REPUBICAN NOMINEES.

For President,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT,
OF NEW YORK.

For Vice President,
CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS,
OF INDIANA.

Election—Tuesday, November 8.

It looks now as if the Prohibition party would nominate General Nelson A. Miles as their candidate for President of the United States.

UNDER the new road law Caroline's apportionment for road improvements will be $7,078.16, for a road mileage of 547 miles.

THE latest news from the war in the East is, that the Russian General has decided to retreat again. The Japanese keep advancing steadily, and the Russians retreat when they get too close.

DURING the Republican convention last week a dinner was given one evening in honor of Mr. Cannon of Illinois, who was permanent chairman of the convention. In responding to the toast, "The Speaker of the House," Mr. Cannon said: "The speakership is a great office if worthily filled, and in my opinion is very close in importance to the office of of President. Indeed, I consider the speakership the second office under our Government. When I was elected to it your 'Uncle Joe' Cannon was completely submerged and his position of Representative exalted. In that office I have gloried for the past thirty years, and if my constituency continues to treat me as kindly for the next thirty years I'll die a member of the popular body."

WILL JACKSON ACCEPT?

There is considerable speculation upon the attitude of Congressman Jackson toward a re-nomination. The Democrats would be delighted if he should decline, and the Republicans regard him as the strongest man in their party in the district for the nomination. While not authentic, the reasons given for Mr. Jackson's hesitency are interesting, most of them originating in Baltimore. The Baltimore Herald has the following:

"Congressman Jackson, it is reported, is disinclined to stand again and for various reasons. Like Mudd he looks for heavy losses in the black belt which forms part of his district, about 2,000 colored voters being affected. The First District is normally Democratic, and only by a liberal distribution of the long green has the Congressman succeeded in winning out. He is tiring, it is said, of the costly honor of representing his district.

"One of Mr. Jackson's constituent offers another explanation for the Congressman's alleged intention. He says Jackson is disgusted with things generally, and particularly with the State management. McComas is his bete noir. He shed no bitter tears when the Senator went down to defeat last fall, and hoped he would cease to be a factor in State politics. According to the arrangement the Congressman had mapped out, Ex-Governor Lowndes was to succeed the Senator as National committeeman and General Gary was to be chosen delegate-at-large to the National Convention. This plan was killed, however, immediately after the meeting of the State Central Committee, when the organization decreed that McComas should succeed himself and General Agnus to be the delegate-at large in place of Gary.

"Since then Mr. Jackson has taken no interest in Republican politics. He took a hand in the District Convention so as to protect his people and to insure his election as a delegate-at- large but after demonstrating his power he yielded the honor to his alternate, Ex-Senator Baker, of Kent county.

"Mr Jackson won't go to Chicago," said the Herald's informant, "because he does not like McComas and Agnus, and don't want to be placed in the position of concurring in the selection of the Senator as National Committeeman. Had there been a contest he might have gone. If, as is reported, he has decided not again to be a candidate for Congress then, I take it, he is drawing out in order to avoid the heavy contribution necessary to carry his district and incidentally the State. His idea is to let McComas deliver the goods if he can. With him, Lowndes and Garey holding aloof, the party leaders in the State would have a time of it collecting enough funds to make a winning fight. He wants to demonstrate the wisdom of dividing the honors and the emoluments

Those who furnish the money should, he thinks, be given the honors, while those drawing salaries should stand aside. According to his reasoning, the office-holder cannot win without the monied man, and he proposes to prove it."

The Baltimore Sun of Wednesday of last week says:

"When asked yesterday with regard to the political situation and as to what he thought of the action of the Maryland delegation at Chicago, Mr. Jackson replied:

"I have nothing to say in reply to either question. Let them go ahead."

"Will you be a candidate for re-election?" he was asked.

"I never sing until the hymn is given out," replied the Congressman "I am not ready to make known just what I will do; I have not made up my mind. Anyone quoting my intention knows more than I do."

"This was the substance of the interview, but from Mr. Jackson's general tone it could be seen that he was not enthusiastic about political matters of any character. Should Congressman Jackson decline to accept a renomination, it is generally conceded that the Republicans would have a rough road to travel in the First Congressional District, no matter whom they may nominate."

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The National Convention of the Republican party was held at Chicago last week, beginning on Tuesday, and was in session three days. The was no unpleasantness during the entire session and very few contesting delegations. There was the usual contest from Delaware and the Addicks' delegates were seated. With almost surprising unanimity Theodore Roosevelt, of New York, was nominated for President of the United States, and Charles Warner Fairbanks, of Indiana, for Vice-President.

The names of the nominees are placed at the head of our editorial page to-day to remain there until the people by their ballots shall decide whether or not they shall occupy the highest offices in the gift of the Nation.

The platform adopted is regarded as sound and progressive. We shall give it at some future time when our space will permit.

NEWS OF THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Special Correspondence.

ST. LOUIS, MO., JUNE 28, 1904.

The Commitee on Ceremonies of the Exposition is engaged upon the celebration of the Fourth of July It is the purpose to make Independence Day surpass in interest and attendence all previous days of the World's Fair, not excepting the opening day, April 30, which was a record breaker in Exposition history.

