HOW TO AVOID PNEUMONIA

Keep Away From Crowds, Especially When Meals Have Been Missed.

Pneumonia is practically a disease of city life and crowded living. With our present knowledge the prospects are hopeful for the control of pneumonia in the future through prevention. This is of special importance to the individual. The avoidance of pneumonia is largely a question of personal precautions that prevent the development of the disease by lessening the predisposition to it. Men in middle life, particularly those about fifty, must learn during unsettled weather to avoid crowds, especially when fatigued and when they have been for a number of hours without eating. Late at night, when for any reason a meal has been missed, crowds are dangerous. If this lesson could be generally learned there would be less pneumonia among the well-to-do classes. The principal danger comes in crowded street cars, which, if possible, should be avoided at rush hours. It needs to be emphasized that the danger from overcrowding is greatly enhanced by fatigue and going without food. In a word, prevention of pneumonia is now much clearer than it was. Like all the other infectious diseases, instead of being a more or less inevitable dispensation, it has come to be recognized as due to certain definite factors which can be greatly lessened by public and individual hygienic regulations.—Journal of the American Medical Association.

EQUAL RIGHTS AMONG BIRDS

Some Interesting Facts About Warblers Given by Professor Who Has Studied Them.

"The male pine warbler takes no part in the incubation of his young. He believes in equal rights of women, takes no part in the nest building, watches his little wife gather the material and put it together, while he sits on a branch close by, pouring out his love in sweet, delicious notes. It's a case of everybody works but father," said Prof. William Brinckley, discussing 'Our More Common Warblers' in a recent lecture.

"There is no more varied group than that of the warblers. They are divided into two large groups, old world and new world warblers. The old worlders are smaller and more modest in plumage. Anyone who can tell a warbler on the wing is a marvel. The differences of species are very difficult to notice when the bird is flying.

"The only way to know a warbler is to know him from the earliest through the various stages of his plumage, which change as fast as the Paris fashions. Of the wood warbler there are 150 varieties alone. Their territory covers the district between Argentina and Labrador. In North America there are fifty-five varieties. Here they reach their greatest numerical strength. They fly at night and often take a 500-mile trip between sundown and sunrise. They are rapid on the wing and often get ahead of the weather. They are easily harmed by storm, their plumage is quickly saturated with water and they drown."—Milwaukee Journal.

GENTLE SUGGESTION.

Mr. Spriggins (gently) — My dear, a Boston man was shot at by a burglar, and his life was saved by a button which the bullet struck.

Mrs. Spriggins—Well, what of it?

Mr. Spriggins—Nothing, only the button must have been on.—Sacred Heart Review.

NO EXCEPTIONS.

"Discipline in the navy is very strict, isn't it?"

"Very strict. They even dock the vessels."

MORE ROOM.

"Why are clubs so popular with the men?"

"Maybe because home life is such a flat affair."

PROFIT AND LOSS.

"Put that ton of coal on the slate," directed the customer.

"We have no slate," said the dealer frigidly.

"Oh, yes you have. I got 300 pounds of it with the coal."

GOING TO STICK TO A RESOLVE.

Mrs. Bacon—Well, dear, have you decided not to do some of the foolish things next year that you did this?

Mr. Bacon—Yes, I have.

"What things have you decided not to do?"

"Well, you remember those New Year resolutions I made this year?"

"Yes, and you broke every one."

"Well, I've decided not to make any New Year resolutions next year."

SUDDEN FEAR.

Artist—I can paint you a speaking picture of your wife?

Husband (fearfully)—What will you paint her saying?

WRONG TEMPERATURE.

"Miss Jones acted so queerly about that proposed trip to the tropics."

"How did she act queerly?"

"She was so cold about it."

VOTES FOR WOMEN

and the Negro Problem

The United States census of 1910 found the white population of Maryland, 1,062,645 and the negro population 232,249.

The total registered vote in Maryland in 1912 was 291,878.

Of these, 243,693 were cast by white men and 48,185 by colored men.

Woman's suffrage would not change the proportion of votes cast.

Men of Maryland, the white women of this state are today the political equals of colored women and the political subordinates of colored men

Are you willin, to admit that you would rather keep white women in political subordination to colored men than enfranchise colored women?

Remember, the Independent Voters of Maryland have defeated three amendments which sought to disfranchise colored men because their grandfathers were slaves.
