...URSDAY MORNING, MAY 12, 1904.

WITH the new adjustment of the Board of Trustees of the Poor a few weeks since, we supposed the agitation of the questions which had caused the changes had been settled, and that the interests and business of the people would be looked after in a proper manner. Various charges were made regarding certain business transactions, showing either incompetency or indifference on the part of the Trustees, and a change was made in the Board to rectify, as was supposed, any mistakes that had been made. What has been done? Simply nothing. Has the contract by which one hundred acres of the county's timber was sold for one fourth its value been rescinded? If a majority of the Trustees of the Poor bargained to sell the county's property for less than its value, are the County Commissioners bound to confirm that sale? What good has the change in the personnel of the Board done, if the county's property is still to be sacrificed? Who will blame the purchaser if he takes possession and cuts the timber, if the county officials sit with folded hands and make no objection? It is not customary for a purchaser to surrender a good bargain voluntarily. Do the County Commissioners know that this contract will not hold in law? Do they know also that it is easier to hold possession of property than to secure possession after it has passed into the hands of another? Numerous inquiries are still being made regarding this transaction and no matter what changes are made by the bosses of the Democratic party, the people will still hold them accountable if their interests are sacrificed.

THE Maryland State Board of Education as now constituted by appointment of Governor Warfield is as follows: E. Stanley Garey, Baltimore city, six years; John G. Rogers, Howard county, two years; Zadock P. Wharton, Worcester county, four years; Clayton Purnell Allegany county, four years; Glenn H Worthington, Frederick county, six years, and Robert C. Cole, Baltimore city, six years. The latter two are new appointments.

THE Republicans of the Fifth Congressional District of Maryland, in their convention at Hyattsville nominated Hon. Sydney E Mudd to succeed himself in Congress. This is the seventh time Mr. Mudd has been thus honored. The Democrats, however, expect to defeat him this time through the operation of the new election law.

IT is pleasantly suggested to Col. Bryan by some of our Democratic contemporaries that if he is going to bolt it will save the peace of the party if he will do it before the national convention. That, however, would spoil all his fun.

MARYLAND BALLOT LAW.

A Baltimore correspondent of the Philadelphia Record, in commenting upon the new ballot law of Maryland, writes as follows:

"Politicians in this and other States are deeply interested in the effect of the Wilson law abolishing party designations on the ballot. The Democrats are building great hopes upon it and they expect by its aid to elect their candidates for Congress in the First or Eastern Shore District, and to give Congressman Mudd a pretty close rub in the Fifth, which includes the "black belt" of Southern Maryland.

"The Second, Third and Fourth Districts are thoroughly exempted from the operation of the law. Three counties in the First District, in which there is a considerable colored vote—namely, Kent, Somerset and Worcester—are not exempted. In Howard county, which is a Democratic stronghold and the home county of Governor Warfield and of Senator Gorman, the law is not operative.

"The Democrats base their hope of success through the operation of the law on the belief that illiterate voters will not be able to mark their ballots accurately; that a ballot marked inaccurately is equal to a ballot at all; that illiteracy prevails to a greater extent in the counties in which there is a large colored population than in the counties where the colored populat on is small, and that, therefore, the law should operate to facilitate Democratic success.

"The law really imposes an educational qualification. In order to mark his ballot accurately the voter must not only be able to read the names of the candidates, but he must also be able to discriminate in the politics of the candidate, to know whether a candidate is a Democrat or Republican. He must study the ticket in advance. It will not do to secure a ballot and learn to mark the names in numerical order—that is, every second, fifth, sixth, ninth, etc.—that being the order in which, for illustration, Republican names may be arranged on a sample ballot, for the names may be differently arranged on separate ballots. Thus the numerical order will be different.

"The ballot should not prove as troublesome at the next election as in subsequent elections to illiterate voters, since there will be names only of the candidates for Congress and of Presidential electors. A mark must, however, be placed after the name of each candidate for elector. If the Prohibitionists and other third parties make nominations for the Presidency and for Congress in all the districts it will be evident that there will be sufficient names on the ballots to confuse to some extent illiterate voters not only in the counties in which the Wilson law is effective, but also in this city and in the counties to which the law does not apply.

"It will be next year, however, when the Democrats hope to reap their greatest harvest from the new law. The ballot will then contain a large array of names of candidates for the many local positions then to be filled, and the ballot will be confusion to the full limit. It will be largely by rejected ballots that those Democrats favoring the Poe disfranchising plan hope to have the amendment to the Constitution adopted. A study of the white and colored illiterates in the counties to which the Wilson law will apply will show how well founded are the Democratic hopes of success:

Breakdown of Girls and Women.

Mr. Editor:

The following is a communication to the Baltimore Sun, of last Saturday, from "Health Lover," which gives the truth in a nutshell:

"In your issue of May 2 you gave a timely article from the Alienist and Neurologist on 'The Life and Health of Our Girls,' written by Dr. James H. McBride. It is only one of the thousands of articles that have of late years appeared from our best physicians.

