FARM & GARDEN

SHADY RESTING PLACE.

An Arrangement That Adds to the Comfort of the Farmer's Family During the Dog Days.

Where the trees about one's house are small, or where there are none, this arrangement will be found pleasant in summer. The floor and framework of this shady resting place are made of wood, while the covering is either white duck or striped awning cloth, sold at all dry goods stores—the only fault to be found with the latter being its liability to fade. The board floor is very desirable, since it permits the use of this when the grass ground would be moist. The smooth floor also affords a splendid chance for children to play in wet weather, or indeed in any weather, since their clothing will become soiled much less easily when playing on such a floor than upon grass ground or gravel.

This place can also be made to shelter a hammock, stretching this from one corner to an opposite corner. The roof frame should, of course, be braced in the same direction as that occupied by the hammock, running a two by three strip of lumber from the top of one corner post to the top of the one opposite; also placing a similar piece between the tops of the other two opposite corners. The cloth gables should be fitted to the frame and tacked in position, after which the roof, side and end flaps (all in one piece) can be stretched into position, and held in place either by tacking or by cords through eyelet holes and tied about the frame.—Country Gentleman.

FACTS FOR FARMERS.

A haphazard, go-easy way in farming is not going to bring a big profit this year.

Make the boy's interest in the farm so profitable that he will be anxious to make farming his life work.

The farmer as well as the business man who is going to forge to the front these times is the one who thinks and plans.

Broom corn should have frequent cultivation till the plants are two feet high. Then the cultivation may be stopped unless needed to retain moisture.

If one has been so unwise as to have gotten in more area of crops than he can cultivate properly it may pay him even now to abandon some of it and cultivate thoroughly the remaining portion.

Irrigation produces such large returns for the outlay that many farmers could well afford to invest in an irrigation plant of their own if not in an arid or semi-arid region where irrigation is carried on by means of great systems.—Farmers' Voice.

Brome Grass Beats Timothy.

Brome grass and timothy were grown at the North Dakota station to compare the yields of green grass and to study their relative value for hay, considering their yield and chemical composition. In five cuttings during the season brome grass yielded 5,537.6 pounds of green grass, or 1,628.3 pounds of dry matter per acre, and timothy 4,681.6 pounds of green forage, or 1,422.8 pounds of dry matter. The results were decidedly in favor of brome grass for permanent pasture. Brome hay contained about twice as much protein as timothy, and no more fiber than the average for timothy grown in different parts of the country. Owing to its larger root system, brome grass is considered a better humus producer and soil improver than timothy.

Ration for Young Turkeys.

Feed the young turkeys stale wheat and corn bread. A few hard-boiled eggs mixed in the bread with a little salt and pepper is good for the first week. Don't forget to give them plenty of grit in the way of sand mixed with their feed or broken shells, dishes or lime rock. The main thing to keep turkeys healthy and growing fat is to keep them clear of lice. Commence on the old hen before they are hatched. Dust the hen twice a week with ashes and a few drops of coal oil added, grease the hen and young turkeys as soon as they are hatched with fresh butter or lard with a drop or two of coal oil to every teaspoonful.

Renovating Old Pastures.

Sometimes an old run-out pasture can be greatly improved by harrowing thoroughly two or three times in spring; then sow a mixture of seeds. One might simply sow on blue grass, timothy and alsike clover in moderate quantities. After the seeds are sown the ground should be rolled. It would increase the chances of success if some fertilizer containing rather a high percentage of nitrogen was applied. Sometimes one can find damaged cottonseed meal, which makes a good fertilizer for pastures, as do also wood ashes.

CULTIVATION OF CORN.

Some Reasons Why It Should Have Exceptionally Intelligent Care This Season.

The small corn crop of last year has so affected the stock market as to prove very clearly the importance of this crop, and it is also evident that too much consideration cannot be given to the present season's crop, as a means of overcoming the shortage from last year. A butcher, deploring the high price of meats, said to the writer: "I will have to close out my business because people are buying as little meat as possible." He also said: "It is costing me twice as much for feed for my horse as it did a year ago." Thus it is evident that the supply of farm products very markedly affect all conditions of life.

Now, in view of these facts it is important that the corn crop have intelligent care. The experiments of progressive farmers in recent years show that no general crop returns so largely for cultivation; but the old rule of three times going over the corn field is out of date.

