BEARS ALL ANXIETY.

The Young Woman Who Helps Hostesses to Be Happy While They Are Entertaining.

How to be happy though the hostess of a large dinner party is what a young woman, at the rate of from three to five dollars an evening, is showing a number of wealthy women. This young woman, in looking around for a means of bread-winning, decided to become a professional bearer of dinner party anxieties. What she does is to manage dinners or wedding breakfasts or large luncheons, and, though she neither cooks nor waits on table, she fulfills a most important mission.

She stands before the hostess in all worry. A half hour before the meal is served she appears in the dining-room and sees to it that the butler has got the table set, and that the wines are rising or falling to precisely the right temperature. Then she dons her big apron, and as guests file into the dining-room she takes her stand by the pantry's dumb-waiter to see that every dish comes up exactly on time, piping hot when it ought to be hot, chilled to the marrow when the chill is necessary, and, furthermore, she tastes it to see that its flavor is exactly what it ought to be. Having a quick wit, resourceful mind and a knowledge of French cookery, she takes care that no dish passes to the table that is not above reproach. Where she stands in the pantry there is heard none of the crash and grind of dinner party machinery; no long waits between courses elapse.

Now, this may seem a sinecure, but grateful hostesses look upon her work as exalted modern philanthropy, for even if the butler is a new man, the cook a possible traitor to her trust and the caterer apt to play tricks with ices and sorbets, so long as the dinner manager is at the pantry helm nothing can go wrong. With all the ease of an unfettered soul the hostess can give her whole mind to her guests. If she is a hostess new at the business she can send for the manager beforehand and have her dinner all planned for her, every detail considered, even to the color of the flowers and the pattern on the tablecloth, and the very latest surprise in an epicurean delicacy worked up for the envious delectation of her guests. But this is an extra.—N. Y. Sun.

HOME GYMNASTICS.

Some Simple Exercises That Bring Grace and Are Certain to Improve One's Carriage.

No woman in ordinarily good physical health should exercise for strength. But every gymnastic instructor of the best modern school will agree that if a woman exercises for grace about the best results will be attained.

In the new school of physical development no apparatus or implements whatever are required, but the utmost use is made of free gymnastics. The setting-up drill of the West Point cadets and of the militia organizations is a good basis for such a drill, and the most important of these exercises is the old familiar one of stooping to touch the floor without bending the knees. This exercise is invaluable for straightening the neck and developing the muscles of the neck and shoulders and reducing the size of the waist and abdomen.

But a great many other exercises involving the stretching of the muscles can be used in connection with these to advantage, as they are less violent.

For instance, standing firmly with the toes well turned out, put the feet quite near together, with both arms extended nearly at right angles with the body, reach as far as possible, first to the right and then to the left, as if endeavoring to reach a wall at some distance from the body.

Vary this motion by twisting the body upon the waist, so that the right arm is reaching as far to the left as possible, and in turn the left arm reaching to the right.

Vary again by standing facing a wall and touching it with the tips of the fingers of both hands. After each touch move away about half an inch farther, until it is with the utmost difficulty that you can touch the wall at all. Then repeat several times in succession.

All these movements are invaluable for improving the carriage of the body and reducing the size of the waist. All should be taken very slowly and in connection with deep, slow, even breathing.—Chicago Daily News.

The Cyclienne's Skirt.

According to the Wheel (London) the police of St. Petersburg affect to regard the skirt of the cyclienne as a menace both to the safety of the wearer and the public in general, and have laid down a law that no lady cyclist shall ride through the streets of the Russian capital unless clad in the bifurcated garment.

To Remove Fly Specks.

To remove fly specks from gilt frames moisten them with the white of an egg; let it remain about 15 minutes and then wipe off with a silk cloth.

Cotton Hangings Are Useful.

For some time the special value of cotton fabrics for country house service as hangings and draperies has been known. Their growing excellence in manufacture, which has brought design and finish almost to perfection, has promoted these fabrics to quite general town house use. The fact that moths pay no attention to them makes them popular with housekeepers. It would, perhaps, be a surprise to one who has not given the matter recent attention to discover what excellent effects can be produced in hangings, furniture coverings and even rugs that are made of cotton.

FOR COUNTRY RIDING.

A Smart Outfit of Black and White Plaid for the Daring Woodland Cyclienne.

The costume of this woodland cyclienne is worthy a paragraph in the most conservative of fashion articles. It is specially adapted for long spins through shady groves and also for rough-and-tumble riding.

It is developed in lightweight Scottish goods trimmed with bands of bright silk poplin, which in their turn are finished with narrow strips of braid. The writer recalls one particular woodland cycling suit of royal brown plaided with Prussian blue and a generous tracing of crimson.

