COULD NOT SLEEP

Mr. Schleusner in Misery From Kidney Complaint. Doan's Gave Complete Relief.

"Heavy work brought on my kidney complaint," says Wm. Schleusner, 6408 Suburban Ave., Wellston, Mo. "One morning when shoeing a horse I was taken with a sudden pain in my back and fell flat on the floor. If I had been hit with a trip hammer, I couldn't have suffered more. I stayed in the house for five weeks and the pain was wearing the life out of me. At times, I couldn't get a wink of sleep because of the misery and I had to get up every few moments to pass the secretions that were highly colored, of foul odor, filled with sandy sediment and terribly scalding. My bladder felt as though it were afire. The pain brought stupor and a reeling sensation in my head; the torture of it cannot be described. If I got onto my feet I couldn't walk but felt dizzy and all in a flutter and everything would turn black. My head ached so it seemed as though my eyes were being dragged out. I started using Doan's Kidney Pills and I was soon rid of all the trouble."

Sizing Up Father.

Little Johnny has a sister of whom he is very proud. His mother the other day heard him talking to the infant and this was what he said:

"It's too bad you can't go anywhere. You can't go to the movies; you can't go to see General Edwards. You haven't seen any big men at all—only uncle and father, and they ain't so very big."

How papa learned of the incident hasn't been disclosed, but it can be imagined that mother, for a while, had a large sized twinkle in her eye.

Best Way to Sleep Well.

The ever genial "Dagonet," who says "there is a good way to lie in bed, and a bad way," will have to be careful or he will reawaken an old medical controversy. "It is better," says "Dagonet," "to lie on your right side than your left. This gives more freedom for the action of the heart.

Now, Pye Chavese, in his famous "Advice to a Mother," has laid it down that you will improve both the health and figure of a child if you train him to change about—"on the right side one night, on the left another, and occasionally on his back."

HAD AN EYE TO THE FUTURE

Farmer May Not Have Known Much About Music, but He Was a Bear on Economy.

A hard-working farmer in Ohio had sent his son to a good school of music so that he might receive the best instruction from the beginning. It was necessary to buy a violin for him, but he was such a little chap that his teacher thought that a so-called "half-violin" would do. The father, whose resources had been badly taxed, was loath to part with the money for the instrument, but finally did so.

The lad made rapid progress, and became so proficient that a half-violin was no longer good enough for him. Again he went to the music store with his father, to whom the salesman showed the entire stock of violins. The parent was apparently dissatisfied with all of them, and his gaze wandered around the shop seeking for something better. Finally he saw a violoncello.

"We'll take that big violin there," said he, as a smile of satisfaction spread over his countenance. "The boy won't outgrow that right away."

All Written by Women.

An Indiana teachers' federation has, much to some of the male members' chagrin, a woman for its president. Of course some of them try to show their superiority—particularly one who the other day was arguing that women knew so little about parliamentary drill that they were not fitted for the positions of superior offices.

The young woman listened, smiled and then said: "Well, I'm willing to learn."

Magnanimously the man offered to buy her a book on the subject. They entered a book store, made know their request, and the clerk laid down on the counter before them four books, saying that they were the only books on the subject she had. They began to examine them and lo—all four were written by women. — Indianapolis News.

Australians Fond of Meat.

Australian appetites are quite robust, judging by recent statistics, which show that the average Australian eats every year 264 pounds of meat, which works out at an average of two sheep and one-fifth of a bullock for every man, woman and baby in Australasia! He eats more than twice as much as the average Englishman, three times as much as the average Frenchman, and four times as much as the average German or Swiss. In addition he consumes about three and three-quarter hundredweights of wheat, two and a half hundredweights of potatoes, and almost one hundredweight of sugar. If he is a Tasmanian he eats a quarter of a ton of potatoes in a year.

Paying Institution.

A recent report to the State department on business conditions in and around the municipality of Bangor, England, stated that the cemetery was the only city institution which made money last year.

These consular reports, by the way, usually are masterpieces of anti-climax. In the most high-flown language they present the compliments of the consul to the "Honorable the Secretary of State" and then, frequently, beg to leave to inclose a clipping on the beanbag blight in Patagonia, or some other thing of equal import.

CHOOSING BEST BREED OF HOGS

Whichever One the Farmer Decides Upon He Should Develop to Highest Standard.

