Sir,

Annapol April 19. 1790.

Being informed that you remain in expectation of an answer to your letter of the 8th February, we give it as our opinion that if the Authority of the federal district Courts is competent to the decision of all Admiralty Cases that may by any means arise, there can be no room for a supposition that the State Admiralty Courts are or ought to be continued. We are not informed that any such Cases are exempted from the Jurisdiction of the district Courts, and do therefore conclude that the abolition of your Court is indicated by the Establishment of the other. — We are Sir, &c. &c. &c.

Your most Obed Serv.
