RAILROAD WARNINGS.

James McCrea, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, has written a letter to a magazine calling attention to the dangers of trespassing on the railroads. He said:

"It is horrible to me to think of the number of trespassers that are killed or injured on the lines of the railroads, simply because they pay no attention to the warnings on the subject. On the Pennsylvania System alone, in the last 10 years there were 8,523 trespassers killed and 22,775 injured. The danger to them is due to the custom of carrying concealed explosives on passenger trains and trolley cars is also very great. To what extent this practice is indulged in, of course, we cannot tell, but we know that it is done much more than is realized by the public. This is particularly true as to foreigners engaged in mining operations of various kinds."

Mr. McCrea said attention should be called to the danger of allowing children to walk on railroad rights of way. He also pointed out the need for explaining the law and regulations in reference to carrying explosives on passenger trains and trolley cars, or placing them in trunks or handbags.

A valuable bull dog, the property of Alexander Carr, formerly of Baltimore, was killed by Jessie Merritt here on Tuesday of this week while Mr. Carr was in Baltimore attending to business in connection with the Eutaw Hotel fire, in which he was a stockholder. Two bull dogs at some time in the early morning attacked some hogs belonging to J. A. Lingo and killed two valuable sows and 17 pigs in a few minutes. Mr. Merrit rushed in to drive the dogs away and in their infuriated condition they both attacked him and he had a fight for his life for a few minutes. One dog he killed with a hoe and the other he badly crippled with a piece of wood. For the dog which was killed Mr. Carr had been offered $500 recently.

The Roman Catholic Church has been opened and services will be conducted until fall.

Th Baltimore Y. W. C. A. have opened their house on Rehoboth avenue for the season.

On Corn Culture

That the Pennsylvania Railroad is determined to use its influence to increase the quantity and the quality of the corn grown on its lines is indicated in a booklet just issued by its freight department on the subject of "Corn Culture."

The Railroad calls to the attention of farmers that the profit from an acre of corn in the immediate territory traversed by its lines exceeds that of any of the great corn growing sections; it states that in pursuance of its policy to place with the farmers the benefits of the most scientific research and experience in agricultural development, it arranged with the Pennsylvania State College for the treatise on corn culture. The Company says it hopes and believes that this effort toward education will prove of mutual benefit to the farmer and the Company.

Other pamphlets issued by the Freight Department of the company devoted to agricultural development and farm operation are as follows:

The Essentials of Soil Fertility; Alfalfa; Orchard Development; Potato Culture; Seed Grain suggestions; Beef Production in Pennsylvania; Use of Dynamite on the Farm; Farming Possibilities of the Delaware-Maryland-Virginia Peninsula; Good Roads at low cost.

A Few Don'ts.

Don't think that the way to run a house is to run away from it. It is wrong to go around lecturing other women on how to bring up children while you are neglecting your own.

Don't try to get more out of a looking-glass than you put into it. Nature's sunshine is better for woman's beauty than man's powder and paints.

Don't make gamblers and drunkards out of your children by running whist parties for prizes and serving punch with a stick in it.

Don't forget to tell the truth, especially to the conductor about the age of your child Honesty is worth more to you and him than a nickel. A boy who is 8 years old at home and 6 on the cars will soon learn other things that are not so.

They Put An End To It.

Charles Sable, 30 Cook St., Rochester, N. Y., says he recommends Foley Kidney Pills at every opportunity because they gave him prompt relief from a bad case of kidney trouble that had long bothered him. Such a recommendation, coming from Mr. Sable, is direct and convincing evidence of the great curative qualities of Foley Kidney Pills. For sale by C. H. Redden, Denton.

None Could Sing America

Rev. Dr. J. B. Ely, in charge of the opening services of the Lemon Hill Association, a nonsectarian religious organization, discovered that in a congregation of more than one thousand persons only 24 and these girls and boys, knew the first verse of "America."

Dr. Ely wanted to begin this year's ...ir meetings with "My Country ... Thee." He tried, but could ...r a voice scattered here and ... He tried again, and invited ...erson familiar with "Amer-... come to the stage. The chil-...esponded. Then he tried ... to have the audience sing. ...e was not a sound from the adults, only the voices of the children being heard. In desperation, Dr. Ely requested the American-born members of the congregation to stand. More than 75 per cent. of the audience arose. Then the attention of the audience was called to the fact that the words of the anthem were printed in the regular program and Dr. Ely managed to get some volume to the song.

Georgetown Man Insane.

Brooding over the loss of his parents several months ago, and fearing he would lose, through crookedness, the estate left by them to Thos Satterfield, a young man of Georgetown has become mentally deranged and it was found necessary to take him to the State Hospital for the Insane at Farnhurst.

Satterfield for the past few months has been living with his aunt, Mrs. Sallie A. Owens. On Wednesday his affliction became worse and he attempted to take the life of the aged woman. His crazy plan was frustrated by a relative of Mrs. Owens and some of the neighbors, but not until he had badly beaten the woman about the head with the soles of a pair of new shoes which he had purchased the day before and had cut the tops from. Mrs. Owens, who is about 75 years olb, was severely bruised about the head and face and several lacerations were inflicted. It is thought her nose is broken and her skull fractured.

