Jessie Woodrow Wilson Becomes Bride of Francis Bowes Sayre

Francis B. Sayre.

Future Home of the Sayres. East Room of White House.

Mrs. F. B. Sayre.

Washington, Nov. 25.—In the beautiful east room of the White House at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon Jessie Woodrow Wilson, second daughter of the president, was made the wife of Francis Bowes Sayre. Rev. Sylvester Beach of Princeton, N. J., performed the ceremony.

The entire affair was very simple, as had been requested by the bride, and the number of guests was rather small—distressingly so to many persons in official and social circles of Washington who had expected to receive invitations but were disappointed.

Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, eldest of the three daughters, acted as maid of honor to her sister, and Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, the youngest, was one of the bridesmaids. The three other bridesmaids were Miss Adeline Mitchell Scott of Princeton, daughter of Prof. William B. Scott; Miss Marjorie Brown of Atlanta, Pa., daughter of Mrs. Wilson's cousin, Col. E. T. Brown, and Miss Mary G. White of Baltimore, a college friend of the bride.

Dr. Grenfell Is Best Man.

Mr. Sayre was attended by his best man, Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, the famous medical missionary to the fishermen of the Labrador coast. The two men have long been fast friends and Mr. Sayre spent two summers helping Dr. Grenfell with his work.

The ushers were Charles E. Hughes, Jr., son of Justice Hughes of the Supreme court and a classmate of Mr. Sayre in the Harvard law school; Dr. Gilbert Horax of Montclair, N. J., who was a classmate at Williams college in 1905 and now at Johns Hopkins university; Benjamin Burton of New York city, and Dr. Scoville Clark of Salem, Mass., who was Mr. Sayre's companion in Labrador and Newfoundland.

Wedding Gown of Ivory Satin.

The bride's gown was of satin, of a soft ivory tint, trimmed with beautiful lace, both old and rare. It was made in New York and the women connoisseurs declared that it was a masterpiece. The lingerie in the trousseau is of the most dainty material and is all hand made. The maid of honor and bridesmaids were beautifully gowned and all looked their best.

Coming right in the midst of the chrysanthemum season, this was made a chrysanthemum wedding and that flower was used most profusely in adorning the White House. As the bride's favorite color is mauve, that was made the prevailing color in the decorations. The east room, and indeed all the rooms in the president's mansion, were beautiful indeed.

Depart on Their Honeymoon.

After the ceremony was completed and the couple had received the congratulations of the guests, refreshments were served, and then Mr. and Mrs. Sayre departed for their honeymoon. Their plans include a visit to the home of Miss Nevin, Mr. Sayre's aunt, at Windsor Forges, near Churchtown, Pa., where they first met. After January 1 they will live in Williamstown, Mass., for Mr. Sayre is to sever his connection with the office of District Attorney Whitman in New York and become assistant to Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams college.

JESSIE'S WEDDING CAKE.

Jessie Wilson's wedding cake was a triumph of the pastry cook's art. It was two and a half feet tall, counting the white orchids that were placed on top of it, and weighed 135 pounds. The first layer was four inches thick and 22 inches across. The cake contained 19 ingredients and its cost was about $500. Over the body of the cake was molded a thick white icing scroll work, on its top was a design for the initials of the bride and groom, done in silver, and around the sides were lilies of the valley in white sugar. This delicious confection was distributed in 2,000 dainty white boxes tied with satin ribbon and each of the proper size to go under the pollow of the recipient to bring dreams.

There was one disappointment for those who attended the wedding, for the gifts were not put on display. It is known that these included many beautiful and valuable articles sent by relatives and personal friends of the bride and groom and of their families and by admirers of President Wilson. Handsome presents were sent by both the senate and the house, that of the latter being a diamond lavalliere which Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of the speaker, bought for the representatives in New York.

Guests Limited to 400.

Those who were invited to witness the wedding were mostly personal friends and the number was kept down close to four hundred. The list was pared and revised several times, and as has been said, the operation resulted in many heartburnings. From the house of representatives' circle, for instance, the only guests were Speaker Champ Clark, Mrs. Clark and Miss Genevieve Clark, Marjory Leader Underwood and Mrs. Underwood, and Minority Leader Mann and Mrs. Mann.

As might be expected, the streets outside the White House were as crowded as the police would permit with curious persons eager to watch the arrival and departure of the guests and trying to obtain through the windows a glimpse of the doings within. The police arrangements were admirable and nothing happened, in the White House or outside, to mar the happy occasion.

