aforesaid, and this defendant saith that the respective debits and credits on which the said last mentioned balance arose are truly shewn and exhibited in the latter part of the eighth page, in the ninth and tenth page and in the first part of the eleventh page to the aforesaid statement, exhibited as afore.

This Defendant further saith that on the Sixteenth day of September in the year our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninety one this Defendant and the said George came to another settlement which was fairly and deliberately made on which besides the principal sum secured by the said mortgage there was a balance including the surplus of interest due on the said mortgage of the sum of three hundred and ninety three pounds nineteen shillings and six pence one farthing for which sum the said George then and there did execute to this Defendant his bond to secure the payment thereof with interest, and this Defendant admits that the Defendants Clerk Jacob Clayland in stating the interest account did charge interest upon each years interest of the mortgage from the time such years interest ought to be paid as a compensation for the injury sustained by the Defendants laying out of such interest of the mortgage which this Defendant saith was but a poor compensation to him for the want of his money as he was then engaged in trade and commerce, and this charge was so made with the privity and approbation of the said George, which accumulation of interest in the whole amounted to fifteen pounds eleven pence and one farthing and this Defendant further saith that the several debits and credits constituting the balance for which the said last bond was taken is truly and justly stated, in the latter part of page eleven and in pages twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, eighteen and nineteen of the said statement exhibited as aforesaid.

This Defendant further saith that on the sixth day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninety two this Defendant and the said George came to another settlement which was fairly and deliberately made upon which settlement there was beside the principal secured by the said mortgage the sum of six hundred and thirteen pounds eleven shillings and eight pence half penny due to this Defendant for which the said George then did execute this bond to this said Defendant to secure the payment of the same with interest, and this Defendant saith that the several credits and debits on which the said balance did arise are truly stated in the twentieth page and in the first part of the twenty first page of the said statement so by this Defendant exhibited. — This Defendant further saith that on the eighteenth day of September in the same year the said George and this Defendant came to a settlement which was fairly and deliberately made when besides the principal money so secured by mortgage there was a balance due to this Defendant amounting to eight hundred and sixty six pounds seven pence half penny to secure the payment of which with legal interest the said George did execute on that day his bond to this Defendant, and this defendant saith the several debits and credits upon which the said last mentioned balance arose are truly stated in the latter part of page twenty one and in the first part of page twenty two of the aforesaid statement by this Defendant exhibited.

This Defendant further saith that on the fifteenth day of April in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and fifty three this Defendant and the said George came to a settlement which was fairly and deliberately made when there was a balance due to this Defendant amounting to nine hundred and ninety four pounds sixteen shillings and seven pence half penny besides the principal secured by the mortgage aforesaid to secure the payment of which with interest the said George executed to this Defendant on that day his bond. and this Defendant saith the several debits and credits on which the said balance arose are truly stated in the latter part of the twenty second page in the twenty third page and in the first part of the twenty fourth page of the said statement so by this Defendant exhibited. and this Defendant saith that on the first day of June following this Defendant and the said George finally closed and settled their accounts as far as transactions had then been between them and that at that time besides the principal sum which was secured by the aforesaid mortgage, there was due to this Defendant the sum of one thousand sixteen pounds eleven shillings and four pence halfpenny to secure the payment of which with interest the said George that day executed the mortgage deed dated of that date, and this Defendant saith the credits and debits on which the said balance arose are truly stated in the middle part of the twenty fourth page of the statement aforesaid, and the said Defendant saith that the two principal sums mentioned in the said mortgage deeds respectively with interest on those sums from the said first day of June in the year last aforesaid are due to this defendant and also a further sum which after that time became due from the said George to this Defendant amounting to twenty five pounds twelve shillings and six pence, on open account of the particular items of which account are truly stated in the latter part of the twenty fourth page and in the subsequent pages of the said book which balance last mentioned with interest thereon from the twentieth day of February in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninety four this Defendant prays may also be paid to him before the said Complainant shall be admitted to redeem the said mortgaged premises, and he further saith the said statement marked B and by him exhibited contains a true and just statement to the best of this defendants knowledge and belief of the transactions between the said George and this Defendant and that he doth not know or believe that the said George is or was entitled to any other credits than those by him this Defendant allowed and given.

This defendant further saith that the said Rachel did not at any time apply to this Defendant for a statement of the transactions on which
