There never was as much money on the Eastern Shore of Virginia as at present.. The Eastern Shore of Virginia Produce Exchange has already done a business of $2,300,000, with the sweet potato and corn crops still unharvested. The outlook for sweets is excellent, owing to the scarcity of fruit.

We have received from Harrison's Nurseries, Berlin, a copy of their new catalogue, which contains much valuable information to fruit growers.—On page 5 the catalogues tells the story of "Why Harrison's Trees Succeed." On page 6 the topics treated are "Buds from Bearing Orchard." and "Harrison's Special Service." The catalogue should be in the hands of every fruit grower.

After many wordy battles between ministers and laymen, the special meeting of the Maryland Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, called for the purpose of acting on the proposed union of the Methodist Protestant and United Brethren Churches, adjourned last week after passing a resolution condemning in strenuous terms the union on the basis proposed. The chief objection, as publicly given, was the name "United Protestant," which obliterates "Methodist" entirely while "United Methodist" would be worse yet.—Chestertown Enterprise.

Some Trees These.

The sturdy old oak at Wye Mills, which for years enjoyed the distinction of being the largest and most venerable on the Eastern Shore along with the mammoth tree in the Fifth district of Talbot county, must admit its eclipse by the superior dimensions of a Caroline county forest patriarch, which has seemingly just sprung into the limelight. The Caroline contestant for Eastern Shore arboreal records is near Ridgely. Its spread is 155 feet and its trunk eight feet above the ground is 40 feet in circumference. Many of this tree's branches would make saw logs, and it is believed to be more than 200 years old. The dimensions of the three contestants for Eastern Shore honors are: Ridgely oak, circumference, 40 feet; diameter, 12 feet; spread, 155 feet. Wye Mills oak, circumference, 22 feet, diameter 7 feet spread, 142 feet. Talbot oak, circumference, 18 feet; diameter, 6 feet; spread, 135 feet.

Will Have Modern Garage.

Several Philadelphia capitalists have purchased of Harry N. Carroll and Sewell Noble a valuable tract of land on South Main street, Federalsburg, and will erect thereon one of the largest and most modern y equipped automobile garages on the Peninsula. It is said it will be managed by one of Philadelphia's best skilled workmen. Since the state roads have been and are being built in this section the auto has become a means of considerable travel, not only by local people, but parties from distant points who make tours of the Peninsula. Federalsburg is one of the main stopping places for automobilists, and it will support a modern garage.

David Smith.

David Smith, aged 71 years, died at his home in Oxford Wednesday night Sept., 3rd, of Bright's disease. He is survived by a widow and nine children, seven sons and two daughters, all of whom reside in Talbot county, except one son, who lives at Ridgely. Funeral services were held from his late residence Friday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Brown, of the Methodist Protestant Church, officiated. Mr. Smith will be remembered by many residents of Denton, as he at one time lived near Piney Grove, or Garey's Church, where he was farming. He has been in Oxford for many years and very seldom visited Denton.

Duffey, Hillsboro Md., and C. H. Redden, Denton Md.

The Stone Pile For Wife Deserters.

A new law sends to the stone pile those faithless, shiftless and disloyal men who desert their homes and refuse to support their wives and children. What to do with these miscreants has long been a puzzle. To impose a fine only adds strength to their plea of idability. To put them in jail gives no support to the wife and hungry children. What was needed was some form of compulsion brought to bear on the recreant husband and father and this the new law supplies.

It provides that the wife deserter must earn money for his wife and family under compulsion, He may be sentenced to prison at hard labor and from his earnings 65 cents shall be set aside every day and paid to the wife or other proper recipient. If he fails to earn the 65 cents it must be paid any way and charged to the general running expenses of the city.

This is a practical measure invoked for the first time on Tuesday, when 137 desertion cases came before the Court, cases of sad-faced women whose husbands shirked their marital duty to love, honor and support their wives. All new laws of this character have to be tested before their full virtue can be known, but all decent people will hope that this act which sends to the stone pile husbands who can be brought to their duty by no other influence shall prove to be valid and effective.—Philadelphia Press.

"Tales of Honey and Tar" From West and East

Wm. Lee, Paskenta, Calif., says, "It gives universal satisfaction and I use only Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for my children." E. C. Rhodes Middleton, Ga., writes, "I had a hacking lagrippe cough and finally got relief taking Foley's Honey and Tar Compound." Use no other in your family and refuse substitutes. Sold by C. H. He was severely bruised and had the ligaments of the right leg torn and possibly suffered concussion of the brain.

The Newspaper Job.

Many people believe that a newspaper falls together without work or concerted action or plan. Rev. McLeod, a Presbyterian minister at Pasadena, was of the opinion, and asked to be allowed to edit Pasadena Star. The editor gladly accepted the opportunity to go fishing, and the minister took up his duties in the news paper office. This is how he felt when he found himself at the end of the task, which it must be said, had been done quite creditably.

"My time is almost up as I pen this last line; my hand is almost paralyzed; my brain is befuddled and I am free to confess that I am right glad to vacate the holy spot. Such a jumble of potpourri; it strikes me of the effort to bring order out of chaos, and do it lightning quick.

"I am reminded of the memorable words. "The earth was without form and void, and darkness was upon the face of the waters.' Never shall I criticise newspaper men more. I shall pray for them. They will have my heart's forbearance henceforth and forever. They are the hardest worked, shortest lived, poorest paid brain workers on this weary old world of ours."—Ex.
