RETA

Mr. Garey gets One Cent Damages.

The trial of the T. Fred. Garey case at Centreville, mentioned in our issue of last week, was concluded on Friday night and given to the jury Saturday morning. Mr. Lewis in his opening statement related the incidents connected with the accident and stated that he expected to prove that prior to the mishap Mr. Garey was a sound, healthy man, and that since he has been totally incapacitated; that the road on which the accident occured had been for years recognized as a public road, the county commissioners having contracted for and paid for work done on it. Ex-Judge Russum for the defense stated that he proposed to show that the road had always been regarded as a private way for which the county is not responsible and was merely left open for a convenience in going from one public road to another. Some of Mr. Garey's injuries he stated, were received prior to the accident for which damages were claimed.

Night sessions were held and every inch of the ground stubbornly contested. Gen. Jos. B. Seth, of Baltimore, assisted the plaintiffs lawyers, and the case was very interesting from beginning to end, the little tilts of the attorneys creating much amusement at times.

The plaintiff produced a number of witnesses who testified to having done work for various supervisors on this particular road the bills having been paid by the county. With the exception of one supervisor, however, none of these witnesses were positive that their road warrants called for that particular piece of road. The warrant of Wm. T. Baker appeared clearly to include the piece of road in question. On the other hand ex-County Commissioner Noble, and the present board of commissioners stated that they had never, knowingly, paid for work done on this road, and in giving out the different sections it had never been considered. Mr. D. H. Tubbs at one time repaired the bridge in question and was paid by the county, but his orders were to repair the bridges on the public roads in the 3rd district. A number of witnesses were called by the defense, who lived in the neighborhood, and testified that they had never considered it a public road. A report made by James G. Redden, Jas. K. Saulsbury and Thomas Butler, examiners appointed by the commissioners in 1865, showed that the road had been reported favorably for acceptance. After a lengthy argument by the attorneys the court allowed the report to go to the jury after instructing them that it, alone, did not establish the fact that the road had ever been accepted by the county. One road overseers testified that the road in question was omitted from his road warrant. Many other facts on both sides were brought out and after quite a lengthy arguments on both sides the case was closed. The jury after being out until nearly 12 o'clock Saturday night, rendered a verdict for Garey for one cent.

Telephone Union.

As our town is expecting to soon have a telephone system with connections to other towns and other counties it may interest the business men to know that an alliance has just been made between the Delmarvia Telephone Company, of Wilmington, and the Maryland Telephone Company, of Baltimore, for the purpose of connecting with the different independent lines, and as soon as possible to arrange for long distance connections. It is reported that the new alliance will combine with the company in Kent and Sussex counties, of which H. A. Richardson is president. It is expected that the system in this county when completed, will be connected with the Kent county system. The Baltimore company is represented by some of the wealthiest men of that city and they have already added to their combination Pittsburg and several other cities. The company has secured over 4,000 subscribers and is building an exchange in Baltimore that will cost $100,000. If the proper arrangements can be made and the right kind of instruments are used, merchants can stand in their offices here and order goods in Baltimore.

The bride was dressed in a brown cashmere, trimmed with white silk and braid, and wore white kid gloves and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. During the evening refreshments were served, after which the bride and groom drove to their home near Ruthsburg in Queen Anne's county.

Sam Jones on Prosperity.

The following, which we clip from the colums of an exchange, and all those fellows who roost on the fence and dream of daddies:

Sam Jones, the picturesque exhorter, occasionally stops his talks on religion long enough to speak on worldly affairs. A few days ago he was preaching in a town in Georgia and, dipping into politics, got off the following:

The biggest fool in the world is the one who stands up and argues against facts. I was talking to one of those free silver loons a few days ago and called his attention to the great prosperity which has come over our country, mills, and shops and mines running on full time, and I said truly prosperity has come to our land again. He said, "It ain't stuck me yet." I said, "It's mighty hard to find nothing."

The Money Mill.

Last week was a profitable one for the treasury of the State. One hundred and twenty millions was the aggregate capital of the corporations chartered with the nice little addition to State's bank account of $18-000 and with the assured annual tax of $13,975. Two of the companies were chartered for English corporations. One of them, the British Electric Steel Tramway Company, has a capital of five millions; the other, the London Electric Tramway Construction and Maintenance Co., with a capital of two a-half millions. —Dover Sentinel.

