HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well.

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

If complications exist, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years experience is at your service.

Yes, Cut It Out.

The other day an Indiana city school superintendent promoted a grade teacher to the English department in the high school. He was discussing the work with her when she suddenly said:

"Oh, Mr. ——, it's going to be so hard for me. You see I've always used so much slang and now when I teach English I won't dare use any more."

"Slang!" ejaculated that superintendent, "Well, believe me, Alice, you'll have to cut that out now."

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Womens' complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Lenient Old Age.

"Age mellows a good man. It makes him lenient and charitable," said Norman Davis, the financial expert of the peace conference, at a banquet in Washington.

"Two old friends met after a separation of many, many years.

"'By Jove, how young looking you've kept!' said the first old fellow.

"'Not so young looking as yourself,' said the second heartily. 'I always thought you'd go bald, like your father, but look at you! What a thatch! Regular matinee idol crop!'

"'Come off,' said the first old fellow. 'You've got as much hair left as I have, if not more.'

"'Nonsense!' said the second. 'It can't be. Let's count 'em.'"

A Callous Brute.

"Young lady, I think I'll buy you a dictionary."

"Sir," said the typist, "I am insulted."

"Well, you can look in the dictionary for good epithets to call me."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

NOT AT ALL BAD REASONING

Few Have Real Confidence in Advice That Is Handed Out by Acknowledged Failures.

Harold Bell Wright, the novelist, said in an after-dinner speech in San Francisco:

"After all, success—financial success—is the best proof of a book's merit. All good books, from 'Robinson Crusoe' down, have had phenomenal success—made hundreds of thousands of dollars.

"We all know this is true about financial success. We are all like the tramp who asked the old gentleman for the price of a glass of beer.

"'I have no money,' the old gentleman said, 'but I will give you a little advice, friend.'

"The tramp lit a cigarette butt and blew a contemptuous puff of smoke into the old gentleman's face.

"'Well, if ye ain't got no money,' he said, 'yer advice can't be very valuable.'"

A substitute for the classical Greek word of reverence has been discovered by a member of the doughboy double quartette at base hospital, Fort Sam Houston, Tex. He has a powerful deep bass voice and a powerful love of that little classic called, "Roll Dem Bones."

After every song he booms out as a sort of Amen, "Roll Dem Bones." The Red Cross musical director is afraid he will forget when they sing in the choir some Sunday.

WAY TO AVOID QUARRELS OVER LEASES WORKED OUT BY GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS

Repairs Should Be Provided for in Renting Contract.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Beginning about this time every year, between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 men in the United States are thinking about leasing or renting land. All that thinking results in between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 contracts between landlord and tenant. For a year, or two or three years, or longer, those men must live and work under those contracts. The form of the contract, says the United States department of agriculture, affects not only the prosperity of the contracting parties but the comfort and happiness of themselves and their families. A poorly considered lease is likely to result in friction and frequent removals. A well-considered lease is a sort of insurance policy against quarrels and tends to increase the length of time that the landlord and tenant operate together, a condition, according to the department, that is greatly to be desired.

There are a great many things to be considered in every lease. The economists in charge of land economics in the office of farm management, department of agriculture, have made out a list of points that every man who has ground to lease and every man who wants to lease ground may need to consider. Although this list is long, it is, nevertheless, not to be taken as being so complete as to cover every feature that may deserve consideration on any specific farm. On the other hand not all of them will need to be considered by the parties to any one lease, but they serve as reminders, and those that are not pertinent in any particular cases need not be considered.

The list follows.

General Features.

Date of agreement.

Names of the contracting parties.

Name of the farm, its boundaries, and location in state, county, township and section.

Date of beginning and ending.

Provision for renewal.

Date by which renewal is to be made or notice to quit given.

Statement field or cropping system or rotation to be followed.

Map of the farm showing rotation and field system.

Plan and purpose of farming and of leasing.

Principles underlying the rental bargain.

In whom the management of the farm is to rest.

Matter of settling differences, by arbitration or otherwise.

Enforcement of provisions.

Yielding of possession in event of default, failure to observe agreements or at termination of lease.

Witnesses.

Sealing and recording (in some states) if the contract is for longer than a certain period.

Share each party is to get: of cash crops, feed crops, straw, stalk pasture, animal products, and animals raised, etc.

Who is to do the selling.

Decisions as to the time to sell and amount to be sold.

NOT VASTLY RICH

Ancient Men of Wealth Just Comfortably Off.

Compared With the Stupendous Fortunes of Today Those Old Fellows Would Have Been Considered Merely as "Pikers."

For a long time the names of Croesus, Crassus and Monte Cristo were used in comparison to express great wealth. The two first historical figures represented riches in Greece and Rome and the fictitious figure of the latter did the same for recent times. How rich Croesus was there is no way of judging. The value of the treasure which he displayed to Solon cannot be estimated. A saying ascribed to Crassus gives at least some idea of what he considered affluence. He declared that no one could be considered rich who could not maintain an army. This, of course, would be a great undertaking even at that period, though an army then was not in size anything like an army of today, nor was the equipment or sustenance nearly as costly. At Pharsali, Caesar had 22,000 legionaries, 1,000 cavalry; Pompey 45,000 legionaries, 7,000 cavalry. Also history records that at the time of his election to the consulate with Pompey he feasted the Roman populace at 10,000 tables and gave each family corn for three months.

