SKIN TROUBLE ON LEG

616 W. Grace St., Richmond, Va.—"I had a running sore on my leg for from three to five years. It burst and blood came from it, then it got red around, and was as large as a dollar It turned white in the middle of the sore, and then began to itch and bleed. After washing it would bleed for hours at a time. Some nights I did not sleep through the whole night. I spent eighty dollars on the sore and it didn't get well. I got worse and fell off to eighty-nine pounds. This went on for four years. I was told it could not get well. One of my friends said I ought to try Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, so I did. After I had used them one month the sore was gone and the itching stopped, and I have never had any trouble since. That was five years ago.

"I had a fever and all my hair came out. I shampooed with a lather of Cuticura Soap and then rubbed the Cuticura Ointment over the scalp and my hair came back and now it is long and glossy." (Signed) Mrs. John Thomas, Mar. 12, 1912.

"To save time?"

"Yes. You see, he says that when he goes to bed sober he has to bother to dress and put his shoes on again the next morning, whereas if he doesn't go to bed sober all he has to do next morning is to wash his face."

Was Much Impressed.

A little girl who had acted as ring bearer at a cousin's wedding was inclined to view her part of the impressive ceremony with great seriousness. One day some time afterward the child heard her grandmother talking of her possible future marriage.

"You know, I'm half married already," the child earnestly remarked.

"Half married already! What do you mean, child?" asked the surprised grandmother.

"Why, don't you remember when I carried Cousin Carrie's wedding ring?"

Warranted in Using Cuss Words.

A small boy in Fort Scott was out playing with his wagon one day and just at the critical moment one wheel came off. The youngster walked around the wagon several times and surveyed it with the air of one accustomed to disappointments. As he dragged the wagon to his home he met a boy friend who joined him, and together they trudged on, the Fort Scott Tribune says. The owner of the wagon sat on the front step with a forlorn look; then quickly brightening up he exclaimed: "Let's cuss." "All right," returned the other, "Cuss, cuss, cuss."—Kansas City Star.

RESCUE PARTIES REACH OHIO FLOOD VICTIMS; STRICKEN WEST CRIES FOR FOOD AND COFFINS

TOPOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF THE FLOODED REGION IN OHIO AND INDIANA.
While the death list in this region is not likely to be as large as at first estimated, it is feared it may reach two thousand. In every town and city shown on the map there has been loss of life and property.

GOV. COX WRITES THRILLING STORY OF FLOOD DISASTER

By JAMES M. COX.
(Governor of Ohio.)

Columbus, March 28.—The consensus of opinion is that the property loss in Ohio will exceed that sustained by San Francisco. This apparently incredible statement is easily understood when the widespread destruction to railroad property is calculated.

It is safe to assume that more than half the large railroad bridges in Ohio are down.

The waters are receding at Dayton, Piqua, Zanesville, Fremont, Tiffin, Chillicothe, Hamilton, Middletown and Columbus, and while the cold weather which came was welcome, because of the certain deterrent effect it would have on the rising tide, still the pinch of the cold adds to the difficulties, because untold thousands of people are homeless. Besides, the fall of the water will bring the real tragedy of the whole situation.

The indications are that the list may not run as heavy as forecast at Dayton, but there are grave fears that a tremendous tragedy will be revealed beyond the Scioto River, where the western part of Columbus is completely devastated.

Dayton is relieved in one respect. The ten or twelve thousand persons penned up in the business buildings were freed, the relief trains coming in from the North, the Lake Shore having surmounted the difficulties from Toledo south.

From the west of Dayton troops and supplies came from Eaton. From the northwest 600 troops, with stores, came by way of Troy and Tippecanoe City. The good effects of this relief work added much cheer to the distressed. The city was alive with boats controlled by hands that defied the elements. People were rescued from the residential sections of North Dayton, Riverdale, West Dayton, Edgemont and South Park, and the main streets of the city were alive with craft filled with people.

In the main business section the water receded to about 12 inches, and with some difficulty foot traffic was resumed.

Columbus awoke in a blizzard, which gave a cheerless aspect to things, but the first word from Bell, the hero of the whole situation, the operator who has stood by his guns throughout, were: "Good-morning, Governor. The sun is shining in Dayton." He was still at his post, and apparently firm in his faith that things would still come out all right.

