JOHN A. SIGLER,
THOS. R. GREEN,
J. B. FLETCHER.

April 13, 1904.

CAROLINE'S new road law will go into effect on July 1st. After that time, the civil engineer, which one of the over zealous Democratic opponents of the new system described as being "some kind of a new machine with two smokestacks and three whistles, to scare all the horses to death," will take charge.

UP TO last week 446 delegates had been chosen to the Republican National Convention, which will meet in Chicago in June. Of this number 341 have been instructed for Roosevelt. Other conventions have since been held and most of them have instructed their delegates for the President, and he will probably be nominated by acclamation.

THE Almshouse question still remains unsettled. The explanation of President Kinnamon which did not explain has only awakened new question, a few of which have been asked by the UNION, and yet the trustees are as mum as oysters. The Greensboro Free Press wants to know? A subscriber of the Caroline Sun wants to know? Do the County Commissioners also, want to know? It was expected that the appointment of Trustees of the Poor would be taken up a week ago, but the matter was deferred until this week and at the meeting on Tuesday it was again postponed until next week Can it be that the County Commissioners, like the people, are not satisfied with the explanation that failed to explain. And yet the Commissioners must have known of the proposed timber sale, as it has always been customary in matters of this kind, for them to authorize such sales to be made. Perhaps the Commissioners can give the public the information the trustees seem to be withholding.

THE cartoonist plays a prominent part these days in portraying for the daily press the passing events, and in political campaigns his work takes a leading part. While public men and their policies and actions are cartooned almost every day without comment from the subjects, there are occasions when they leave a sting that is probably carried through life. Such a case was related by Senator Scott a short time since when eulogies upon the character of the late Senator Hanna were being delivered in the Senate. In telling of the attacks made upon Mr. Hanna, Senator Scott related the following:

"I shall never forget one morning when he handed me a New York paper containing a cartoon of himself pictured as a huge monster, clad in a suit covered with dollar marks, smoking an immense cigar and trampling under foot women and children until their eyes protruded from the sockets and their skeleton forms writhed in agony. After I had looked at it for a moment he said to me: 'That hurts.' When I have tried all my life to put myself in the other fellow's place, when I have tried to help those in need and to lighten the burdens of those less fortunate than myself, to be pictured as I am here, to be held up to the gaze of the world as a murderer of women and children, I tell you it hurts,' and, looking up into the frank, manly face, I saw the tears coursing down his cheeks, and he turned and silently walked away."

NEWS OF THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Special Correspondence.

ST. LOUIS, MO., APR. 21, 1904.

The dedication of the Connecticut Building will occur on May 3

The Anderson, Ind., Boys' Band will walk from that city to the World's Fair, where it will play in the Indiana Building, on Indiana Day. The trip will require about a month, and the boys will give concerts in the towns through which they pass.

One of the features of the World's Fair will be the Lacrosse Tournament consisting of a series of spirited match games between the celebrated Crescent Athletic Club, of Brooklyn, the Shamrocks, Thistles, Victorias and other crack teams of Canada, the famous Oneidas, of New York, and several Indian lacrosse clubs. The tournament will be held in July.

A unique exhibit was prepared by the agricultural department of the University of California. It is a large map so colored as to show the character of the various soils of the State. It gives a clear idea of the situation and extent of the arable and untillable sections. In the localities that cannot be cultivated are shown the Seirras. The lava beds and the desert. The map indicates the location of the cultivated portions of the mountains and Mohave plateau and shows the nature of the foot hills and valleys of that wonderful State.

Bulgaria's display of attar of roses combined with that country's exhibit, is the most important and interesting ever exhibited at a World's Fair by Bulgarians. The production of attar of roses is confined almost exclusively to this small European country, and an especially large display of this most powerful and delightful perfume will be made. The exhibit of this product is made in a beautiful grotto in the Palace of Varied Industries. In the grotto, which is illuminated with numerous partially concealed lights, are placed many allegorical figures, which in the soft and mellow light assume fantastic and weird forms. The subtle odor of the famed perfume pervades every part of the grotto, and the visitor may easily imagine he has invaded fairyland. The Bulgarian artists have collected a splendid collection of paintings for the Art Palaces, and the display of artistic rugs and novelties is unsurpassed.

