REPUBLICAN MASS - MEETING.

A Grand Mass Meeting will be held in Denton on

THURSDAY NOV. 3 '98,

at 1 o'clock, p. m. Senator Geo. L. Wellington, Hon. George R. Gaither, Jr., of Baltimore; Hon. Thomas Parran, of Calvert county, and other prominent speakers will be present and address the meeting. Let all persons, irrespective of party, be present and hear the live issues of the day discussed.

A BRASS BAND WILL BE IN ATTENDANCE.

THE Republican newspaper in this town has lost no opportunity to laud the "consistency and democracy" of the cecceders from the Democratic ranks, and to eulogize the speakers who are on the stump in his behalf. —Journal.

Let us look for a moment at the pinched and cramped attitude of this political weathervane. Two years ago it left the rank and file of its party principles and tied up to the free silver craze idea, because it thought it was going to be popular. Anything for popularity is the motto of democracy in its death throws. That paper held to the free silver delusion with bull dog tenacity for two year and denounced all other doctrines. But, lo, a change has come over its vision, a radical change has taken place, and now it sings, "things I once hated I now love, and those I loved I now hate." So, the great changes that have come in political circles have not been real or lasting. A few weeks ago this great political party went to Ocean City as free silver advocates, and there met Gorman's henchmen and in a few hours were throwing up their hats for the gold standard ideas as set forth by the Republican platform; all because it is popular. So the voters of this county find this political exponant has cut loose from its free silver moorings and is drifting with Col. Smith, with no definite idea or purpose in view—unless it be to deceive the public. It also has the effrontry to call the Maryland Democratic Association, cecceders. They stand today on the Chicago platform, just where our neighbor stood a few weeks ago. Mr. Willis and his wing are the loyal Democrats while the Smith wing is the real and genuine cecceders. It is therefore that we admire consistency and principle, and commend it in any party. We are now within twelve days of the election and as yet Col. Smith has failed to define his posion to the public. His course has been that of the "still hunt," which has been entirely satisfactory to the Republicans and means votes for Col. Jackson. The general impression in this distaict is that the blunders and omissions of this aimless party has sealed its doom. It has done nothing to merit public approval and therefore will get what it deserves on the 8th of November.

AN exchange says "if the Democrats alone were in the way of suffering the penalties of a Democratic Congress, the prospect could be borne with resignation, not unmixed with ghoulish glee, but the tenor of it all is that the evils of a Democratic Congress fall alike upon the just and unjust. The people are not unfamiliar with the hardships of a Democratic Congress." No, neither are they unmindful of the Cleveland administration. Not only the just and unjust suffered, but everything and everybody got their necks full. Do the people want a repetition of democracy again this fall?

THE Easton Star-Democrat says they are not trying to elect a president this year, but a majority of the House of Representatives. This is refreshing news and one of the most emphatic declarations that has been made by the Smith wing democracy. We had an idea they were trying to do anything at all, in didn't matter what, just so they were doing.

JUDGE Russum, who is always ready for a practical joke, got in a good one a few days ago at the expense of the Smith wing of democracy, but they did'nt seem to take it in that way. The Judge and the Major have been fast friends for years, the greatest difference in their general views being along political lines. It is unnecessary at this time to say how the Smith wing has maligned Major Stewart, all because he would not do as they have done—go back on their party platform and principles. He has stood firm to party, and thinking people admire him for it. It seems the Judge and Major got their heads together some days ago, or so said the Baltimore papers, and as the Major likes to see others enjoy the fun while it was going, let the Judge into it, by signing Mr. Willis' petition. This was too much for the Smith wing. They thought it bad enough to have the Major after them, but for the Judge to look on the Willis wing with the least degree of complacency, was the straw that broke the camel's back. The Smith press all over the district has taken up the wail, "that Judge Russum has signed Candidate Willis' petition." Our neighbor down the street is so exercised over the matter that its editor has gone so far as to read the law to the Judge and endeavor to show him that he has violated the same. This reminds us of the jackdaw saying to the eagle in time of a storm, "why don't you soar like I do." Again, we hear this paper saying the Judge has held office for a third of a century, and therefore he has committed a crime against his party. All such would-be argument is only silly twaddle, and savors very much of sour grapes for our contemporary. Judge Russum has not enjoyed this joke alone, as the public has shared in it. The Maryland Democratic Association didn't need this signature as it had 97 more than was necesary, but it came in the nick of time as the Smith wing press had about talked out. As the time is getting short let us have another Judge, as the Smith wing of democracy will be a thing of the past after November 8th.