The young man was overpowered by several men and taken to the Sussex county jail for safe keeping until he could be taken to State asylum.

Time No Use To Him.

When Robert H. Davis was young and loose in the feet he once wandered into a little Mississippi town. It was a bright day in the early spring, and he walked down the one street. By and by he came to the county jail—a two-storied affair, standing flush with the sidewalk.

There was a negro pressing his face against the barred window on the second floor, said Mr. Davis, holding on to the bars and yawning. By and by an old negro came limping along the street, toting a whitewash bucket.

Hello, Uncle Ephraim, says the one in the window.

Howdy, says Ephraim, limping on.

Wait a minute, uncle, says this lonesome negro in the window. What time is it, uncle?

Uncle Ephraim limped right on. He hardly looked up.

What diffunce does it make to you, niggeh? he asked. You ain't goin' nowhere.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

The habit of using ardent spirits by men in office has occasioned more injury to the public and more trouble to me than all other sources. And were I to commence my administration again, the first question I would ask respecting a candidate for office would be, "Does he use ardent spirits?"—Thomas Jefferson.

Members of the Maryland delegation are being besieged by their friends in Congress and their constituents at home for seats in the Baltimore Convention. The assumption that a Senator or a Congressman from Maryland has all the tickets he may want for his friends has proved embarrassing to the Marylanders.

A baby fox, adopted by a ewe with a lamb at her side, the foster mother being one of a flock of fifty sheep belonging to John Taylor, is attracting considerable attention at Rising Sun, Cecil county. After one hundred chickens belonging to the Taylor family had been carried away by foxes, a raid on their den was made, the baby fox, the only occupant of the den, being captured for a pet. It plays like a puppy with the house dog, runs with the young lambs, takes nourishment from its foster mother and apparently has lost its wild nature.

Unable to find any law by which they can compel a rooster from crowing early in the morning, the members of the Board of Health, of Wilmington, have referred the subject to City Solicitor Hastings. Several days ago complaint was received from some residents who said their neighbors had roosters that disturbed their sleep. The officials discussed the complaint at length, and ordinances were searched, but none could be found containing any reference to crowing roosters. The Health Board finally gave it up as a bad job and called on the City Solicitor for a solution.

An item about Ocean City says: The new 25-foot boardwalk has been extended north from the Plimhimmon Hotel to St. Rose Industrial School. A new sewerage system is being installed. The "landlubber" is surprised at the magnitude of the fishing industry. The landing of the fish by surf boats is an interesting revelation to the uninitiated. The wreck of the schooner John T. Hall, which came ashore some time ago during a heavy gale, is now high and dry on the beach. Some interesting photographs were taken when the crew were saved by men from the life-saving station using a breeches buoy.

The Delaware Branch of the New Jersey home for Friendless Children has elected A. M. Daly, president, Rev. H. L. Bunstein and Rev. R. K. Stephenson, vice-presidents; John B. Hutton, secretary, treasurer and general counsel; C. V. Williams, general superintendent; W. K. Lord, assistant.

The management of the Cecil, Kent and Queen Anne's county fair has announced that there will be no fair this year. Just about the time the management held a meeting to determine upon holding the fair there was an agitation for the establishment of a fair in Chestertown and thinking that the venture would be a success the management gave up the idea of holding a fair this year at Tolchester.

Mr. H. C. Bowen, of Church Hill, has in his possession two buttons taken from the grave of David Latimer, who was buried in St. Luke's church yard on March 1st, 1795. After being buried eighty-six years, his remains were removed recently. The teeth, hair, skull and brass buttons were well preserved, and on all the buttons there was stamped the letter "R," showing that he was a soldier and probably an officer in the Revolutionary War. He was twenty-eight years old when he died. Mr. William Gould was a vestryman of the church at the time the remains were disinterred. The tombstone over the grave bore this inscription: "In memory of David Latimer. Was laid here on March 1st, 1795, in the 28th year of his age."

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Hall, of Dover, who have been at Jackson, Mississippi, for the past three months have returned to State street residence. Mr. Hall states that he was about 45 miles distant from the flooded territory. The waters of the Mississippi river have receded and left the land fertilized and very much richer and in time for planting the cotton crop.

Edward Spence Clough, who was elected treasurer of Queen Anne's county last November, died at 3.30 o'clock June at his home, death being due to double pneumonia, from which he had been suffering for two weeks. Mr. Clough was 70 years old and had never held public office. He was a member of the largest and most prominent family in the county. Mr. Clough was born in Queen Anne county and had been a farmer all his life. He married Mary Elizabeth Ringgold, of Queen Anne, in 1864. She died 24 years ago. Nine children survive him, they being Mrs. Mollie Harrison, Misses Ella and Katie Clough and Scott and W. Levy Clough, all of Centreville; Earle Clough, Easton; Rev. N. Caster Clough, Clarksville; Miss Rose Clough, Churchville, and John F. Clough, Philadelphia. A successor to Mr. Clough will be appointed by the Board of County Commissioners to serve until the general election in 1913. The term of Treasurer is six years.