Adjutant-General Wood was heard from for the first time. The circumstances attending his imprisonment give a good idea of the precipitant movement of the waters, and show how it was that the whole business population was trapped.

General Wood was within a square of his residence on North Main street, and yet it was impossible for him to get home. He took refuge with Dr. C. W. King, and remained there until Thursday, when he attempted to join his family. The boat was upset and he was compelled to swim into the Dayton City Club.

It developed that the fire engine and dynamite sent from Springfield really saved the city from destruction by fire.

The greater part of one city block is destroyed. It is bounded by Second, Third, Jefferson and St. Clair streets. The square immediately south with Fourth street the southern line, is pretty badly gutted, but the fire is under control.

North Dayton has furnished some surprises. The water there in many parts of the residential section was over 20 feet deep, but, very strangely, few bodies were found.

The recession of the waters revealed only two bodies in the business section. General Wood requested 500 coffins. This we accept as a gruesome index to the situation. The citizens of Dayton have organized a relief committee and are preparing to co-operate with the outside world in bringing succor to the suffering. The call came all day for warm clothing, food and water. Every available engine on the divisions close to Dayton was called into service and water was carried in the tanks.

Zanesville presented a problem, making the nearest approach to the Dayton situation. Communication was cut off from that city. The complete isolation of the place gave rise to all manner of reports. Communication was procured by way of Cleveland.

It developed that the six or eight relief sections encountered rather unusual difficulties about fifty miles north of Springfield. At West Liberty a railroad bridge was out and a relay had to be made. The farmers responded, but by the time the last section arrived carrying the life saving crew from Cleveland, teams and drivers were worn out, the result being that a new force had to be recruited. That delayed the life saving crew for quite a while.

A complete Relief Commission has been formed under the combined auspices of the State and the Red Cross Commission.

Railroad traffic is almost at a standstill, and the separation of travelling men from their families is bringing many piteous appeals every hour for facilities to get them home.

Riverdale, because of the large number of houses that were washed away and upturned, may turn out to be the greatest sufferer from human loss. The water is still high in that section. On the west side 100 bodies were found in a bunch on Williams street.

Cleveland is paralyzed by the flood that has inundated miles of territory, made hundreds homeless, flooded a hundred factories, cut off the city from outside communication, and caused millions of dollars of property damage.

Lumber valued at $600,000 was swept down the river. Eight miles of docks were inundated at a damage of $300,000.

Nearly every factory and plant in the Cuyahoga Valley was flooded. Twenty thousand men will be out of work for at least a week.

NEW YORK FLOODS BREAK RECORDS

GENESEE RIVER DOES MUCH DAMAGE IN THE BUSINESS SECTION OF ROCHESTER AND BUFFALO.

FLOOD IN ALBANY WORST IN A HALF CENTURY

Rochester, N. Y.—Unprecedented floods are sweeping New York State. The whole country between Buffalo and the Pennsylvania line is affected.

At Albany it is predicted that the Hudson will pass the high-water mark of 1857, which was 21.16 feet.

Part of Schenectady, N. Y., has been abandoned. Rivers in the Adirondacks have caused great damage. Part of the International Paper Company's dam at Glen Falls has given away.

The flood in the Hudson River at Castleton, nine miles south of Albany, caused the abandonment of the New York Central's Hudson River division for through trains.

Most of the trains from Albany and the West were sent over the Harlem division by way of Chatham,, but some used the West Shore to Weehawken.

The floods along the Central held up most of its milk trains.

The flood record of 1865 has been broken in western New York, and from nearly every hamlet and town come tales of damage and suffering.

In Rochester the Genesee River overflowed its banks and flooded Plymouth avenue and Front street, the latter in the heart of the business section.

At Lyons the Clyde River has risen 11 feet, and many families have been forced to leave their homes. Barge canal work, representing thousands of dollars, has been destroyed.

Canadaigua, Seneca and Keuka lakes are at the highest level ever known.

The Erie, Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads and trolley lines are badly crippled throughout this section, and schedules are merely a matter of luck.