COL. Jackson was in Baltimore a few days ago and had a long conference with Senator Wellington, and confidentially told hin that this district was in line and would give him a handsome majority. A News reporter also saw him and he said "it is a mistake to put my districtic down as uncertain or likely to go Democratic this year. I shall be elected by a good majority, and I have gone over the entire district and know what I am talking about. A factor that will help our side is that Mr. Willis, the free silver candidate, will get a large vote, all of which will be taken from the Democratic side."

Even without the Willis Democracy there is a Republican sentiment strong enough to elect him this fall. Dr. Barber has made an able and efficient official in this district, and that coupled with national issues of great importance to the country at this time, should be all the argument necessary to give Col. Jackson and other Republican candidates large pluralties. During the last Congress it was the policy of the largest number of Democrats in that body to hold off and oppose Republican legislation along almost every line. At the time the Maine was blown up, for instance, Democratic representatives were outspoken, and indeed criticised the administration for its cautiousness in declaring war. The President had scarcely declared war when these same Congressional Democrats changed their tactics and opposed the same measure they had advocated, and proved themselves a hindrance to legislation, thus clearly showing that they were dead weights on the wheels of progress. As many as possible of such Congressmen (?) should be elected to stay at home this fall.

IN regard to the political situation Senator Hanna, chairman of the Republican National Committee, says we will have a majority in both the Senate and Congress. This he believed would occur, because, he said, the administration deserved indorsement at the polls for its schrewd policy in connection with the war and State affairs. The only danger we have to fear, he adds, is apathy with the Republicans. Therefore let every voter who want a pure and economical administration of public affairs, vote the Republican ticket. Talk to your neighbor and show him the importance of voting for a good working majority in both Houses.

WHEAT is again on the upward grade and has been selling at 77c a bushel in city markets. Corn, too, is looking up and has been selling for 38c. Our Democratic friends told us when the price went down it was on account of the Dingley bill, but when it went up they seem to have been struck speechless. Let them talk on as it pleases them and don't hurt Republican success, but to the contrary, the facts stands out more prominent. Some people have never learned that lying about an honest cause helps it.

FINDING that the "still hunt" game won't work, Senator Gorman advises a change and wants the stump speaker to try his persuasive argument on the people. Just what he will say, remains to be seen. If he can take the thorns out of Col. Smith's path, planted there by the Ocean City convention, he will work wonders. The party realize that they have been playing a losing game and bad matters can't be made much worse. The mongrel party has about given up the fight in the other districts of this State and are centering their energies on this one and hope to save this district from the wreck. Mr. Gorman has had it given out that he will be in Denton on Friday of next week, and it goes without saying that he has a cunningly devised scheme to spring on the public at that time. As they have let the campaign pass thus far without presenting one live issue, clearly shows their tactics in the eleventh hour. The public have been deceived too many times to be caught napping at this time. Molasses may catch flies, but campaign rot is a thing of the past with the party without one issue.

THE anti-bribery movement started in this district a few weeks ago has died a natural death, much to the disappointment of all true lovers of reform. It seems that no agreement could be reached that would bind those who deal in the vote traffic and stop that nefarious business. All parties saw no remedy for this evil as proposed at Easton Friday. If the law abiding citizens of this district realy want reform why don't they have it? We have laws on our statutes that far excel all and any compacts. If the law along this line can't be enforced, we see but little hope for ballot reform, as the law is plain and expleit; no one can misinturpret it. The best compacts we can have is for the "better elements" in every community to take the law into their own hands and enforce it. The moral tone of a community never rises higher than the people in it. Every community has an element which nothing keeps in check but the penalty of the law. As the stream never rises higher than its source, we may never expect the enforcement of laws beyond the demands of public opinion.