The skirt was the ideal rainy-day length, very flaring at the hem and close-fitting about the hips. The fullness was laid in plaits at the back. Around the foot was a plain band trimming of white brilliantine headed with an inch-wide band of Prussian blue silk braid.

The waist had a blouse effect, front and back, and was box plaited, the front plaits being overlaid with bands of brilliantine like that which embellished the skirt. The collar was high, finished with a narrow linen ruching, and the sleeves, which were full enough to allow perfect freedom to the arms, were plain, relying upon their neat finish for their beauty.

With the woodland cycling suit a short white sailor was worn with a curled quill and band to match the suit.

GEMS POSSESS LIFE.

Inclosing Them in Their Cases and Giving Them a Rest Adds to Their Luster.

Real jewels, scientists now assert, possess organic life. It has long been known that opals and pearls grow dull when worn by invalids, and latterly rubies and the turquoise are found to share the same sensibility. Pearls are more indicative of the condition of the wearer than any other gem. Though this delicate stone lives longer than a flower, it seems to have a form of life, which, like that of the flower, loses color and brilliancy and actually does. Nor is this property unfounded in reason. Science has latterly learned much concerning gems and their influence in the propagation of health and disease. Those invisible emanations which surround the person wearing gems penetrate the interstices of the jewel and actually increase or decrease its brilliancy. The inference is a true one that rings and pins should be laid aside by the invalid. Even in good health, it is better to give them an occasional rest. To inclose them in their cases and put them away is to insure an access of luster. Even clothing should be treated to rest. It freshens up wonderfully the frock or wrap, to shake and brush the garment and hang it in a dark closet.—Good Housekeeping.

The Neck Chain Is Gone.

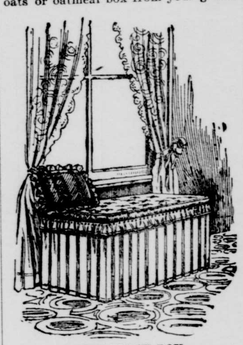

Definitely the chain is gone. Too great popularity killed it. In its place the bangle ventures to put forth, but the result is in doubt, and by determinedly putting off their watches women have ceased to make themselves the slaves of time. In truth, never was so little jewelry worn as in this summer of grace, and the fancy for oriental patterns is as marked as ever. At night in the coiffure very charming wreaths of small, clear green enameled leaves, ivy, myrtle, laurel, bay and grape foliage, fasten among puffs and braids, and sometimes a row of leaves forms the top edging for a tucking comb.

SHIRT WAIST BOX.

The One Here Described Is Not Only a Very Useful But an Ornamental Article as Well.

With the shirt-waist season comes the difficulty of finding a place to keep our waists without mussing them. When stiffly starched they take up a great deal of room in the dresser, and if hung in the closet are more likely to be on the floor the greater part of the time. Shirt-waist boxes are not a new departure, but as a rule the ready-made ones are so expensive that the girl in ordinary circumstances cannot afford them.

The box shown in the accompanying illustration is covered with pale blue and white creton and the entire cost was only 88 cents. While the light stuffs make a very dainty effect, the darker ones are more serviceable and will not soil so quickly. Get a large rolled oats or oatmeal box from your grocer and put two small brass hinges on the back. The inside should be covered first and the material drawn tight. The sides and front of the one shown here are laid in large box plaits, the back being perfectly plain. The lid should be padded with one or two layers of cotton and finished with a ruffle about three inches wide tacked on the top of the lid so it will fall down over the box about two inches. This requires five yards of creton. For the outside brass head tapestry tacks should be used.

This is not only a very useful but an ornamental article as well. With a few pillows thrown on it it makes a very pretty window seat; in the winter it can be used for packing away your summer clothes; it also makes a very dainty trunk for baby's things. In fact, its scope of usefulness is unlimited.—Radford Review.

SOME BEAUTY HINTS.

Rational Exercise and Peace of Mind Are the Best Complexion Powder Yet Discovered.

In some cases a poor complexion arises mainly from lack of exercise. Women who live an entirely sedentary life have a slow circulation and usually a bad digestion, and these are fertile causes of a muddy-appearing skin. Exercise gives rapidity to the movement of the blood, stimulates digestion and calms the nerves, and is frequently more beneficial than any sort of medicine, although it should not be indulged in immediately after meals. Physicians are beginning to recognize the fact that drugs are not the most potent restoratives, and that exercise, peace of mind, congenial society and recreation are not merely luxuries, but necessities if good health is to be preserved. Chapped and rough lips are not only painful, but disfiguring, and it is advisable never to go into the open air without previously using a little glycerin or vaseline upon the mouth. To moisten the lips with the tongue has a drying effect upon the skin ultimately, and the habit is one to be rigorously avoided. Toilet soap of inferior quality is extremely injurious to the complexion. Only the best soap should be employed, and that does not necessarily mean the soap most expensively gotten up with lace and ribbons. Pure glycerin or olive oil soap, unscented, is very good and not specially costly.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune,

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

Summer Recipes That Preserve Order and Cleanliness in the Household.

