Centreville reservoir is running low and the town, it is said, is threatened with a water famine.

A patriotic 'bus driver at Easton has painted on the front end of one of his 'buses the inscription: "Remember the Maine."

J. H. C. Watts, of Belair, has sold to Robert I. Dawson the Ingleside farm in Bolingbroke, Trappe district Talbot county, 177 acres, for $14,000.

Successful experiments are being made in St. Mary's county in raising figs. They grow large and are well flavored. Housekeepers have a regular season for preserving them, just as with peaches and grapes.

Caroline county game law.—November 1st to February 1st, partridges. February 1st to July 4th, woodcocks. January 1st to September 20th, rabbits. April 1st to September 10th, wild ducks. March 15th to December 1st muskrats. Unlawful for non-residents not owning land to gun without a license.

Thomas Helsby, a highly repected citizen of East Newmarket, died very suddenly Sunday morning of heart failure. He had been a druggist in East Newmarket for a number of years. A widow survives him.

The Delaware Supreme Court has sustained the decision of the lower court, which imposed sentence of death upon Rev. William H. Fisher, the negro preacher of Wilmington, charged with breaking into the house of Mrs. Maria Hunt, of that city, at night, for the purpose of committing a felonious assault. Fisher has been sentenced to be hanged on October 7.

QUEEN ANNE'S AROUSED.

A large crowd of taxpayers assembled in Centreville on Tuesday of last week, to perfect arrangements for having the Queen Anne's county finance matter looked into. The people are fully aroused and demand that an investigation shall be made at once, otherwise the banner county of the Eastern Shore will fail to fall in line this fall. Among other influential citizens and large taxpayers present were the following: C. Carroll Tilghman, William Collins, Thomas F. Shortall, Z. R. Collins, Frank A. Barlett, Alfred Green, P. T. Forman, Israel Woodring, H. C. Norman, C. W. Butler, Edward Butler, J. Louis Rhodes, Richard Carmichael, George Davidson, Sr., John Dodd, Thomas Dodd, Edwin H. Brown and scores of others. These citizens came to Centreville for no other purpose other than to have an investigation of the county finances. At 1 o'clock they assembled in the office of John Dodd and elected Mr. George Davidson, chairman. The following committee was appointed to wait on the county commissioners: C. Carroll Tilghman, H. C. Norman and County Treasurer J. Louis Rhodes. This committee was instructed to say to the commissioners that the taxpayers of the county deemed it advisable to have an experi accountant to examine the books of the county so the people would know the exact condition of the county affairs. The county commissioners said they were willing and ready for any committee of taxpayers to conduct an investigation and offered their services and the services of their clerk, as long they were needed, but stated that they were not willing to appropriate the people's money to pay an expert for the purpose of satisfying the desires of the delegation, who the commissioners said, did not represent over one-tenth of the taxpayers of the county. The delegation was not satisfied with the result of the visit and again instructed their committee to tell the commissioners that nothing but an examination by an expert would satisfy the people. The delegation appointed Edwin H. Brown, ex-State treasurer, chairman of a committee to conduct the investigation with an expert. Mr. Brown asked that J. Fletcher Rolph, cashier of the Centreville National Bank, and Eugene Penington, cashier of the Queen Anne's National Bank, be appointed on the committee with him. This was done and the names were handed to the commissioners, but they refused to employ an expert. Mr. George, one of the commissioners, said he had utmost confidence in the ability of Mr. Brown, and thought he and his committee should examine the books. Mr. Brown, stated that he had not the time nor had any other taxpayer to devote to this work. Finally the commissioners told the committee that they would consider their request for an expert and report to them next Tuesday. The form of a petition was distributed for general circulation in the county for signatures asking for an appropriation to pay the expert. There was not a republican in the whole of the taxpayers' delegation. During the contest between them and the commissioners, a large crowd of men gathered about the courthouse and much excitement prevailed. Commissioner George wanted the delegation to wait till after January 1, but the people want to know how the county was run during the first six months of this year. Mr. Edwin H. Brown said: This matter is of vital importance to the Democratic party. If there is any failure to make satisfactory explanations, it will mean the defeat of the party in Queen Anne's." Mr. George Davidson, who was chairman of the delegation, is an ex-county commissioner, and also an ex-judge of the Orphans' Court. He said: "It is simply an outrage the way the taxpayers of this county are being imposed upon. Not only has our tax basis been increased, but our tax rate has been increasing until now it is $1 on the $100." He made other charges of a more serious nature.

William H. Fox of Cambridge has organized a theatrical stock company and has mapped out a circuit of the Eastern Shore towns which he will play during the season. Thespia will reign high in this part of the State this winter. But the walking isn't bad the troupe won't go far from home.