"While men of common observation and physicians have perhaps led the warnings in behalf of girls, there are, nevertheless, at the present time many educators also giving equal expression to their views on the same subject. One of the most recent of these is Miss Grace Strachan, District Superintendent of Schools in Brooklyn. Principal Welland Hale, of that city, quotes her in the course of a long article in the Brooklyn Eagle thus:

"'How seldom does the mother or teacher or other person concerned with the education of the girl consider her as a future wife and mother. This should determine her plan of education. Its most important aim should be to equip her to fill nobly and well the duties of wifehood and motherhood. The thought that here is a creature designed by God to perpetuate the race and that, in order to insure a race physically, mentally and morally strong this creature must be physically, mentally and morally strong, should be the cornerstone of our educational work for girls.

"'The mothers are terribly crowding their girls forward, wanting the little girls to become ladies; pushing them for promotion while giving them dancing lessons, music lessons, evening parties, late-staying company and night visits to the theatre. What other than disastrous physical breakdown can follow such a course? Girls should play out of doors every day, whether in city or country. They should have wholesome, purposeful, muscle-using games, not prim walking or visits or strolling through the stores. The daughter should have some housework, no matter how many servants there may be in the family; give her beds to make and sweeping and dusting to do, but above all, let the girls play out of doors. Let them neglect their lessons, their dress, yea, even their prayers; but let them not neglect their physical development, because a truly healthy woman has the best chance of being mentally and morally strong.'"

"Principal Hale at the same time quoted three other educators on the subject, and he concluded:

"'I happen to know that the four persons whose opinions I have quoted occupy advanced positions in the matter of considering the health and happiness of girls; but they are not free to do much. A huge and grinding American school system, an unenlightened public opinion, a mass of teachers with their attention fastened upon secondary considerations—these constitute the real force.'"

"Now all these educators who see and deplore the slaughter or suffering of the modern girl or woman should, if they mean what they say step down and out from a system which they see so much at variance with Nature and which they cannot by any possibility improve by remaining in it."

Not only are children in Denton allowed to attend evening parties and perambulate the streets until ten and eleven o'clock, but girls of twelve and thirteen years are permitted to entertain their gentleman friend without the presence of a chaperon or other older person than themselves, while the parents are at church or visiting.

Delegates to Chicago.

The District Convention of the Republican party for the First Congressional District, was held in Salisbury, on Thursday last, and by a unanimous vote selected Hon. Isaac A. Barber, of Talbot county, as elector on the National Republican ticket, and elected State Senator Henry M. McColough, of Cecil county, and Hon. P. L. Goldsborough, of Dorchester county, delegates to the National convention at Chicago. They were instructed to vote for the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt for President. Messrs. William W. Day of Wicomico county and William J. Vannort, of Kent county, were elected alternate delegates by acclamation.

The convention met in the court house and was presided over by Mr. D. Grier, of Wicomico, and Henry C. Powell, Jr., of Worcester, acted as secretary. The disturbance in the harmony of the convention arose over the contesting delegations from Queen Anne's county. After deliberating for an hour the Committee on Credentials seated the following delegates: C F. Rich, Wm. C. Orrell, W. B. Sparks, Geo. E. S. Ringgold. The delegation headed by John E. Wilson was refused recognition.

The committee on resolutions reported the following which were unanimously adopted:

The Republican party of the First Congressional District, in District Convention assembled, does hereby endorse the able, business-like and thoroughly American policy of Theodore Roosevelt, and it is believed that the business interests of the nation demand his nomination for the presidency thereof.

BE IT RESOLVED, that the delegates this day elected to the National Republican Convention at Chicago, are hereby instructed to cast their vote for President Roosevelt

BE IT RESOLVED, That this convention requests the delegates this day selected by it, and the delegates at large to be named by the State Convention, understanding that one of the delegates-at-large will come from the Eastern Shore of Maryland and that he will and should be Hon Wm. H Jackson, act in harmony in all matters coming before the National Convention, of which they will be members.

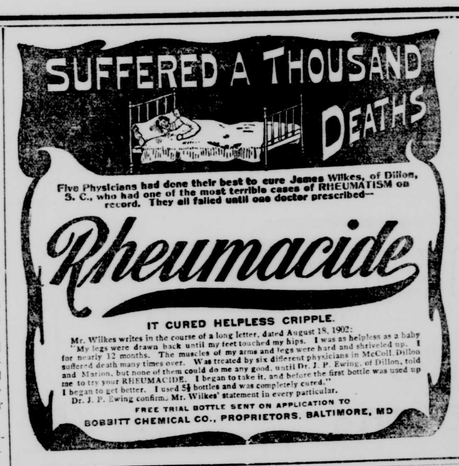

After providing that the State Central Committee of the First Congressional District be empowered to fill any vacancy that may occur in the office of elector, the convention adjourned sine die.

In fact, it gives perfect satisfaction in every respect. I find it all you told us it was. I can hardly tell you how well pleased we are with it.