The Genesee Valley, south of Rochester, is a vast lake, and hundreds of head of livestock have perished and fully 200 families are out of their homes.

Buffalo.—A cold wave and clear weather have checked the floods in western New York, and streams in Chautauqua, Cattaraugus, Wyoming, Niagara and Erie counties receded almost as rapidly as they rose. Hundreds of families driven by the high waters are returning to their mud-filled homes.

From Buffalo, Olean, Hornell and other cities gangs of laborers are being sent to repair washouts and to strengthen railroad bridges strained to the breaking point by unprecedented high water.

At Olean the damage is estimated at $200,000.

Hundreds of miles of highways are still impassable and as many highway bridges were destroyed. Normal conditions cannot be restored for several weeks.

Three great barge canal gates at Fort Plain have been swept away.

White River Junction, Vt.—Floods in the Connecticut River Valley drove people from their homes in Rutland, West Rutland, Chittenden, Barnet, White River Junction and at Woodsville, N. H.

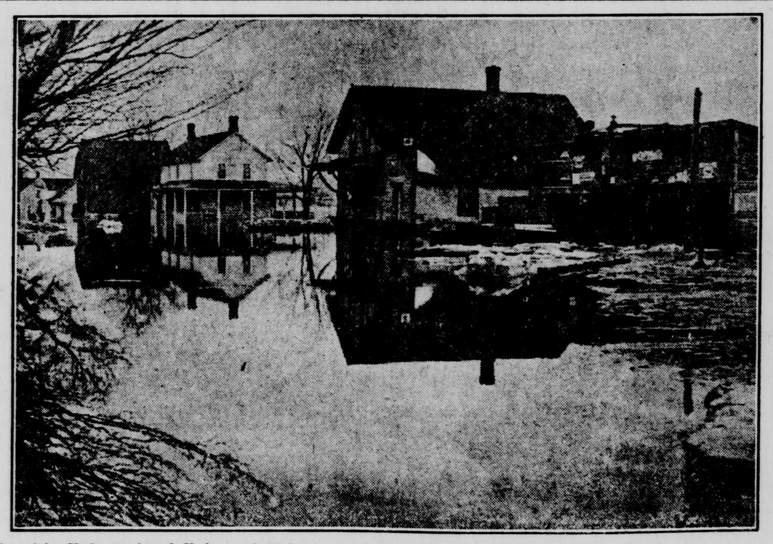

Service on the Boston and Maine Central and Central Vermont railroads was demoralized.

Telephone service in many places was interrupted and heavy property damage was done.

The population of Chittenden, near Rutland, were forced to flee to high land when the East Creek went over its banks.

How Dayton Was Overwhelmed.

For the most part the city of Dayton lies on level ground. Three rivers, the Miami, Stillwater and Mad, join with another stream, known as Wolf Creek, almost in the centre of the city When the dam at the big Lewiston reservoir, 50 miles above the city, broke an avalanche of water went rushing down the rivers and joined in one great torrent to overwhelm dwellings and buildings of all kinds.

LATEST FLOOD BULLETINS.

Oil Creek has risen until a large part of the business section of Oil City, Pa., is under water. Families in the rural districts in the Clarion and Kiskeminitas valleys have fled to the hills to escape such floods as never were seen there before.

Adjutant-General Wood of Ohio, after making survey of Dayton, declares loss of life to be "heavier than we expected," and declares that "coffins, and food" are most needed in Dayton.

The Lehigh is up 7 feet, and has washed the canal banks and covered hills on some levels. The Delaware is up to the 20-foot mark above low water.

In Olean, N. Y., many people are homeless. The Allegheny is overflowing its banks and flooding the lower portions.

The whole Beaver Valley remains dark and cold. Not a wheel is turning in all the great industrial plants.

The naval militia have reached the flooded sections of Dayton and found appalling conditions.

Albany, N. Y., is suffering from the worst flood in fifty years.

Railroad men are guarding all the bridges along the Housatonic River, fearing the bridges may go out in the freshet which has raised the river to record height in Massachusetts. All the meadow land along the Housatonic is inundated. In Lenox the town is without electric lights.