The plans as contemplated are not yet perfectec in detail. They will include features of special interest, beginning early in the day and continuing far into the night. The director of Works has already entered upon a scheme of illumination which will eclipse in splendor and uniqueness the present wonderful display. It is the intention to have a series of attractions which will be free to all. The concession amusements will, of course, be running, but the exposition management intends to supplement these with numerous features given in the Plazas during the day and evening. Information received through railroad channels indicates a very large attendence from the surrounding territory.

The 4th of July falls upon Monday this year. In view of the promised attendence of at least a quarter of a million of people, the exposition management will largely increase the number of free seats, the provisions for free water and other free conveniences. The steam railroads and street railroads will make special effort to handle the crowds. To encourage the coming of picnic parties, the three hundred acres of woodland and lawn in the southern part of the grounds will be put in condition for the use of such parties.

* * *

Elks are coming to the Fair in herds during July, many lodges having arranged for large delegations to visit the Fair on Elk's Day, July 26. Thousands of members of this order will come in special cars and special trains, from all the states in the Union, some in uniform and others wearing only badges and antlers to show their membership. They are coming to stay from one to two weeks and are preparing for a general good time such as brother Elks always enjoy together.

* * *

The World's Fair is to be the scene of many bicycle races during the first week in August. All distances will be covered, from a quarter of a mile to twenty-five miles. One of the leading events will be a twenty mile bicycle race paced by motorcycles, another will be a twenty-five mile unpaced race. The awards will comprize gold, silver and bronze medals. For professional riders cash prizes will be awarded, amounting to about $2,000. There will be a special event for power-driven motor cycles and one hour's race for the middle distance championship.

* * *

One of the handsomest of the many beautiful architectural achievements composing the World's Fair picture is the Temple of Fraternity, where the fraternal organizations of the world have their headquarters during the Exposition period. It has just been dedicated and is open to all fraternal visitors.

This building is in part a reproduction of the Parthenon of Athens. It occupies a conspicuous site on the summit of Temple Hill in the central part of the grounds, and from its wide verandas a large part of the grounds is to be seen. The structure is 65 x 225 feet and is three stories high, with a partial basement. There are two big assembly rooms on the third floor, with a seating capacity of 1000 persons.

Long corridors run through the building on all floors, permitting ample circulation; and the big rotunda on the first floor, handsomely decorted, makes a meeting place for those visiting, or interested in the building. The rotunda on the second floor is used as a Hall of Fame, in which are hung portraits and other matter pertaining to the various societies belonging to the organization.

The broad terrace is cool and will have ample shade during the entire summer. All of the rooms on the first floor open on this terrace, and those of the second open to a balcony over it. The rooms are handsomely decorated. This fraternal club-house affords to the visiting members convenience and comforts which have never before been provided, for their special benefit, at any World's Fair.

Each of the forty rooms for society head quarters is furnished with rugs, desks, tables, chairs and electric lights. A general reception parlor, smoking, reading, writing and toilet rooms have been supplied, with all of the conveniences pertaining thereto. There are also refreshment booths, nursery, barber-shop, a branch office, telegraph, telephone, and messenger stations, as well as parcel check-room, hospital ward, etc. In addition to these conveniences the Temple has a free Bureau of Information, with a Lost and Found Department.

Aged Woman's Home Commended.

Governor Warfield recently paid a visit to the Aged Woman's Home in Easton and made an inspection of the building and its appliances for the comfort of its inmates. He pronounced it well equipped and one of the best arranged institutions of the kind in the State and complimented the benevolence of those supporting it and the kindness of it managers. He thought the example of Talbot and Caroline counties in this regard should be followed by all the other counties of the state.

SUFFERED A THOUSAND DEATHS

Five Physicians had done their best to cure James Wilkes, of Dillon, S. C., who had one of the most terrible cases of RHEUMATISM on record. They all failed until one doctor prescribed—

Rheumacide

IT CURED HELPLESS CRIPPLE.

Mr. Wilkes writes in the course of a long letter, dated August 18, 1902:

"My legs were drawn back until my feet touched my hips. I was as helpless as a baby for nearly 12 months. The muscles of my arms and legs were hard and shriveled up. I suffered death many times over. Was treated by six different physicians in McColl, Dillon and Marion, but none of them could do me any good, until Dr. J. P. Ewing, of Dillon, told me to try your RHEUMACIDE. I began to take it, and before the first bottle was used up I began to get better. I used 5½ bottles and was completely cured."

Dr. J. P. Ewing confirms Mr. Wilkes' statement in every particular.

In fact, it gives perfect satisfaction in every respect. I find it all you told us it was. I can hardly tell you how well pleased we are with it. If I knew I could not get another, no price anywhere in reason, could buy this one.

Mr. T. Harvey:

The Quick Meal Range I bought of you some time ago gives entire satisfaction. It is a good burner and a splendid baker. It is a "quick meal range" indeed. I don't see how a range could work better. Your stove is all you claim it to be and it is indeed a wood saver. I don't see how any stove could give better satisfaction.