The wedding of Mr. Sayre and Miss Wilson was the thirteenth to be celebrated in the White House, but the bride has always considered 13 her lucky number instead of a hoodoo. There have been more than twenty weddings in which either the bride or groom resided in the White House, and the last wedding ceremony performed there was the one which united Alice Roosevelt and Nicholas Longworth. Today's event was much quieter than that one, and the guests not nearly so numerous.

Mrs. Sayre a Social Worker.

Mrs. Sayre was born in Gainsville, Pa., twenty-five years ago. She attended the Women's college at Baltimore and was an honor member of the class of 1908, being also elected a member of Phi Beta Kappa. For two years after her graduation she engaged in settlement work in Kensington, Pa., and she is a member of the executive board of the National Young Woman's Christian association. She has delivered several excellent addresses in public.

In appearance she does not resemble her father as much as do her sisters, having rather the features of her mother's family, the Axsons. She is an accomplished swimmer, rider and tennis player and also something of an actress.

Something About the Groom.

Francis Bowes Sayre is twenty-eight years old, and was born at South Bethlehem, Pa., a son of the late Robert Heysham Sayre, who built the Lehigh Valley railroad and at one time was assistant to the president of the Bethlehem iron works, since known as the Bethlehem steel works. He was also once president of the board of trustees of the Lehigh university.

Francis Bowes Sayre graduated from Lawrenceville school, Lawrenceville, N. J., in 1904, and from Williams college in 1909. He entered Harvard law school and graduated "cum laude." He was a member of the Sigma Phi fraternity, Gargoyle society and the Phi Beta Kappa at Williams. For the past year he has been working in the office of District Attorney Whitman of New York. During the summer he was admitted to the bar of New York state.

Mr. Sayre's mother is Mrs. Martha Finlay Sayre, daughter of the late William Nevin, who was president of Franklin and Marshal college at Lancaster, Pa. She is a descendant of Hugh Williamson of North Carolina, one of the framers of the Constitution of the United States, and is a sister of the late Robert Nevin, head of the American church at Rome, and a cousin of Ethelbert Nevin, the composer.

Other White House Weddings.

The wedding of Jessie Wilson and Francis Sayre was the thirteenth to be solemnized in the White House. The first was that of Anna Todd, a niece of Dolly Madison's first husband, and John G. Jackson. Then Mrs. Madison's sister, Lucy, was married to Judge Todd of Kentucky. The third wedding, that of Maria Monroe, daughter of President Monroe, to Samuel Lawrence Gouverneur in 1820 marked the first social use of the east room. Eight years later John, the second son of President John Quincy Adams, married his cousin, Mary Hellen, in the blue room. While General Jackson was president there were three weddings in the White House, those of Delia Lewis to Alphonse Joseph Yver Pageot of the French legation; Mary Eaton to Lucien B. Polk, and Emily Martin to Louis Randolph. Many years passed before there was another marriage ceremony in the president's mansion, the next being of Nellie, the only daughter of General Grant, and Algernon C. F. Sartoris. In 1876 Emily Platt, a niece of Mrs. Hayes, was married in the blue room to Gen. Russell Hastings. The eleventh of this series of weddings was that of President Cleveland to Frances Folsom, and the twelfth that of President Roosevelt's daughter Alice, to Nicholas Longworth.

HUERTA'S MESSAGE TO HIS CONGRESS

Defends His Acts as Dictator and Imposes New Tax.

U. S. NOT REPRESENTED

All Of the Various Types Dominating Factors In the Success Of Future Campaigns—How They Can Be Utilized.

St. Louis, Mo.—"In my opinion the newly developed art of aviation will not only tend to limit the duration and scope of hostile operations, but also aid in the control of the seas, one of the elements contributing materially to the power and prosperity of a nation."

Secretary Daniels made this statement here in the course of a public address upon aeronautics, in which he discussed the conquest of the air by the United States Army and Navy and the part aerial navigation will take in future wars.

"The potentialities of the aeroplane, when applied to the art of war, are extremely great and its proper use will undoubtedly be a dominating factor in the success of future campaigns," said he. "The principal roles of the aeroplane in naval warfare will be for scouting and reconnoissance work and for offensive destructive operations against hostile fleets and fortifications. Rash indeed will be the commander of an opposing fleet who would head his vessels against the fleet or coast of an enemy possessing a number of these vicious wasps of war, and unfortunate indeed would be a commander who did not have ready at his call this means of obtaining supremacy in the air.