THE unexpected is turning up in the Democratic camp this year. A special dispatch to the Baltimore Sun from Chestertown says: "The Bryan and Sewall Free Silver Club of Kent county has passed a resolution denouncing the nomination of a free silver candidate for Congress, and pledges its support to Col. Smith."

Think of it; a free silver club bearing the name and insignia of free silver, denouncing their party candidate and indorsing the pronounced gold bug candidate, the wing it declared a few short months ago was a stench in the public nostril and should be bunished. Now we find this club denouncing the free silver wing, and with it the Chicago platform. Such men as represent this club, and others whose ideas (?) run along this line should get out their whitewash and give this club a double dose. Fair Kent has our sympathy in this unfortunate circumstance and we shan't condemn her on this account as that club can't be a fair representation of her intelligence.

THE nomination papers of William Willis, Esq., the genuine Democratic candidate in this district, were filed with Secretary of State Dallam, at Annapolis, last week. The certificate has 398 signatures, 98 more than the law requires. The more "loyal" Democrats understand about the deceipt practiced at Ocean City by Gorman's political tricksters, the more eager they are becoming to resent the insult at the ballot box. Gorman treachery and defeat is too fresh on the public mind to count votes this fall. The voters know that the Senator was weighered last fall all over the State, and was found wanting. Party henchmen got in their work at the convention that nominated Col. Smith, but in a few days democracy is going to show her disapproval of party treachery.

SUCH leading and influential men as John K. Cowen, of law fame, and D. K. Este Fisher, a leading attorney, both of Baltimore city and gold Democrats, have announced their intention to vote for the Republican candidate for Congress. What is true of these gentlemen is equally so of hundreds of others who do not publicly declared their intention along this line. This seems to be a prolific year for Democrats to turn. While they are not turning quite as fast as the leaves, they are turning just the same, and will send Col. Smith so far up Salt River in less than two week, that he'll not likely sigh for another Congressional plum in our day.

SOMETHING like 800,000 persons were added to the population of the United States in a single day last week. Surely we are destined to be a great nation.

THE end of the much-talked-of re-count of '96 in Kent county, Delaware has been made, to the discredit of the Democratic party. It is one of the grossest miscarriages of the will of the people ever perpetrated in the state. The better elements of all parties must condemn this whole proceeding; from the election of two years ago, to the present time. Courts as a rule are slow, but they grind out their grist in time. In this case justice has been delayed and the Republican electors cheated out of a correct count. The count says the Republican vote two years ago was 19,567, while the Democratic vote, including sound money vote, was 17,310, giving a Republican majority of 2,248. Or, take it another way and we find that the Republicans have a majority over Handy, Sound Money Democrats and Prohibitionists, of 1,823. This clearly demonstrates to which side the Diamond State belongs.

DO THE workingmen of the United States want semi-savages of the Philippines, who work for eight cents a day, brought into competition with them by making the people of the islands citizens of the United States?

The above is a sample of the Democratic campaign arguments used by their press. In the first place that people do not work for so little, but if they did Domcratic orators are using Republican argument along protective tariff lines. It matters very little to Democrats this year whether arguments fit or not, or to what party they belong, they use them just the same.

THE Supreme Court of California has decided that Mrs. Botkin, whom Delaware authorities have been trying to secure for trial, for poisoning Mrs. Dunning and Mrs. Deane, cannot legally be extradited. Five judges were present and sided with the prisoner's lawyers. The date and place in San Francisco for Mrs. Botkin's trial, has not yet been made. Deputy Attorney General Cooper says that California's refusal will mean a six-month's fight, but Delaware will continue the effort to secure Mrs. Botkin.

EX-GOV. E. E. JACKSON, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee for Wicomico county, said to a reporter of the Morning Herald: "I shall vote and work for John Walter Smith, because he is in favor of the gold standard, and he will be elected because he is in favor of the gold standard." Why does the Journal support him?