Siam's exhibit was shipped to St. Louis early in March, and is now being installed in the various exposition palaces. In the Manufactures Palace Siam makes an exhibit of wide scope. In the display are to be found some fine old silver and brass, some fine embroideries, both ancient and modern, some splendid inlaid work of mother-of-pearl and some rare black bronzes. The exhibit of brick, tile and pottery is good; the black-and-gold lacquer is excellent, and the textile fabrics both in silk and cotton will no doubt surprise those unacquainted with the Siamese people. There are a number of model looms and spinning wheels with examples of mat, cloth and silk weaving and embroidery. The large variety of silk fabrics of conventional patterns peculiar to Siam, illustrates the excellent foundation on which is to be builded the development of sericulture that the Siamese Government is just now taking up under Japanese tuition.

Oil paintings, statuary and rare specimens of applied art are fast being installed in the gallaries of the Art Palace, the unpacking of exhibits were begun as soon as the decorators completed the interior furnishings which have made this group of buildings the handsomest in which a collection of the world's art was ever displayed. Dark silk burlap has been used in covering the walls and this furnishes an excellent background for the paintings which face aisles well lighted by roof windows, the rays falling with a soft effect upon the pictures and other exhibits now being tastefully arranged preparatory to the opening of the gallaries with the Exposition on April 30. With the French exhibits 12 caretakers were brought from Paris to do the unpacking and placing of the treasured works preserved from the old masters, and this government is the furthest advanced with its installation. Belgium has contributed more than 250 oil paintings.

Excessive Exertion.

Mr. Editor:

As a further proof of what I have claimed in my previous articles, I quote you a statement made quite recently by an eminent New York physician, who has had actual practice in and made a special study of the brain and nervous system for the past twenty-eight years, and is certainly entitled to credit as knowing what he is talking about:

"The importance of the nervous system, its power over life, and the direct bearing which it has on human happiness, are thoroughly recognized; its uses, and the danger of overtaxing it, whether through intense mental application, or by the excessive indulgence of the appetites and propensities, are proper subjects for consideration.

"Those who, like myself, devote themselves exclusively to the treatment of nervous debility and its multiplicity of causes, have opportunities for judging of this question that occur to no one else.

"The human body, no more than a piece of machinery, can be made to perform more than a certain amount of work without suffering from derangement afterward. Every one is familiar with the sense of fatigue that is experienced after violent exertion. This is known to arise from a change that has taken place in the texture and fibre of the muscle. In moderate exertion the muscle recovers itself during the intervals of repose, but where the exertion is excessive this cannot take place, and a prolonged rest becomes absolutely necessary. Should such rest not be obtained, then a wasting of the tissues follow, and ultimately complete atrophy ensues. What takes place in the muscle will also occur in the nerve under similar circumstances, at least in a broad sense of the term. The exact change which takes place in the nerve during exertion is not so well known as that which occurs in the muscle, but the former is as liable to fatigue as the latter, and the result of the fatigue, when kept up uninterruptedly, will be very much the same. Intense mental action, or any other continued strain upon the nervous system, will end in not only a diminution of nerve force, and, as a consequence, loss of intellectual power, but a deficiency in all vital action, and th refore general debility and nervous exhaustion. The mischief in cases of this kind is never confined to the parts primarily affected, but extends first to the adjacent parts, and ultimately to the most remote portions of the frame. Mental labor of a monotonous kind has a most prejudicial effect upon the system, as has also excessive brain work. Either will, in the end, give rise to debility and break down the strongest constitution.