"A torpedo costs $8,000, and frequently is lost in practice through deflection in direction that makes it impossible to follow it from the crow's nest of a ship. But an aerial scout can follow a torpedo's course unerringly by watching it from above. The price of one torpedo will pay for several flying machines. Experts say mines are easily 'picked up' or located by aerial scouts. One little mine may wreck a $10,000,000 battleship. A flying machine, costing but a small sum, would mean the ship's safety. The dirigible balloon, likewise, will play as important a part in naval warfare as the aeroplane, and possibly will have a greater effect on naval strategy and tactics."

FEDERAL CONTROL OF WATER POWERS

Resolution Adopted By Conservation Congress.

HAD A STORMY SESSION

Private Ownership Advocates Make Vigorous Fight, But Develop a Hopeless Minority. Bolters Fail.

Washington.—Monopolistic control of water power in private hands was denounced with a declaration that no water power rights owned by the public ever should be removed from public ownership by the National Conservation Congress, just adjourned here.

The climax of the water power fight which had agitated the congress for several days came after the committee on resolutions, to which had been referred divergent reports from the waterway committee, submitted that the matter had been taken from its hands by action of the convention in accepting general principles upon which the waterways committee agreed. No mention of the majority or minority reports, which differed as to State and Federal control of water power projects, was made in the resolutions committee report to the convention.

When the report had been read, Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester of the United States and father of the minority waterways report in the congress, moved as an amendment to the resolutions' report a declaration of principles on waterways control, similar to the ideas in the minority report signed by himself, former Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Joseph N. Teat, of Oregon. This amendment was adopted by a vote of 317 to 96, after one offered by Representative Burnett, of Alabama, which injected into the resolution the matter of State control of waterway projects had been defeated, 378 to 132.

The Pinchot amendment, approved after a stormy session during which repeated attempts were made to adjourn by some Southern and Western delegates, declared that monopolistic control of water power in private hands was swiftly increasing in the United States "far more rapidly than public control thersof," that increasing "concentration of water power in some hands" was accompanied by growing control over the power-consuming agencies, the public service companies of the country.

MOULTHROP LED A LIVELY PACE

Sensational Career of Man Who Threatened President.

IS ARRESTED FOR FORGERY

Was a High Flyer On a Modest Salary and Maintained Three Expensive Establishments Until He Was Sent To the Penitentiary.

Washington. — The United States grand jury indicted Henry Moulthrop, discharged secretary of Senator Lewis, of Illinois, on the charge of forgery of a $240 check and theft of a valuable diamond ring. Moulthrop, who was arrested in New York is the man whom Senator Lewis charged with having written the Lewis-Pindell letter, offering Henry M. Pindell, of Peoria, Ill., the ambassadorship to Russia for a year.

New York.—Sidney Moulthrop, the stenographer arrested here on a charge of forgery made by Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, waived extradition proceedings at his examination and asserted that he wanted to return to Washington without delay to stand trial. He was turned over to United States Marshal Henkel for conveyance to the national capital.

Philadelphia. — Sidney Moulthrop, former stenographer for United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis, who was arrested in New York after he had sent letters to President Wilson threatening to "expose" the Chief Executive, and one of the most remarkable careers of any person living in Philadelphia prior to his arrest on a charge of embezzling $60,000 from George Wood, the local millionaire.

TEXAS READY TO FIGHT.

Won't Wait For Washington To Act If Mexicans Start Trouble, Says Colquitt.

Austin, Texas.—"In the event Mexicans start any trouble we will protect our citizens and not wait for Washington to act," declared Gov. O. B. Colquitt after a conference with Adjutant-General Hutchings.

While no official statement was given out, it is known that the Texas National Guard is in readiness to answer quickly any call which might be made.

The conference was the outcome of a threat by Mexicans to make Texas "answer to the whole Mexican people" unless mercy was shown Mexican ammunition smugglers charged with murder.

Governor Colquitt did not apprise Washington. He said that during a recent outbreak along the Mexican border Federal troops did not act until the Texas Rangers had been called out.

GUNS DISPLACE POWDER PUFFS.

Popular Belief Regarding Chicago Police Women Dispelled.

Chicago.—Revolvers take the place of powder puffs in the handbags carried by Chicago's 10 policewomen. It had been generally supposed that the police women were unarmed, when Officer Clara Olsen was discovered carefully oiling her firearm. "I guess we might as well tell the truth," she said. "The revolvers form the powder puff that might be supposed to be in the bags which we carry in our left hands."

COST TAMMANY $200,000.

Its Unsuccessful Mayoralty Campaign Was Very Expensive.

Albany, N. Y.—It cost the Democratic committee of New York county more than $200,000 to wage its unsuccessful mayoralty campaign, according to the statement of election receipts and expenditures of Philip F. Donohue, the treasurer, filed with the Secretary of State. Receipts totaled over $150,000. Among them are listed two "loans" made by Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall.