Votes for Women.

Lady MacKenzie of England, who has done so much for the education of the women of India, says that a few years ago the question of women suffrage was regarded as a mere theory in India, but now it has become a living thought among the women there, and suffrage clubs are constantly increasing in size and importance. The women of Baroda vote in municipal elections.

In England it is said to be old-fashioned and behind the times to profess indifference to woman suffrage. A definite stand, either for or against is one of the requirements in all classes of society, and women are informing themselves on every phase of the question that they may be prepared for intelligent discussion of the subject.

Miss Pauline V. Orr, of Columbus, Miss., has been elected a trustee of the new college for women, an adjunct of the University of the south at Sewanee. Miss Orr has also been selected, with four men, for the Committee on Instruction and Curriculm.

The president of the American College for Girls at Constantinople, now on a visit to this country, emphasizes the fact that "Oriental girls in the institution have excellent manners are quick to learn, and are strongly in favor of woman suffrage." Mrs. Russell Sage is a large contributor to the college.

Miss Mary Morrison has been appointed registrar of voters in one of the counties of California. In rounding up the voters she takes her book to country dances and the young men and women register between "sets."

Miss Anna Herkner of Baltimore has just been appointed assistant of the Maryland Bureau of Statistics and Information. She speaks English, German, Polish, Russian and Croatian.

Shot at Poker Game.

A report reached town on Sunday that a man had been shot at Centreville on Sunday morning and that Winchester ("Winnie") Smith of Queen Anne's was in jail accused of doing the shooting. The Baltimore American of Monday contained the following account of the affair:

As the result of a drunken brawl, following a disagreement in what was supposed to have been a poker game, at Church Hill, a town nine miles north of Centreville, Queen Annes county, Robert Whaley, a young man, is lying at the point of death in Emergency Hospital, Easton with a bullet in his left lung, and Winchester Smith, a carpenter and builder, is in Centreville jail accused of the shooting. Two other prominent citizens of Church Hill are held in jail as witnesses and more arrests may follow.

The shooting occured at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, and so far the authorities have not been able to get down to the real gist of the affair. Smith is a son of E. S. Smith, a large building contractor, of Queen Annes Station. Another report is to the effect that he was not the man who did the shooting at all, but that a revolver with an empty chamber was found in the house of a second party connected with the shooting, and that the party was known to have had the revolver in his pocket at the time. The name is being withheld by the officers. Smith states that he was walking down Walnut street in Church Hill, when he was attacked by three men. One of them threw a brick which struck him in the head. Further than this he is unable to testify. On the left side of his head is a long gash, which Dr. W. G. Coppage, a Church Hill physician, sewed up. The wound was evidently inflicted with a brick or some jagged instrument.

The other side of the story is to the effect that several men were playing poker in a house on Walnut street, and that in the game of cards Smith accused Whaley of cheating. Whaley resented the accusation and a free-for-all fight followed. It was then proposed that the two combatants go outside and finish the fight. One of the crowd proposed if either had weapons that they give them up and fight with their fists. At that time, it is claimed, both had revolvers, and each turned his weapon over to a third party to hold during the fight. Whaley is said to have knocked Smith down, and Whaley's friends declare that Smith ran to the man who was holding the weapons, and, snatching one of the revolvers from his pocket, placed the pistol to Whaley's breast and fired.

By that time several nearby residents were aroused and with the aid of those in the crowd, Whaley was carried to the home of Dr. Norman S. Dudley, who recognized Whaley's serious condition and placing him in an automobile, hurried him to the Emergency Hospital at Easton. There he was submitted to a thorough examination by the hospital physicians, and later little hope was entertained for his recovery, although he was reported to be holding his own and showing a slight inclination toward improvement.

On Sunday afternoon a number of Smith's friends, including his father, called at Centreville Jail, and they have employed J. H. C. Legg, of the Centreville bar, as counsel. Smith's friends declare that they are ready to prove that Whaley has been nagging Smith for several weeks and accused him of crookedness at cards. It is alleged by Smith's friends that Whaley stated at Tolchester two weeks ago that if he caught him at it again "he had better have his business fixed."

The citizens of Church Hill and Centreville were surprised when it became generally known that the officers had found a woman, the wife of one of the men who are supposed to have been participating in a game of cards, who had seen the entire fight and held the real key to the affair. She was looking for her husband, whom she expected home much earlier in the evening, and, it is said, saw the entire brawl. She will be produced at the proper time, and has stated that she will explain. Those who have talked with her state that she exonerates Smith from all blame, if he was the man who did the shooting.

Whaley returned to Church Hill only a few weeks ago after spending a year in other countries traveling He is connected with prominent Queen Annes families, and was born and reared in this county. Smith, the accused man bears an honest reputation, and his parents are fairly independent financially.

Smith and the witnes will be held pending the outcome of Whaley's injuries. Sentiment is almost entirely on the side of Smith, and his friends are working to effect his speedy release.