LARD TYPE MOST POPULAR

At Present Time Animals Weighing From 175 to 250 Pounds Command Highest Prices—Bacon Hog Is Not Raised Extensively.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There is no best breed of swine. Some breeds are superior to others in certain respects and one breed may be better adapted than another to certain local conditions. The essential point is that after the farmer has once decided upon the kind of hog to raise he should stick to this decision and develop the chosen breed to its highest possible standard. It is not feasible for one individual to raise several different breeds and bring them to perfection. In making his choice, too, the farmer should be guided by the kind of breeds already established in his locality. If he selects one of these he is not likely to make a mistake.

Two Types of Swine.

There are two distinct types of swine, namely, the lard and the bacon types. Swine of the lard type far outnumber those of the bacon type in the United States. The lard type is preferred by the people of this country, consequently the majority of feeders produce a rapid-fattening, heavy fleshed lard type. The bacon type is not raised extensively in the United States. The production of choice bacon is more general in those sections where the feed of the hog is more varied and where corn is not relied upon as the principal grain for hogs.

The principal breeds of the lard type are the Poland China, Berkshire, Chester White, Duroc-Jersey and Hampshire. The lard type of hog is low set and compact, with a very wide and deep body. The shoulders should be full although not coarse, with full hind quarters and hams carried out straight to the tail and thickly fleshed down to the hock. The flesh should be thick and evenly distributed throughout the body.

The size and weight are largely determined by market conditions. At present pigs weighing from 175 to 250 pounds ordinarily command the highest prices.

Best Bacon Types.

The principal breeds of the bacon type are the Tamworth and large Yorkshire, both of British origin. The bacon type is very different from the lard type, being longer in leg and body, with less width of back and lighter in the shoulders and neck. The first impression that this type conveys is one of leanness and lankiness. Much emphasis is laid on the development of side, because it is the side of the hog that is used for the production of bacon. On the other hand, large, heavy hams are not desirable on a bacon hog.

SHIP EGGS BY PARCEL POST

Weight of Single Dozen of Eggs Will Run From 2 to 3 Pounds, Depending on Packing.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Average hens' eggs will weigh about 1½ pounds to the dozen, or 2 ounces apiece. The weight of a single dozen of eggs in a carton properly packed and wrapped for mailing will run from 2 to 3 pounds, depending on the nature of the particular container, the size of the eggs, and the packing and wrapping used. If the container be a very light one and the eggs small, the parcel may fall within the 2-pound limit, and the postage, therefore, within the first and second zones, or 150-mile limit, would be 6 cents. Most parcels containing a dozen eggs will exceed 2 pounds but will not reach 3; therefore the postage on them will be 7 cents within the first and second zones. A parcel containing 2 dozen eggs will add perhaps 2 cents to the postage, though sometimes only 1 cent, depending on the nature of the container and the packing and wrapping.

HOW TO INTRODUCE QUEENS

It Is Necessary to Remove Old and Defective Ones and Replace Them With Younger Stock.

Every beekeeper who is really caring for his bees should know how to introduce queens, because it is necessary to remove old and defective queens and replace them by young vigorous ones.

Queens may be introduced in cells or after they have emerged from cells, while still unfertilized, or after they have begun to lay.

Average of 124½ Bushels of Potatoes Secured in Experiment Conducted in North Dakota.

Potatoes given level cultivation averaged 124½ bushels per acre, hilled once 113½, twice 90, and hilled three times 53½. These are the results of an experiment at the North Dakota station in 1918.

GRAIN CONSUMPTION VARIES DURING YEAR

Feeding of Oats Is More Uniform Than That of Corn.

Barley, Wheat and Rye Approach Monthly Uniformity in Degree Less Than Oats—Silage Reaches High Point in February.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Whether the supposition is that the consumption of corn by live stock on farms in the United States varies little from month to month, or that the summer consumption is relatively small, the fact, as ascertained by the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture, is that during the six months from May to October nearly three-eighths of the year's corn ration is eaten, and from November to April five-eighths. The warm-weather fraction will seem large or small according to the size of the guess. Oats, more than corn, is the feed from April to September, and the monthly consumption of oats is more uniform throughout the year than that of corn. Barley, wheat and rye approach monthly uniformity in degree less than that of oats throughout the year and a concentration of consumption in the colder months is found in hay, silage and mill feed, as in the case of corn.

