Observation that such a Proposition would have been very extraordinary and singular had the Business even been a more mercantile Transaction. The first act of the Assembly for the establishment of Trustees allowed a Commission of two P.Ct for investing the money altho' the Trustees were on the Spot and there was no Difficulty or Hazard nor contingence Expence and when by the Act in 1750 other Trustees on the Spot were appointed to sell the Stock under the like circumstances of no Hazard or Contingency of Expence the Commission was 2½ P.Ct: Thus the mere investing public Money in Stock or selling it and paying the Money is obviously of the peculiar circumstances of the present Case was in the Estimation of the Assembly a Service which deserved at least 2 P.Ct — a Proportion, therefore, to do the present Business under circumstances of so much more Difficulty & Embarrassment, had it been duly made, would have required an acknowledge sacrifice of Labor & Talents and afforded just grounds for Suspicion & want of Confidence or would have been a strong evidence of an absolute Ignorance of the Duty & office of the Trust & Agency, and proved the Person unfit for the Business.