Floods are now general throughout Ohio, Indiana, western Pennsylvania and northern New York, with all rivers on the rise and continued rains in headwaters districts.

At Lawrenceburg, Ind., tracks of the B. & O., which run along the river, were dynamited to give the water a better chance.

Another rise in the Allegheny River above Franklin, Pa., swelled that river to a point exceeding the record mark made in 1865.

Columbus, between Central and Sandusky avenues, is almost wiped out, and estimates of the death toll of the flood vary. The bodies of 200 persons lie huddled in a church.

Columbus' death rate may exceed Dayton's.

Directing Children Aright.

The young need to be taught that although there is sometimes a pleasure of the senses in committing sin, it is inevitably followed by remorse and punishment. Crime, remorse, punishment form an inseparable trio. On the other hand, while it is often hard to do right, the sense of satisfaction, self-respect and self-control that follows right action is worth all the effort made.

Thousands of Women

Have Been Restored to Health By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

There is no doubt about this fact. Why! during the last 30 years we have published in the newspapers of this country volumes of letters from women who have been relieved of all their suffering by the timely aid of this grand old medicine. Letters like the following, true, genuine and honest expressions of gratitude coming from grateful hearts, Surely you can believe these women.

Mrs. L. S. BRENNER, Hudson, Mich., says:—

"Sometime ago I was taken with a terrible pain in my right side, such sharp pains just like a knife sticking me. I tried hot applications but that did no good. I went to our family doctor (we were living in Fayette, Ohio, at that time) and he said it was organic inflammation. I doctored with him a while but kept getting worse. The pain was so terrible I could hardly stand on my feet. I would have that sharp pain in my right side, and a dull heavy pain the whole length of my limb. I realized that something had to be done quickly, so I looked up all of your advertisements I could find, and saw several that described my case. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me from the first dose, and when I had taken two bottles my trouble was gone. Your medicine has done so much for me that I am willing you should publish this letter for the sake of other suffering women."—Mrs. L. S. BRENNER, Hudson, Michigan.

Mrs. L. E. BOWERS, Girard, Pa., says:—

"I take pleasure in informing you of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had a sick spell last February, and for some months after that I was not regular and had many bad feelings. I was tired all the time, had dull headaches, not much appetite, and also what the doctor called organic inflammation. Your Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me and I feel that too much cannot be said in its praise as I am now able to do my own work. You are perfectly welcome to use my testimonial for the benefit of others."—Mrs. L. E. BOWERS, R.F.D. No. 1, Girard, Pa.

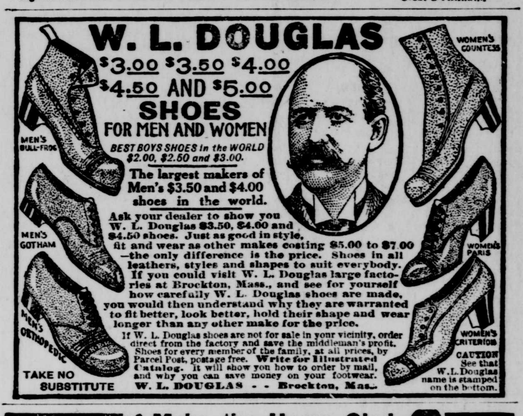

Mrs. ELIZABETH GENTILCORE, Buffalo, N.Y., says:—

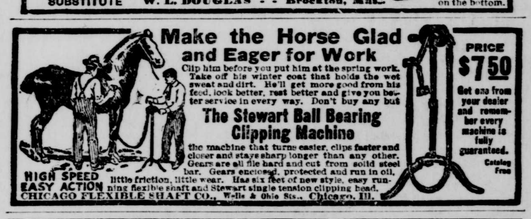

"I feel that I must write to you about your wonderful remedies. About ten years ago I was troubled with female weakness and was all run down. I was tired all the time and could hardly walk without feeling dizzy. I heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, took it, and also used the Sanative Wash. I got stronger, and have not had those dizzy spells since. I feel that I owe my health to you, and hope your remedies will help others as they have me. I tried most everything I heard of, and yours are the best medicines for women's ailments."—Mrs. ELIZABETH GENTILCORE, 26 Glor Street, Buffalo, New York.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.