SEES END OF NATURAL GAS.

Manager Says West Virginia Supply Will Last Only Ten Years.

Wheeling, W. Va.—Appearing before the State Public Service Commission here in defense of advances in natural gas rates in Northern West Virginia towns, General Manager T. O. Sullivan, of the Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company, of Pittsburgh, declared that within 10 years the supply of gas in this State will have been exhausted. This was one of his arguments for the advance in rates.

CONTRIBUTE TO PROSPERITY.

Also Orders Issue Of Small Bills. His Effusiveness To O'Shaughnessy Excites General Comment.

Mexico City.—His face showing none of that whimsical humor which sometimes characterizes him, President Huerta appeared before the new Mexican Congress and read his message.

Few Mexican Presidents have read at the formal opening sessions of Congress shorter messages and few have confined themselves so entirely to one subject. It was nothing more than a terse explanation of his motives for dissolving the old Congress, most of the members of which are now in the penitentiary, accused of sedition.

There were no extraneous frills to the session. It was more in the nature of a little business meeting of the President and the men converted into lawmakers during the recent so-called elections.

The message General Huerta bore to them was in its essence an admonition. The incident he related to them of the dissolution of the previous Congress was one by which it was intimated they might be guided in their conduct as Congressmen.

The message, as stated in the forecast, was chiefly a review of the political events since October 10 last; a plea of justification for the assumption of dictatorial powers, the dissolution of Congress and the imprisonment of the Deputies; a denunciation of the latter for alleged harboring of treasonable designs; a demand for a complete vindication at the hands of the new Congress and ratification of his acts, and a rather bombastic and stilted protestation of patriotism. That Huerta would promptly get the ratification seemed to be beyond doubt. The forecast was correct, even to the quoting of Napoleon.

The reply of the Speaker, Eduardo Tamariz, was brief. Not all the Congressmen were present.

Huerta, who appeared in evening clothes, was applauded only upon his arrival and departure, when the members of Congress and the spectators rose to their feet and added "Vivas" to the handclapping.

The only country not represented in the gallery reserved for diplomats was the United States. Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the Charge d'Affaires, acting under instructions, was absent from the session.

25 ENTOMBED IN MINE.

Men Trapped By Explosion In Colliery At Acton, Ala.

Acton, Ala.—An explosion in No. 2 mine of the Alabama Fuel and Iron Company entombed between 25 and 40 miners, according to estimates of company officials.

Of the victims some are white and some are negroes, as the mine employed laborers of both races. The normal quota of employes is 70 men, but Tuesday was pay day at this mine and some did not report for work.

The first rescue parties who entered the mine, searching for any who might be alive, reported that they had passed several dead bodies lying beside the tramway of the sloping entrance shaft.

Acton Mine No. 2, which lies in Shelby county, on a branch of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, has been considered one of the best equipped in the district. It has a single track slope and uses an 18-foot fan, with the split air system. So far as ascertained, the mine workings were not much damaged by the explosions, the cause of which has not been determined, and it is expected that the work of removing the living, if any, and the dead will be speedily accomplished.

PREMONITION BORNE OUT.

Sailor Swept Overboard To Death In Heavy Gale.

Boston.—How a sailor's premonition of death was borne out was told by Capt. John Duffoe, of the schooner Frances V. Sawyer, in from Charleston, S. C. John Johnson, a seaman, tried to desert the schooner just before she left Charleston, fashioning a raft from lumber carried as cargo. He had nearly reached shore when caught. After being returned to the vessel he told the captain that he knew he was going to die if he made the trip. Three days later he was swept overboard to his death in a heavy gale.

NECK BROKEN 2 YEARS; DIES.

Recovered From Injury, But Stomach Trouble Is Fatal.

New Rochelle, N. Y.—While in a fair way to make good his promise to "fool the surgeons" made more than two years ago, when his neck was broken as the result of diving into shallow water, Waldorf Miller, 19 years old, died from stomach trouble. He had so far recovered from his injury that three weeks ago he was permitted to leave his wheel-chair and walk a few steps.

G. O. P. SPENT $112,000.

Morgan, Rockefeller and Carnegie Gave To New York Campaign.

Albany, N. Y.—Receipts of $117,000 and expenditures of $112,000 were shown in the election expense statement of the Republican State Committee just filed. Among the larger contributions were: J. P. Morgan & Co., $15,000; William Rockefeller, $10,000; Andrew Carnegie, $5,000; Senator Elihu Root, $2,500; Chauncey M. Depew and John D. Archbold, $1,500 each.