Of the year's entire consumption of corn by live stock on farms the highest consumption in one month is 11.5 per cent in December, and the lowest 4.6 per cent in August. For oats the highest is 9.8 per cent in April and the lowest 6.8 per cent in December; barley, highest 10.9 per cent in November and lowest 6 per cent in June and also in July; rye, highest 10.3 per cent in October and lowest 7.1 per cent in July; wheat, highest 11.4 per cent in November and lowest 5.8 per cent in July.

Mill feed consumption sags to 4.8 per cent in July and rises to 11.5 per cent in February and again in March. More unequal yet is hay consumption, with its range from the highest, 14.2 per cent in February and also in March to 3.2 per cent in August; and another degree is reached by silage, the consumption of which rises to 16.8 per cent of the year's total in February and falls to 1 per cent in July and again in August.

COMMUNITY LIME SPREADER

Farmers of Otsego County, N. Y., Solve Problem of Spreading Lime at Proper Time.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Members of the farm bureau in one of the communities of Otsego county, New York, have combined and purchased a lime spreader, and have thus taken a long step in solving their problem of applying lime at the proper time of the year and in sufficient quantities to get results. The spreader is to be rotated among the members. Nonmembers may also use it by paying 25 cents an acre. In the early stages of the use of lime in a community, especially in a small way, spreaders are often not available because single land owners hesitate to purchase them. Even after the use of lime is established a single machine will often meet the needs of several farmers.

SCATTER GRAINS FOR FOWLS

Not Considered Good Practice to Feed in Troughs—Domineering Hens Get Too Much.

Never feed whole grain in a trough. When so fed there will be domineering hens which will get more than their share, but when the grain is scattered each hen must seek her portion, and all will have an equal chance. You need not fear to scatter it over every square inch of ground, for not a grain will be wasted. It compels the hens to work instead of helping themselves.

PREVENT DISEASE OUTBREAKS

Use Every Preventive Measure and See That Proper Precautions Are Taken.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Sometimes we cannot prevent outbreaks of live stock diseases on our farms, but we can and should always use every preventive measure and see that proper precautions are taken when the disease first makes its appearance.

TROUBLE IN FIGHTING WEEDS

However, if you wish to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

"Floral Ruffians."

Primroses, which are now adding to the color of London streets, were taken by Ruskin for his type of "flowers of gracious breeding," and they are invariably represented by poets as floral weaklings. This is strange, for it is all quite contrary to the facts in nature.

Primroses are really floral ruffians, to which they owe their "survival" in the fierce "struggle for existence" among wild flowers. They are hardy Alpine plants, found on mountains heights throughout Europe and Asia, even on the highest ranges of the Himalayas.

They also seem to be rather poisonous, though alleged by Lord Beaconsfield to make an admirable salad. Except pigs, no animals will eat primroses. They bloom with impunity in a rabbit warren.—London Chronicle.

GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER

Same Toe.

This youngster is one of the type that constantly is falling over something. He has entire summers of sore toes because he "stumps" them. His mother, wearying of tying up his wounds, said to him on his most recent call for first aid:

"Son, if you stump another toe I'm going to punish you."

An hour later she heard the familiar yelp. He had gone down in action again.

"Another toe," the mother murmured. She prepared to make her word good. "I told you I'd whip you if you stumped another toe. Come in the house."

"No, mother, you're wrong," the boy whined appealingly. "This is the same toe."

MEXICAN PLANT MAY CONQUER BRIGHT'S DISEASE

New York.—Physicians who have tested the sap of the Mexican maguey plant in the treatment of diseases of the kidneys believe that an important discovery has been made. Writing in La Escuela de Medicina, the leading Mexican medicine journal, the editor says: "It is the only substance known up to the present time, in the whole world, having the power to radically and permanently overcome Bright's Disease."

Reports of definite results in a large number of chronic and long standing cases of kidney trouble have created a persistent demand for this sap, which is popularly known under the name of AGMEL, and considerable quantities are being imported into the United States.

The Arrow Chemical Co., 91 Union Square, New York City, will mail to those interested a free descriptive booklet; or upon receipt of $2.00 a full sized bottle of AGMEL, containing 336 cubic centimeters of pure concentrated sap, will be sent to any address in the U. S. A. or Canada, all charges prepaid.