The Bride Stopped Ceremony

Miss Hannah Virden made a scene in St. Peter's Epicopal Church at Lewes, Del. last week, by refusing to go on with her marriage ceremony while Rev. Jesse C. Taylor, the rector of St. Peter's was in the church. Rev. Mr. Taylor has some warm friends in his flock, but some oppose him. Arthur W. Marshall, the groom on this occasion, belongs to a family friendly to the rector, while bride, Miss Virden, daughter of John P. Virden, president of the Board of Pilot Commissioners, is counted among those hostile to Mr. Taylor. Consequently, the bride and her parents would not consent to the rector either preforming the marriage ceremony or being present in the church during its progress. Bishop Coleman was sent for and came to Lewes to marry the couple. All went well until the bride went into the chancel, when she discovered the presence of the rector. She ran, weeping from the church and refused to return unless the rector left. Mr. Taylor arose and asked if his presence caused the halt in the ceremony. On receiving an affirmative answer from Dr. Orr, he left the church, and the Bishop proceeded to tie the knot.

Colored People Aroused.

Bishop H. M. Turner of the African M. E. Church, of Macon, Ga., delivered an address to the Georgia Conference of the African Methodist Church. He urged every possible opposition by Georgia negroes to the Hardwick bill to limit the suffrage now before the Legislature. He said he proposed taking the stump himself, and implored every minister present to do likewise. He said the author was merely seeking notority, and was backed by the "poor white" element. "Not one negro in 30 ever thinks of selling" the Bishop declared. "They do not sell their votes. Three votes are sold for every negro ballott purchased." The Bishop denounced the Supreme Court of the United States for taking away the negroes' civil rights, but excepted Justice Harlan, who was the negro's friend. He said the negroes had no army, but that the God of nations was on their side

The Inauguration of Taylor.

The Louisville, (Ky.) Commercial Republican says: "The following communication from Harlem county talks to the point:

We together with 1,000 other able-bodied men citizens of this county, have tendered our services to Governor Bradley and Gen. W. S. Taylor to inaugurate Gen Taylor and maintain him in office in which he was elected, however any State election board or any Legislature may decide. A. B. Comett, county judge; S. N. French, county attorney; W. S. Hensley, sheriff Harlan county; J. S. Bailey, chairman Republican committee; H. H. Howard, Commissioner Harlan Circuit Court; J. S. Kelley, United States Commissioner; J. B. Hurst, postmaster; M. M. Howard, clerk Harlan Circuit Court; G. A. Eversole, attorney at-law." Harlan is one of the strong Republican mountain counties of the Eleventh district.

Reardon Girl in Philadelphia.

Hannah Reardon, the domestic of the Mather household, in Wilmington, whose record for needles and and pieces of needles removed by Dr. Swithin Chandler, was 87, was admitted to St. Anges' Hospital a few days ago. When she told how many needles had been removed the doctors thought her story incredible. They kept her in the hospital, however, under surveillance. She complained that she felt needles pricking her again, and Dr. Moore subsequently removed half of an ordinary sewing needle, which he found imbedded in the flesh below the ribs. Miss Reardon says there are more needles in her side and she will be further examined. The physicians at the hospital are unable to tell whether she has a mania for swollowing the needles or sticking them into herself.

To Move an M. E Church.

Elder Baker, of this district, in a letter to the Peninsula Methodist, has this to say concerning two of changes in the district:

"It is proposed to move Thawley's Church on Burrsville charge, to Hickman, a station on the Queen Anne's railroad. As I see the work there, this move is a great necessity. A lot in the very centre of the town has already been secured."

"Frederica church is having a successful and a pleasant time, under the pastorate of Rev. Z. H. Webster, but a genuine religious awakening would be a great blessing to the Church and community. The pastor is doing faithful work and the right kind of results is sure to follow."

Mob After Flemming.

Reports have reached Norfolk, Va., from Princess Anne county that a mob attacked the home of Magister Oscar Flemming early Monday morning. Fleming defended his home and killed one of the party and wounded several others. No details of the affair have been received. A few days ago Fleming shot and killed a lad named Clarence Synder, who was hunting on the former's farm. Feeling has been high in the neigborhood and advices from Kempville states that a mob was forming. It is believed that Fleming will be lynched.
