Manager Thompson was on hand and will now have the office fixtures of the telephone company put in.

The farmer looked at the merchant a moment and replied: "Why don't you patronize home industies? I take a town paper but I never see a word of advertising in it about what you have to sell. While returning home from Sharp town a few nights ago Harry W. Davis, cashier of the Federalsburg Bank of the Eastern Shore Trust Company, and James B. Sullivan, both of Federalsburg, had a narrow escape from drowning. The town was in total darkness when the men started home and they lost their way. In endeavoring to right themselves they drove through a picket fence, landing in a stream of water that makes off from the Nanticoke river, near the Sharptown-Galestown ferry. Their cries brought a night watchman who rescued the half-drowned men. They were considerably shaken up, but otherwise escaped injury. The horse was bruised and the carriage badly wrecked. Mr. Davis is auditor of the chain of banks belonging to the Eastern Shore Trust Company, and had been in Sharptown auditing the books of the Sharptown bank.

Grand Jury Report.

Thursday afternoon the grand jury finished the business before it, and presented its report to the court. The body was in session four days, examined 41 witnesses, and found five indictments. "The jury wishes," said the report, signed by Foreman William H. Deen and Secretary Burton Proctor, "to emphasize the Denton bridge committee's report, and urges upon the authorities the great importance of immediate action in the construction of a new bridge to replace the old structure."

Messrs Temple, Jackson and Cohee formed the committee that inspected the bridge, and in reporting to the grand jury said: "We find the bridge to be an inadequate structure and in a very dangerous condition, being entirely inadequate for the necessary traffic and an unneccessary risk to the county. In view of these conditions, we respectfully recommend our worthy County Commissioners to have constructed at the earliest possible moment a more modern bridge which shall be ample to take care of the increased traffic."

The grand jury also called the attention of the court to "the dilatory tacties of witnesses summoned to appear" before it. "This session of the grand jury," continued the report, "was prolonged for at least one day owing to the absence of witnesses who should have been in reach of the grand jury when called, and the jury would respectfully suggest to the court that certain benches within the court room be set aside for the exclusive use of such witnesses as have been summoned to appear before the grand jury, as well as your honorable court, and at the same time that other benches within the said court room be set aside for the exclusive use of jurors." In conclusion the jury expressed its "appreciation of the courteous and kindly aid tendered to it by your honorable bench and the State's Attorney in its efforts to properly discharge its duties."

Incorporated in the report also were the reports of the committees named to visit the almshouse and the jail. The former committee, Messrs. Proctor, Jarrell, and Wilson, stated that the almshouse was found to be "clean, comfortable, and is kept in first-class condition." At present there are twelve inmates—3 white males and 3 white females, 5 colored females and one colored male—"All the inmates seemingly contented and cheerful." Property found on the farm belonging to the county includes: one pair mules, four horses, one colt, six head of cattle, thirteen hogs, about 300 chickens, sufficient wheat and provender and farming implements for the use of the farm. It was recommended that some plaster on the walls of the inmates' house be replaced, and that it be painted.

The jail was inspected by Messrs. Saulsbury, Brumbaugh and Mowbray who reported; "The jail building from the exterior appearance needs comment. In reference to the interior we respectfully call the attention of our worthy County Commissioners to the fact that an outside door to the kitchen is badly needed, as all supplies taken into the kitchen and all waste matter taken from the same must necessarily be transported through the corridor. An outside door could be constructed at a very small expense and would be a very great convenience." The committee suggested that interior walls be replastered where plaster has been broken off for some time, and recommended to the County Commissioners that several small iron beds be placed in the cells on the second floor. "The entire buildings and cells we find to be kept in a cleanly and sanitary condition, and a credit to our sheriff, Mr. A. E. Cooper."

Court is still in session and several important cases are yet untried. Woody Earle plead guilty to an attack on Officer Temple. Sampson Satterfield was found guilty of carrying concealed weapons. Nathan Freeman plead guilty to larceny, but sentence was suspended in all three cases. Ernest Black was acquitted of carrying concealed weapons. Nathan Chance was convicted of stealing a carriage. Ruth Bradley and Virgil Gould each plead guilty to a charge of larceny, and the latter was given 12 months in the House of Correction. In the case of Woodward vs. Horsey, Woodward was given judgment for something over $600 and costs. This case was concluded Monday. Vandewater vs. Pepper et al., has consumed two days and is still on trial.

Walker's Lunch Room and General Store is now open on the corner of Third and Main Streets, with an enlarged stock of goods and excellent accommodations for serving lunches. Oysters always on hand and meals at all hours.

THE NEW COUNTY FAIR.

