QUEER FACTS IN CHEMISTRY

Widely Dissimilar Things Composed of Exactly Equal Quantities of the Same Elements.

Everyone knows that the diamond is only charcoal crystallized; but there are a great many other things in nature that, though possessing widely different properties, are composed of exactly equal quantities of the same elements. The white of an egg and rattlesnake poison are formed of identically the same amounts of the same elements. The oil of roses and common coal gas are each formed alike, both being composed of four atoms of hydrogen and four atoms of carbon. Sugar and gum arabic are likewise brothers of the same weight and texture. All the hydrocarbons, known to science as a combination of sixteen atoms of hydrogen and ten atoms of carbon, are alike in their composition. To enumerate some: Oil of orange, lemon, cloves, ginger and black pepper. The suggested explanation of these pecularities is that the atoms are placed differently toward one another in the molecules of the different substances. Other things just as peculiar are evident when certain substances are united chemically. Thus hydrogen gas, which is odorless, and nitrogen gas, which is also odorless, when united go to make ammonia, which has a very strong odor. Copper, which has no odor, and zinc, which also has none, when melted and mixed to give us brass, produce a substance with a characteristic one.

First Actor—Why didn't you spring the banana peel joke tonight?
Second Actor—Couldn't. It slipped my mind.

NEW IDEA IN TEACHING.

Sir George Newman, chief medical officer of the English board of education, recommends in his annual report that "mother-craft" should be taught in schools, so that the mothers of the future may know how to give proper attention to the health of young children during their earlier years. "For giving instruction in the ordinary care and toilette of a baby it would be necessary to use a doll, which should, of course, be modeled on the real infant. But for occasional demonstration, or even for practice in more advanced lessons teachers should do their best to obtain the loan of a baby." In advanced classes the instruction recommended by Sir George would include simple teaching on the ordinary ailments of infants and young children and the way to avoid them. What next?

WHY, GERALDINE!

"Why, Geraldine! What are you going to do with all that mistletoe?"

"I want to have enough of it so that I can hang a sprig over every chair in which I am likely to thoughtlessly sit down when I'm entertaining company."

HIS MIXUP.

"That new regent of Bavaria would have upset any poker game, wouldn't he?"

"How so?"

"Because he was within an ace of being a king."

WILLING TO TAKE HIS TURN.

Mrs. Naybor—So you've got the measles over at your house. Have you had them yet?

Tommy—No, but maybe I will when little sister gets through with 'em.

FIRE INSURANCE.

"I wish you would see my husband about getting himself insured in your company."

"I represent a fire insurance company, madam."

"Well, that's the kind he'll need."

DAY'S DUTY PUT ON RECORD

Resourceful Mistress of House Devised Shrewd Scheme for Instruction of Swedish Maid.

A Brooklyn woman who was going out of town for a few days was in a quandary over the problem of her husband's existence during her absence. The maid was Swedish and could neither read or write English, yet she somehow must be told each day, as only the mistress could tell her, what should be done about the house. A moment's thought solved the problem.

A list of each day's duties was made out. Next a phonograph dealer was called up and instructed to send up half a dozen blank records. The mistress then sat down in front of her machine and dictated her orders, using one record for each day's instructions. The records were then placed in their pasteboard cases, and the days on which they should be used were indicated on the outside by one, two, three and four straight lines, making a mistake impossible. As a result not only was everything in perfect order upon her return, but the novelty had so appealed to the maid that she had "played" her orders over and over until she could repeat them word for word.

CRUSHED IN THE RUSH

"Is your boy on the football team this year?"

"I hope so; he was under it last year."

DEVOTION UNREQUITED.

A Washington woman has in her employ as butler a colored man of a pompous and satisfied mien, who not long ago permitted a damsel, long his ardent admirer, to become his spouse. One day when the mistress of the house had occasion temporarily to avail herself of the services of the butler's wife, it was observed that whenever the duties of the two brought them in conjunction the bride's eyes would shine with extraordinary devotion. "Your wife seems wonderfully attached to you, Thomas," casually observed the mistress of the house. "Yes, ma'am," answered Thomas, complacently, "Ain't it jest sickenin'?"

