Important Notice.

The Scout Commissioner and the Scout Master are anxious to have a meeting of the Local Council to attend to matters of importance. The work is prospering and good is being accomplished. Acting upon their joint request the President of the Local Council, Mr. Fred R. Owens, has called a meeting of the Council for Saturday night, November 29th, at 7.30 p. m. at his office. We trust each member of the Council will remember the time and place, and make a special effort to be present. If the Scout Commissioner and the Scout Master, both of whom are busy men, are willing to give so much of their time to the work, can we as members of the Council give a little of our time to encourage them? Do not forget the time and place, 7.30 p. m., Saturday, at Mr. F. R. Owens office.

Sentenced to be Hanged.

James Dutton, colored, formerly of Vienna, this county, but who for several years has resided in and around Cambridge, was tried Friday morning before the Circuit Court on the charge of attempted criminal assault upon Miss Margaret Gillis, was found guilty and sentenced by the Court to be hanged.

The crime, as was shown by the evidence, was premeditated, and one of the most dastardly attempts ever made in this section. The only fortunate feature of the case was that the desperado was foiled in his attempt. He was defended by Thomas W. Simmons, Esq., while the State's case was handled by State's Attorney Trice.

The verdict will undoubtedly meet with the approval of the public. The date for the hanging will be set by Gov. Goldsborough.

For Children There is Nothing Better

A cough medicine for children must help their coughs and colds without bad effects on their little stomachs and bowels. Foley's Honey and Tar exactly fills this need. No opiates, no sour stomach, no constipation follows its use. Stuffy colds, wheezy breathing, coughs and croup are all quickly helped. Sold by C. H. Redden, Denton Md., and A. L. Duffey, Hillsboro Md.

The Peninsula.

From December 8 to December 13 the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will send a farming train over its lines on the Delmarvia peninsula. The company has been doing this for several years and interest has increased each succeeding year. With the train go experts in agriculture who deliver lectures to the farmers and others who may assemble to hear them. The time for the trip is such that there should be a large turnout. The expense of the journey is not small, but the company is doing its part in this respect toward improving agricultural conditions in Delaware and Maryland.

In deciding to send its train the company issued the following important statement:

"The Delaware-Chesapeake peninsula is rapidly becoming one of the most noted agricultural regions in the United States. On account of the number of high-class money crops that are grown in this section the income of the farmers in proportion to capital invested is much larger than in most other parts of our country. The peninsula has never been boomed, and its reputation is based entirely upon the intrinsic merit of the land, its unexcelled location in reference to the markets, and the sterling worth of the men who are tilling the soil."

TWO WAYS TO PROSPERITY

Successful Competition Means Wealth but United Boosting of Home Town Also Pays.

There are two ways for a business man to become more prosperous. The first is by active competition among his neighbors. If he is a live one, he realizes to the full the law of life, that he must hustle, or young and brighter men will get ahead of him. He must get out after trade, or he will get out of trade.

But an additional prosperity can be acquired, outside of whatever can be realized as the result of successful competition with your neighbors, by united efforts to make the home town grow. The advance of a whole community brings an accretion to every one who owns real estate or a business, or who has an income dependent on the prosperity of his neighbors.

This increment brings a new prosperity without much effort. As your houselot grows in value the more houses are built around it, so your business grows more valuable as more people read your advertising or pass your door.

No man is doing his duty by his own business, unless he sets apart a certain modicum of effort to be devoted to measures to make his home town grow.

Any town can be made to grow by systematic and common sense efforts to attract new residents and industries. Communities are like stores, it takes advertising to attract interest and attention.

Often it is not advertising spread broadcast that lands new business. If every community does all it can to help its own young men who have new enterprises to start, it lays the foundation for concerns that will become prospercus and bring people to the town.

A dozen active business men, who have faith in the future of their own town, who will give some time each week to working out plans and taking advantage of opportunities that would otherwise pass unnoticed, can work wonders.

FINED FOR DISHONEST "AD"

Oregon Merchant Convicted on Charge of Inserting False Advertisement in Newspaper.

The first conviction has just been obtained in Oregon under a law which makes it a misdemeanor to insert false advertisements in the newspapers. There have been attempts in congress and in some legislatures to enact laws providing that leather shall be of hide and cloth, just what it claims to be, but Oregon is, so far as we are aware, the only state where this sort of legislation has reached the statute books.

It appears that the proprietor of a dry gods store in Portland advertised "$15 all-wool dresses for $6.95." Portland has a very alert and aggressive branch of the Advertising Clubs of America, and this branch sent out a woman to ascertain if the all-wool dresses were "as advertised." She bought one, submitted it to an expert in wool fabrics and when he reported that the "all-wool" was only 50 per cent. what its claims set forth, the storekeeper was arrested and prosecuted, with the result that he was fined $40.

There is a lesson in this for the advertiser as well as the purchaser. The first will learn that common honesty demands that his wares shall be exactly as he represents them; the purchaser will be taught to give his trade only to those who are known to meet this reasonable test. If the Oregon idea shall become nation-wide, says the Nashville Tennesseean, it will mean a larger bestowal of confidence by the one and an increase of sales by the other. The moral is obvious: Honest advertising pays.