Democrats for Cheap Money.

Where the Democratic party is not openly advocating the free and unlimited coinage of silver dollars it is evading the question. Over three-fourths of its conventions this year declared for the Chicago platform. Ninety per cent. of its Congressmen will be chosen on that issue. Assuming that the minority, which has refused this year to make a formal declaration, does not favor that platform, could it by any possibility overcome it? Certainly not.

That was tried in 1896. A powerful and determined minority fought the 50 cent dollar platform to no purpose. It was adopted by the convention, and the Democrats went home and in every State approved the platform. They did so in Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and all of the States. And that declaration for free and unlimited silver coinage is still the avowed national policy of the party.

In the South and West the Democrats are just as much in favor of scaling one half debts of all kinds—including savings banks deposits, building loan securities and wages also—as they were in 1896. They will control the national convention again, and will have their way.

How idle it is for men to pretend to be for honest money while suporting for Congress the candidates of such a party. However honest such men may be personally on the subject, they know that to increase the Democratic representation in Congress now is to strengthen that party for the contest it will make on the Presidency in 1900. And in the meantime the nation will suffer because the agitation will continue, with always more or less uncertainty as to final outcome. It is only a few weeks since all the Democrats in Congress, with a half a dozen exceptions, voted for fiat money. Even Murphy, of New York, and Smith, of New Jersey, voted to pay all bonds, greenbacks, and other obligations in silver dollars worth less than fifty cents in gold.

Could anything be more dishonest? The nation has always sold its bonds for gold, and yet the Democrats in the Senate within a few months have voted to pay them in 16 to 1 silvers. A proposition submitted by the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Senator Jones, to issue $400,000,000 in greenbacks or fiat money to pay the expenses of the war, received nearly all the Democratic votes in the Senate.

Is it safe to bring that party into power again? Can men like E. M. Sheppard or W. H. Hornblower support such a party and deceive themselves into the belief that they are not helping the free-coinage-of-silver party? We do not see how that is possible. No one can afford to vote for or help the election of a Democratic Congressman this year unless such voter is for the 50-cent dollar lunacy.—Phila. Press.

Mr. Depew's Opinion.

Mr. Chauncy M. Depew says that his experience in the brief time which he has given to the campaign, in New York state has caused him to entertain high hopes not only of a Republican victory, but of one which would be impressive in the majority that is to be found behind it.

He says that it is not so much the noise, the demonstrations and the fine enthusiasm which are discovered at the Republican campaign meetings that impress him, for he learned long since that noise and demonstration are not to be counted on to give campaign victories, but he has observed that at those places where the crowds gather, the saloon, the hotel barroom, the street corner, the talk has been of Democratic victory, although he knows of this only by hearsay.

What he does know from personal observation is that in business circles, in the counting rooms, in the places where directors meet and in other gatherings in which representatives of the commercial, financial and industrial interests of the city are to be found the feeling is that a Democratic victory this Fall would unsettle values, halt the movement of capital, shake the confidence that Europe has had in our financial intergrity, because there is no doubt that the great bulk of the Democratic party expects in 1900 to fight the battle of 1896 over again. For this reason business interests are concerned in in the election of next month and are giving quiet but sincere support to the Republican cause.

"That counts for more than barroom or corner grocery talk," said Mr. Depew. He spoke too of the significant coincidence that again this year as in the middle of the campaign of 1896, there should have suddenly been developed an enormous and as it now seems unprecedented activity in the demand which the rest of the world is making upon the United States for breadstuffs and especially for wheat.

It is almost too significant to be a coincidence in Depew's opinion for it seens almost as though climate and nature itself were bound to aid in the destiny which is in store for the Republican party.

Tillman and the Shotgun.

The Hon. Benjamin R. Tillman has been muffled in silence for some time, and it has been feared that he was losing his strength and acridty. A remark which he made at Richmond the other day shows that the fears were groundless.

"The only way for Democrats to carry North Carolina is with shotguns."

It is well Captain Ben is not growing pigeon-lived and doesn't lack gall to make expression bitter.