UNKIND INFERENCE.

A belated election story is floating around about a prominent stock exchange member who ran for the assembly and only got two votes. The morning after one of his friends came up to him and told him that he understood a warrant had been issued for his arrest. "A warrant?" said the astonished broker. "For what?" "For repeating," replied his friend.

NOT A BAD IDEA.

Scene (street car; weather stormy).

Conductor—Transfer, sir?

Passenger—No, I guess I'll have a rain check.—Judge.

BASEBALL PARADISE.

Redd—What do you suppose is a baseball enthusiast's idea of paradise?

Greene—Why, I suppose it is some place studded with diamonds.

INDUCEMENT.

Magnate—Young man, I had to dig for everything I ever got.

Young Man (mildly surprised)—Well, who wouldn't dig for everything?—Judge.

NOT THAT KIND.

Gibbs—I like a man who can give and take, don't you?

Dibbs—Not if his specialties are giving advice and taking offense.

CAUSE AND EFFECT.

"He seems to take himself so terribly seriously."

"Yes. He once wrote about a dozen lines that nobody understood."

USE SAILS ON THEIR WAGON

Brooklyn Boys Have Put Novel Idea into Execution, and Pronounce It a Success.

No gasoline, carburetor, engines or other things that go to make the motor car an expensive vehicle are used by seventeen-year-old James P. McGovern of Brooklyn to make his sail wagon, Flying Dutchman, a success. All he requires is wind to enable him to speed along country roads at from twenty to forty miles an hour. McGovern's vehicle is built somewhat on the lines of the ice racer. The triangular body is of ordinary lumber, with two bicycle wheels at the "bow" and one at the "stern" for steering purposes.

McGovern and his chum, Richard Kallman, nineteen years old, have been traversing the roads of Kings county for some weeks in this machine, the envy of every small boy who sees them.

"I call the Flying Dutchman my aeroplane wheel," said McGovern. "It's a wonderful success. Dick and I have got more enjoyment out of it than we would out of a motor car. We get up early mornings, raise the eight-foot sail, a gust of wind comes along and away we go."

CONFUSED IMPRESSIONS

"Did Mr. De Gunner see a deer while on his hunting trip?"

"Yes. But in his excitement he mistook it for a member of his party and asked it for a cigar."

PUCK ON MODERN MEDICINE.

A very honest man who was sick wanted to keep on living (as reported by Puck). With that end in view he called the neighborhood doctors into consultation. "Big dose," said the Allopath. "Small doses," said the Homeopath sapiently. "Fresh air and exercise," said the Physical Culturist. "An operation," said the Surgeon. "Starve," said the Faster. "Fruits and nuts," said the Dietist. "Kneading," said the Osteopath. "My favorite prescription," said the Patent-Medicine Man. "This is all very interesting," said the patient, "but likewise it is all very different. Is there any grand principle on which you all agree?" "Yes," they chanted in chorus, "we all agree that when it comes to fees the proper thing is to charge all the traffic will bear and the Devil take the Undertaker. We will send our bills by the next mail." And they did.

HUMAN SHUTTLECOCK.

"Doctor, I wish you would see if you can't remove these unsightly warts from my hands."

"Why don't you go to a manicure?"

"I did, and she sent me to a chiropodist."

"Well?"

"Well, he sends me to you."

"I'm sorry, sir, but I can't risk my reputation on such a job as that. I shall have to advise you to go to a safe blower."

MORE HUMILIATING.

"Being struck by a train is a horrible experience."

"Being tripped by a train is nearly as bad."

BLUFFING.

"The British suffragettes are threatening to blow up parliament."

"Oh, that sort of talk is merely bomb-astic."

PARADOXICAL POLITICS.

"There are queer things sometimes about straight tickets."

"What is that?"

"When they're crooked."

UNGALLANT.

Miss Oldgirl—I wish, professor, you would give me a few wrinkles.

Professor—You already have your fair share, madam.