To clean oil finished paint or hard wood use weak tea, almost cold, to remove the dust and discoloration, and then rub it over with a flannel cloth dipped in furniture polish made of one-third linseed oil, one-third turpentine and one-third vinegar. Shake it well together in a bottle, pour it into a saucer and rub hard. It is a very satisfactory polish. To revive gilt frames take of the white of eggs two ounces and of chloride of potash or soda one ounce; mix well, blow the dust off from the frames and apply with a soft brush. To take fly specks off gilt frames moisten them with the white of an egg; let it remain about 15 minutes, then wipe off with a silk cloth. Plaster busts and statuettes may be cleaned, where it is not desired to paint them, by dipping them into thick liquid starch and drying, and when the starch is brushed off the dirt is brushed off with it. Old leather covers of books may be freshened by first wiping clean with a flannel rag, then rubbing lightly with the well-beaten yolk of an egg applied with a soft sponge, and lastly, by pressing a hot iron over a piece of thin paper laid over the surface of the cover. Oxalic acid diluted with water will remove ink stains from the pages. Apply with a camel's hair brush.

Marble figures, statuettes, etc., can be cleaned by using a paste of whiting and water, allowing it to dry and brushing off with soft cloth. Smoke made from burning a piece of gum camphor will clear a bedroom of mosquitoes. Wall paper may be cleaned if wiped with dry Indian meal on a dry cloth. Do not rub colors. Grease stains in carpet may be removed while fresh if coarse brown paper is placed over the stain and ironed with a warm iron. Or cover spots with Indian meal; remove when grease strikes through. Use ammonia in water for washing woodwork; or, better still, use kerosene oil instead of water to remove finger marks or stains, then wash. Very little force is necessary and varnish, oil or paint are not injured. Use whiting in the water for washing white and delicate shades of painted wood—of bedsteads, etc. Clean piano keys with soft rag dipped in alcohol. Use same for cleaning prisms on candelabra or chandeliers. Use salts of lemon for the stains on ivory.—Chicago Chronicle.

The Democratic Platitude.

The platitude adopted Wednesday by the Democratic State Convention is far and away the strongest endorsement that has yet been given to Governor Lowndes' administration. True, it endorses by silence, but the silence is so perfect, so tomblike, that no doubt of Democratic approval of the Republican management of state affairs can be entertained for a moment. There is no criticism, no denunciation of a single act; nothing but perfect state government is evidenced. The Republicans will have trouble, even by the employment of many words, to add to the strength of this endorsement.

On national questions there is not a single affirmation declaration of importance. The money question is left untouched, neither silver nor gold being expressly favored, and Bryan, the acknowledged leader of the national Democracy, is ignored as completely as if he had no existance. On this question it is obvious that the platitude can satisfy neither the gold nor silver men, who are compelled to support the party while they stand by watching it play see-saw on top of the financial fence.

The state questions discussed are almost nil. There are platitudes anent police reorganization, taxation, the school system and the condition of the laboring classes, whose meaninglessness is only rivaled in density by their vagueness. They only serve to show that here are certain matters which, in view of the fact that Democracy needs votes, are worthy of its attention, but which, during thirty-five years of control and its consequent opportunities, they saw not, heeded not, nor offered any remedy. The record the Republicans have made on the same subject has been so clear and so clean that Democracy has no room for criticism. It can only ask that it be entrusted with the duty of carrying to consummation the work Republicans started, after the Democrats, in thirty-five years of unbroken opportunity, failed to preform. It is needless to say that the people will not trust the consummation to these who were derelict so long. These platitudes will appeal to no one.—Baltimore American.

Additional Peach Lore.

The Philadelphia Record has come out as an authority on peach yellows and peach growing. It says: "It is claimed that peach trees should be cultivated like corn and kept as clean. Crimson clover may be seeded in the fall and turned under in the spring, applying at the same time air-slaked lime muriate of potash and bone meal broadcast. In is best to have a winter crop as a covering to the soil, but it must not remain after spring opens. Whitewashing the trees in Febuary and spraying the branches with whitewash is said to delay the buds and protects against frost. The severe cutting back of a tree often gives it new life, and the center should be well pruned, so as to admit plenty of air and warmth from the sun. It some sections where the trees live but five or six years, a new orchard is started every year, as the old trees are removed, and one good crop in years may give a good profit for all the work done during several seasons."
