Albert Constable Murdered.

After lingering for four days in a Baltimore hospital, with a bullet hole through his back and lung and another in his head, Albert Constable, a prominent attorney of Elkton, died on Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Death resulted from blood poisoning and pneumonia.

The shooting occurred at a place called Red Hill, about a half mile from Elkton, where Mr. Constable had gone for a walk in the dusk of the evening. His assailant who Mr. Constable said was a white man, accosted him with the exclamation of "Hands up!" in a manner that led him to think he was being made the victim of a joke. The man quickly advanced however with a drawn revolver and Mr. Constable remarked that he had only a quarter in his pocket. The highwayman demanded that and his watch and chain. Fearing some personal violence Mr. Conetable started to run. Three shots were fired at him, the second one hitting him in the back and the third one in the head, the last one causing him to fall. The highwayman approached the fallen lawyer as he lay on the ground and demanded that he throw him the watch and money, while he stood some distance away with his hand over his face. Mr. Constable complied and said that he told him to tell some one to come to his assistance. The robber said "all right" and in a few minutes some colored people appeared saying they had been told that "a sick man lying in the road wanted them."

The bullet in the back had struck the spinal cord causing paralysis of the lower limbs, and the unfortunate man was removed to his home and later to the Union Protestant Infirmary, in Baltimore.

The highwayman made his escape and had not been captured up to Wednesday night.

Mr. Constable was one of the most prominent lawyers in the State and his sad death is greatly regretted. A reward of $2,500 has been offered for the capture of the robber and murderer.

The Old Fossil Found in Every Town.

The man who always cries "it can't be done" is still with us. But he said that railroad trains were an impossibility, that ships could never be propelled by steam, that telegraphy was a delusion, that paved streets were a useless expense, that slavery could never be abolished, that government was a failure, and that everything, except himself, was a fraud. This is the man who kicks up a great fuss over the failure of men to aid in public movements, yet always keeps away from the public meeting. He is the fellow who decries the evils in the local, state and national governments, but has not voted any ticket for over a decade, unless hauled to the polls in a wagon paid for by the money of some other person. He is against the mayor, and if a church man, is at war with the preacher and finds fault with the choir, though he gives only a nickle a month. This is the man, in short, who stands in the way of every good and useful movement, moral or material, and when he departs from this life leaves only bills and funeral expenses for his relatives to pay. And, sadly enough, there are quite a number of the species around.

TAKEN WITH CRAMPS

Wm. Kirmise, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicines. —Elkader, Iowa, Argus.

Comfort in "Jim Crow" Cars.

It was demonstrated at Ocean City Sunday that the "Jim Crow" law gives the negro a decided advantage over the white people. A heavy train pulled into that seaside resort packed to its fullest capacity with pleasure seekers. Many persons were at the station, and as the cars passed it was noticed that not only the seats were taken, but people were standing in the aisles, and even the platforms were crowded. This was noticeable of every car except the last, which was the "Jim-Crow" coach. There was no rush to leave this car, no crowding, no pulling and hauling, for but two passengers occupied it, and they alighted with an air of satisfaction, while the white people were nearly overcome by the heat of the cars, and their clothing and hats showed signs of the rush.

$1.20 Wheat Predicted.

J. A. Everitt, President of the American Society of Equity, has issued the following bulletin to the wheat growers of America:

This society estimates the 1904 winter wheat crop in the United States at 365,000,000 bushels, and the spring wheat at 210,000,000 bushels making a total of 575,000,000 bushels. This society also recommend a minimum price for the 1904 crop of wheat of $1.20 per bushel on the basis of Chicago market for No. 2 winter wheat. Wheat growers everywhere are urged to keep this price in mind, ask it and hold for it. The winter wheat crop is a very short one, besides there is an enormous quantity of low grade wheat, the result of the hard winter, wet season and rust. There is scarcely a section in the winter wheat belt where the wheat has not suffered, to cause a light yield or the grain has been damaged, or both. The spring wheat estimate may be changed depending on the weather until it is finally saved. The estimate on winter wheat is based on extensive investigating and reports from about 12,000 farmers.

It will be remembered that last year we published President Everitt's bulletin predicting $1 wheat. D. M. Wilson, of this town, took his advice and received over $1 for his wheat. Mr. Everitt further says:

Farmers, don't you realize that you have grown a very short crop of wheat, that the world must have it for food, that if you receive $1.20 per bushel for it it will bring you only $690,000,000, providing it was all of good quality. But is must be discounted by at least 50,000,000 bushels to put the crop on a flour making basis. This is not overdrawn. Future developments will verify these estimates. You need not be alarmed about the export demand. You have very little wheat to spare for export, but the probabilities are Europe cannot do without some of our wheat at any price. Remember 1903. Remember how we told you your wheat was worth $1 a bushel and that we, with your help, would put it to that price. Remember how most of you sacrificed your fine wheat before the price came. Will you be so foolish again, or have you learned by experience?

Considering all the things that enter into the situation this year, domestic and foreign, there is a better prospect for $1.20 for the 1904 crop than there was for $1 for the 1903 crop, and we never had a doubt of that crop going to the price set. Don't be frightened by the bug bear "Farmer's can't hold." They can hold. Here is a surprise that should effectually remove that excuse as a valid argument, of 12,128 reporting on their wheat crop, 11,122 said they did not need to sell at once and could hold until December if necessary to get their price. This left only 1,006 out of this vast army who for any reason could not hold, and among these 744 said they could hold part. We consider these reports as fairly representative of all wheat growers and in the face of such a showing who dare claim that the farmers cannot control their marketing and feed the world when the demand seeks the supply, They shrely are not obliged to dump their crops and overwhelm the demand.

Farmers, we have urged you and we have appealed to you to hold for the price set, and demadd it. It is equitable; it is right. An advance of twenty cents a bushel on your wheat only makes a difference of 2 cents a week on each persons food. The consumer will not protest but it will make farmers spenders of much more money that will benefit every legitimate business and every laboring man. We now beseech you, all who can, and there are few who cannot, to hold your wheat from the market until the price is reached We believe if this call could reach all the wheat growers, the marketing would dry up so as to accomplish the desired results in a few days.
