be sufficient Evidence in Courts of Law, yet as the Judges may be of a different Opinion, it would have been well in the humble opinion of the Intendant, that the Governor and Council had pursued the common form of reducing Contracts to writing under the hands and Seals of the Contracting Parties. for want of this Mode being adopted the Intendant has hitherto postponed suing Mr. Stephen Steward for not carrying on the Gallery, the Council's Opinion of the Agreement differing from his and no kind of written Contracts entered into by which the Intendant could form an Opinion how to proceed. and with submission, he thinks in Business of such Magnitude, and of such Consequence to the State, something more than a parole Agreement ought to have appeared."

How far and how often the Council may exercise what they esteem their indubitable Right, in calling upon the Intendant for information respecting his Conduct rest with them to determine; but he wishes before they finally resolve they would seriously read the Act intitled "an Act to "appoint an Intendant of the Revenue and all Public "Monies". and if after this they should be of the same