If the few weeks following the planting after the corn is up prove to be cool, often the weeds get a start. Weeds thrive, wet or dry, warm or cold, and they must be kept in check if the corn is to get a start. The weeder is the implement that will help the farmer to keep his corn clean, and it is coming into use more and more every year. A good farmer of our acquaintance has practiced going over the corn with the weeder each way and then following with the cultivator at each successive cultivation. A man with horse and weeder will go over more than twice the acreage that a man with double team and cultivator can. The weeder levels the ground and works through the hills just where the work is needed.

If there are doubts as to the profits of so much labor on a corn crop, select two corn fields and give one the old-time three cultivations and keep the other field well stirred, charging up to the latter the cost of extra labor expended and ascertain at corn gathering time if it pays.—Rural World.

AUTHORITY ON GOATS.

John Collins, an Arizona Breeder, Favors the World with the Result of His Experience.

Modern skill, necessity and ingenuity have made it possible to utilize every porton of the hog except its grunt and squeal, and it is asserted you can sell every part of a goat except its scent. The latter statement is made by Mr. John Collins, who manages an extensive goat farm in Arizona. The number of goats on his farm he could not for the life of him tell, he says. There may be 10,000, 20,000 or 30,000—he had no idea how many. He is considered an authority upon the uses and abuses of the goat. On his farm there is nothing but sage brush and cactus for the goats to live on, yet no man, he claims, ever saw a dead goat, unless he (the goat) came to a violent end. They will live and thrive where nearly every other living thing would starve to death.

He started with 150 common goats, deriving the profit from the sale of the hides. After a time these were crossed with Angora goats, and after two years the cross disappears and a perfect Angora goat remains. The long hair of this goat is made into plush for furniture, sleeping cars and similar uses. The hair next to the skin can be made into valuable shawls. The meat of the kids is delightful when fresh, and is canned and sent to Cuba, the Philippines, China and other foreign countries as canned lamb. One tablespoonful of the milk of it is equal to three tablespoonfuls of the purest cream. One great virtue of the milk is that it is a deadly foe to tubercula, and consumptives by drinking it are often cured of the disease. In fine, no other dumb animal has more valuable qualities than the goat. No stables are required in which to house him. He takes care of himself, looks out for his own shelter if he needs any, and is altogether an independent, profitable, happy-go-lucky kind of an animal. —Wool Markets and Sheep.

GOOD PASTURE CROP.

Buffalo Grass Forms a Soft Sod and Provides a Nourishing Ration for Beef Animals.

The grass here illustrated is the well-known buffalo grass of the western ranges. It is a low growing grass.

BUFFALO GRASS.

The leaves are short and curly and the foliage has a characteristic gray color, rather common in plants adapted to dry regions. The plants form a soft sod and provide a very nourishing ration to the animals that feed upon them. They spread by runners or prostrate stems, which creep along the ground rooting at intervals.

There are poor farmers because their farming is poor.

VISITING THE SICK.

Some Points to Be Considered and Some Things That Are to Be Religiously Avoided.

Sick people are apt to be very serious and easily irritated, and it is often an annoyance to them to see the door open silently and a figure creep in on tiptoe. No one would dream of bursting the door open, or even noisily turning the handle, but there is a medium course to pursue. Walk in quietly, but without any undue and ostentatious silence. Go straight up to the bed and speak in an ordinary tone; and, without asking any tiresome questions, commence speaking of matters which you know will interest, but not irritate, the patient. Let your visit be short, and when you rise to leave the room say your "Good-by" briefly, and go at once, avoiding any of that lingering which is both annoying and wearying to the invalid. When visiting a sick friend, dress with a certain amount of care and forethought; do not put on your dullest and shabbiest clothes, and, on the other hand, avoid rustling garments. Some people like to take flowers into the sickroom. It is as well to ascertain beforehand, from some member of the family, what kind of flower is liked by the patient. A powerful perfume sometimes causes a headache, and even nausea. Delicacies should only be taken after consulting the nurse or doctor, and then not carried direct into the room unless specially permitted to do so. —N. Y. Weekly.

FIRST LADY OF CUBA.

Senora Palma Is Devoted to Her Husband and Family and Has No Fads or Fancies.