"It will be obvious enough to the most superficial observer, that there will follow from the undermining of the constitution, produced by powerful causes like these, a series of evil effects both upon the body and mind. These may involve primarily indigestion on the one hand, and loss of nerve power on the other, from which there is certain to follow a catalogue of ills far too long to name here. From indigestion will spring loss of flesh, and with it physical power, derangement of the liver, constipation, bilious headaches, nausea, giddiness, affections of the stomach, and general derangement of the system; and from loss of nerve power will spring disturbed sleep, distressed looks, morbid sensibility, disinclination for study, extreme diffidence, great depression of spirits, melancholy (the cause of many suicides), and a score of similar disorders. Great mental anxiety will destroy the body as certainly as the plague."

A New Summer Resort.

Among the many attractions offered by the Queen Anne's Railroad Company, for season of 1904, is Lewes, Del., as an attractive Ocean Resort. Within the past few years, a new town has sprung up on the beach front, where may be found new and up to date hotels and cottages. The Delaware Breakwater, one of the most expensive engineering works constructed by the United States Government, creating a safe harbor for vessels, offers safe and excellent still-water bathing for women and children. The Henlopen Lighthouse, the expansive Sand Dunes, together with the original grant of Timber Land, a donation from Lord Baltimore to the poor of Lewes, to be used as fire wood, are historic landmarks. Lewes further enjoys the distinction of having had Stephen Gerard incarcerated in its jail, for debt, under the old English laws. Lewes proper is the oldest town in the State. It has large and commodious mercantile houses, water works and an electric light plant and other conveniences that any city should feel proud to possess. The fine fishing and hunting to be found there is something beyond the ordinary.

A GREAT SENSATION.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind., when W. H. Brown, of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter effected a complete cure." Similar cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by R J. Colston, Druggist. Trial bottles free.

Garfield Probes Beef Trust.

The Government has begun an investigation to discover if a beef trust exists among the Western packers. James R. Garfield, chief of the Bureau of Corporations, of the Department of Commerce and Labor, is in Chicago with Inspector Carroll, of the Department of Agriculture, to make inquiry at the stock yards. Other men have been sent to Kansas City, Omaha and all large cattle markets, while two representatives of the Government have been sent to attend range meetings throughout the Northwest among the cattle raisers.

All of these men making investigations in various cattle centres are working under Mr. Garfield's orders. When they make their final report Mr. Garfield will compile his final report to Secretary Cortelyou and on this will be determined whether there exists a Trust.

Warns Justices of Peace.

In the United States District Court Wednesday of last week Judge Morris sentenced John B. Fairbanks, a justice of the peace for Talbot county, to pay a fine of $75 and costs for making a certificate to an affidavit when the affiant had never appeared before him. Fairbanks plead guilty to the charge some time ago.

In passing sentence, Judge Morris said that the only adequate punishment for the offense would be such a crushing one that he would not inflict it in view of the advanced age of the prisoner. At the same time, he warned Fairbanks that he, or any other magistrates who should hereafter be convicted of such a charge, would suffer exceedingly for it.—Baltimore News.

I have one extra heavy STEEL RANGE. The body of it will last about twice as long as any other steel range made because it is about twice as thick, and my Quick Meal Steel Range is the best medium-weight steel range made. Price of steel ranges, $18.00 to $50.00.

HARRINGTON, DEL., Jan. 7, 1903.

MR. HARVEY:

Dear Sir:—I want to say a few words in behalf of the Quick Meal Steel Range which I purchased of you a few weeks ago. It is a No. 1 baker, a quick heater, and draws nicely. It is even a nice stove to sit by. It will when done cooking in the oven, heat the room as well as a set stove. It burns wet, green wood better than any stove I ever saw. In fact, it gives perfect satisfaction in every respect. I find it all you told us it was. I can hardly tell you how well pleased we are with it. If I knew I could not get another, no price anywhere in reason, could buy this one.

Yours respectfully,