The question which came up, however, was in regard to the financial resources of Monte Cristo. Nowhere in the novel are figures given from which a complete answer can be derived. The prices which the count paid for his possessions and for producing his spectacular effects are frequently mentioned, but not so often that the sum total can be known. However in the very last chapter, just before Monte Cristo disappears in the East, a hint is dropped as to the wealth which Dumas had in mind as originally belonging to the count and what accordingly he believed constituted almost fabulous riches at that time. In almost his very last words in the book, Monte Cristo says: "You do not know all the joy which life affords with a great fortune. I possess nearly 100,000,000." By this, of course, he would mean francs and therefore at the end of his career of reward and vengeance the count had $20,000,000. When Monte Cristo arrived in Paris he had his first interview with the banker, Danglars, which threw the latter into such consternation that the count had an unlimited credit. He declares definitely that he will need for the year during which he expects to remain in France 6,000,000 francs, perhaps more, though he says that he scarcely thinks that he will exceed that amount. The interest on 100,000,000 francs would have been about 6,000,000 so that really Monte Cristo appears to have been living nearly within his income. There is little or nothing to indicate that he considered or rather that Dumas considered that his famous character had in any degree impaired his fortune. Therefore, the inference is that the figures set by Dumas in his mind as the wealth of Monte Cristo at the beginning cannot have been very much more comparatively than $20,000,000. That, of course, is a goodly fortune even in these days, but nothing very remarkable and certainly not fabulous. Of course, the purchasing power of money was considerably greater in Dumas' lifetime and his hero might be supposed to do much more with his riches.

New York's Beginnings.

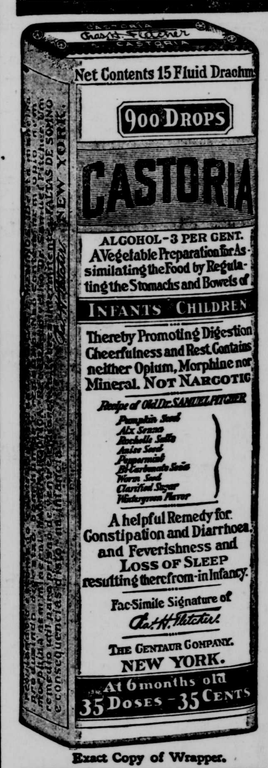

The first street railway in the world was the New York and Harlem road, built on the Bowery in New York city and opened for travel from Prince street to the present site of Union square, in November, 1832. Two horse-drawn vehicles fashioned somewhat like a stage coach of the period were run over the line on the day of the opening, carrying as passengers Mayor Walter Bowne, the city councilmen and other invited guests. The affair attracted many spectators and convinced the most skeptical that the new horse cars were certain to be a great convenience. The road was extended to Murray Hill in 1838 and reached the Harlem river in 1839. Fares were paid in silver sixpences of the old Spanish currency then in circulation, and one of the road's original features still in existence is the old Park avenue tunnel under Murray Hill. Horse cars were discontinued in New York city on July 26, 1917, when a few officials of the New York Railway company and the public service commission boarded an old car of the Bleecker street line, and took turns in driving the antiquated vehicle on its final trip.

Enforcing Etiquette.

"My oldest girl, Zanzaline, is right smart of a lady, if I do say it," pridefully admitted Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "Tuther night when young Bill-Dick Riggle was calling on her in steps young Hamp Yawkey, and 'lowed he'd set up on the other side of her. 'Peared like Bill-Dick preferred peace to etterkett, and was willing to arbitrate about it. But Zanzaline knowed her manners, and she hauled off with the fire shovel and smacked young Hamp flat with it, and like to have beat him to death before he could tear himself out of there. Then she turned to Bill-Dick and told him to go on with his sparking. Aw, you bet your life, when it comes to etterkett, Zanzaline is right there with the authority!"—Kansas City Star.

Sailors' Superstitions.

There is a strong feeling among sailors in general against clergymen at sea. Astonishing as it may sound, a ship that carries them soon gets a bad name. Mishaps that occur during a voyage are charged to the ministers, and although the superstition is not much discussed it certainly exists, and it not to be put down by logic or common sense. The writer once wished the commander of a great ocean liner a pleasant voyage. "Pleasant voyage," he retorted, savagely, "that's likely isn't it, when there's three parsons shipped and one of them a bi[illegible]

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the Mucous Surfaces.

'HONK, HONK!' THERE YOU ARE

After That It Was Easy to Understand Where Old Lady Wanted Letter to Go.

A portly Dutch woman applied to the post office for a money order to send to her son in the far East. She told the clerk she had left her son's letter at home, but said he was "some place out in China, dot sounds like der noise an automobile makes."

The clerk smiled, and turning to another nearby, he said: "What kind of a noise does an automobile make, Joe?"

"Honk, honk!" the other suggested.

"Yah, dot's it," exclaimed the woman, her face brightening. "Honk honk dots der place."

So the clerk made the order payable to Hongkong, and the woman went away happy.

OLD AGE STARTS WITH YOUR KIDNEYS