The new county fair advertises its exhibits of ideas instead of farm produce and domestic handiwork. It entertains with concerts and recitals instead of with races and circus acrobatics. The new county fair is Chauteauqua.

Many time it comes as fresh, stirring adjunct of the old fair. Most often it comes when the public taste for prize pumpkins, fat stock, ornamental baking and tight-rope walking has been quite sated.

Chautauqua assumes a great responsibility in taking the place of an institution as close to the every-day interests of practical people as the fair at its best has been. Many undoubtedly strong features of the old institution, Chautauqua cannot hope to take care of. The legitimate zest of the horse race must remain outside. Healthy rivalries in the science of crop raising and stock-breeding must be left to other foster agencies. The sunsets of the local artists and the fancy work of the needlewomen must win their just rewards elsewhere. On the other hand, the new fair can foster and does foster the old-fashioned rounding up of "all the folks" in quite the same degree as does the old county fair. A Chautauqua ground is most often a grove that gives real smack to a picnic.

There are attractions under the big canvass that interest the children as well as older people. Better than that, there is nothing within the enclose that would make a guardian necessary for the simplist of simpletons. All the nickels in a child's bank can't buy pink poisons with pretty names. Pop, cherry phosphate or "fuzzes" in general are not sold on the grounds. No one is trying to sell something for nothing, or making tempting proffers to the man who hits the bulls-eye. The human carrion that loafs on the trail of a "show" finds Chautauqua altogether to closely guarded to be worth while. The most refreshing individual trait of the new fair is its strict cleanness. It is showing the great happy-go-lucky public that having a care for hygiene is not inconsistent with the interests and activities of men.

Its exhibits of ideas are vigorous. The Zealous detester of the "soft" and the ardent advocate of the practical have had a share in choosing such speakers as Senator Gore, Governor Hadley, Governor Glenn. The running of towns, policies of sound government, the managing of schools, the intimate personal problems of amounting to something, are fair samples of Chautauqua lecture subjects. Preachers like Dr. Hills, Dr. Cadman and Dr. Waters have something to say on each of them. Chautauqua concerts take away the common prejudice against good music. The Florentine branch of the Victor Band makes a classic as irreistible as ragtime. Lecture recitals like those of Professor Paul M. Pearson put a listener on permanently friendly terms with the best books on the library shelves. Chautauqua magicians and tricksters and jugglers are sheerly and purely good fun. The new county fair has already won the forgiveness of the thrifty housewife and the owner of the miraculously fertile farm. It gives work-a-day people a new set of enthusiasm, to be sure, but they do not interfere in the least with the profoundly satisfactory scheme of doing willingly and well the work at hand.

Coughs and Consumption

Coughs and colds, when neglected, always lead to serious trouble of the lungs. The wisest thing to do when you have a cold that troubles you is to get a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery. You will get relief from the first dose, and finally the cough will disappear. O. H. Brown, of Muscadine, Ala., writes: "My wife was down in bed with an obstinate cough, and I honestly believe had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery, she would not be living today." Known for forty-three years as the best remedy for coughs and colds. Price 50c and $1.00. Recommended by All Druggists.

Direct Election of Senators.

Direct election of United States Senators by the people became a part of the federal constitution on April, 8th when the Connecticut legislature ratified the amendment to that effect Connecticut was the thirty-sixth state to act favorably, making the necessary three-fourths of all the states. The amendment was adopted within three months after the legislatures began assembling early in January. The amazing speedy action voiced the popular demand for the change, a demand that has been increasingly insistent for almost ninety years. In all that time congress, in latter years the senate alone blocked the reform. As soon as the ratifications have all been certified to Secretary of State Bryan, he will issue a proclamation announcing the change.

Thousands recommend Electric Bitters as the very best stomach and kidney medicine made. H. T. Alston, of Raleigh, N. DECIDE YOURSELF.

The Opportunity Is Here, Backed by Denton Testimony.

Don't take our word for it.
Don't depend on a stranger's statement.
Read Denton endorsement.
Read the statements of Denton citizens.
And decide for yourself.
Here is one case of it.

Mrs. S. Tilghman Wright, Brick Hotel, Denton, Md., says:

"I was in very poor health, in fact doctors said I was incurable. They said I had Bright's disease. I could not breathe with freedom and for weeks was unable to walk across the floor. My back pained terribly and then again the pains ceased and weakness came on. After doctoring for months and using every other remedy I heard of, I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills. A party who had used them urged me to give them a trial and I did so. I got back my strength from the first and I was soon able to be about my work. I continued taking this remedy until I felt like a different women. I give Doan's Kidney Pills my highest praise."