A writer in the Woman's Home Companion gives the following interesting facts about the wife and children of Gen. Palma, the first president of Cuba:

The family of Gen. Palma is an interesting one. He has six children—four boys and two girls. Senora Estrada has borne up remarkably under the strain that the wife of a fighting patriot is always under. She has no fads or fancies. Her world is the four-story frame house in Central Valley that has sheltered the family for eighteen years and seen the birth of five of her children. Whether or not there is some sentimentality attached to this latter fact, the truth is that Senora Estrada would rather remain in this unpretentious home than occupy the palatial palace in Havana and shine as the first lady of Cuba. She possesses to a great degree those Latin-race characteristics—devotion to husband and love of offspring. The great social responsibilities that will devolve upon her in the position she is to occupy she fears may interfere with her share of bringing up her children as good men and women. The latter are good-looking, sturdy children. Jose, the oldest, is 19 years old. He was born in Honduras, and came here when a year old. He is a law student at Columbia university. When at home Jose acts as secretary for his father. Tomas, Jr., is 17, and attends school at Newburg, as does his sister Candelaria, who is 14. The three youngest are Carlos and Luz—twins of seven years—and Rafael, six, whom the father refers to as his baby.

Gen. Palma became acquainted with Senorita Guardiola, whose father had been president of the republic of Honduras 20 years ago. She was his prettiest daughter, courted and feted, and with the proverbial thousand suitors at her feet. Senorita Guardiola was a sympathetic listener to the tales of hardships under the Spanish rule, which the brave general related. Even to-day, in talking of those tranquil days of his wooing following the years of conflict, he quotes, "She loved me for the dangers I had passed, and I loved her that she did pity them."

Tact Superior to Talent.

Talent is something, but tact is everything. Talent is serious, sober, grave and respectable; tact is all that, and more, too. It is not another sense, but the life of the five senses. It is the open eye, the quick ear, the judging taste, the keen smell and the lively touch. It is the interpreter of all riddles—the surmounter of all difficulties. It is useful in solitude, for it shows a man his way into the world. Talent is power; tact is skill; talent is weight; tact is momentum. Talent knows what to do; tact knows how to do it. Talent makes a man respectable; tact makes him respected. Talent is wealth; tact is ready money. For all the practical purposes of life, tact carries against talent ten to one.—N. Y. Weekly.

Eye to Business.

"Give me a quarter of a pound of paris green," said the despondent looking man, calmly; "I am going to commit suicide."

"You'd better buy a pound," suggested the druggist.

"What!" replied the man who wanted to die. "Do you mean to tell me that a quarter of a pound will not prove fatal?"

"No," replied the druggist, "but you see, the profit on a quarter of a pound is very small."—Ohio State Journal.

MRS. L. S. ADAMS,
Of Galveston, Texas.

"Wine of Cardui is indeed a blessing to tired women. Having suffered for seven years with weakness and bearing-down pains, and having tried several doctors and different remedies with no success, your Wine of Cardui was the only thing which helped me, and eventually cured me. It seemed to build up the weak parts, strengthen the system and correct irregularities."

By "tired women" Mrs. Adams means nervous women who have disordered menses, falling of the womb, ovarian troubles or any of these ailments that women have. You can cure yourself at home with this great women's remedy, Wine of Cardui. Wine of Cardui has cured thousands of cases which doctors have failed to benefit. Why not begin to get well today? Schley and Santiago
BY GEORGE EDWARD GRAHAM.

The intrepid Associated Press war correspondent, who was aboard the U. S. S. Brooklyn during the entire five months of the campaign. Illustrated with photographs taken by the Author during the fight.

The Most Sensational Book of the Day.

The true story of the famous cruise of the Flying Squadron under Commodore Winfield Scott Schley, including the blockade and destruction of the Spanish fleet, TOLD FOR THE FIRST TIME.

Contains an autograph endorsement and personal account of the battle by Rear-Admiral Schley.

"The facts of the story of the movements and operations of the Flying Squadron as the author tells them in this book are correct." —W. S. SCHLEY.

An interesting narrative of facts. Explains the so-called "Retrograde Movement;" the "Loop;" the "Coaling Problem," and settles conclusively every adverse ruling of the Court of Inquiry.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, when Governor of New York, said:—"Mr. Graham's story is the best account I have heard or read of the naval fighting during the war. It needed just as much courage to go about taking photographs as it did to work the guns."

THE NEW YORK HERALD says:—"Mr. Graham, in the telling of facts, leaves the reader free to make the deduction that several naval officers need a Court of Inquiry to re-establish their reputations, if they can be re-established."

No subject has ever been before the public that has interested everybody as the manner in which Admiral Schley has been treated, and the American people demand the full recognition of the Hero of Santiago. This book tells everything just as it occurred and as the eyewitnesses saw it. Book is selling like wildfire. Liberal commissions. Outfit and books now ready. Send seven 2-cent stamps for canvassing outfit. ACT QUICK. Now is the time to MAKE MONEY.

Price $1 50, $1.75, $2.25, $2.75, according to style of binding desired.
