OUT O' LUCK

Never mind! Just take Cascarets if Bilious, Constipated

Everyone must occasionally give to the bowels some regular help or else suffer from constipation, bilious attacks, stomach disorders and sick headache. But do not whip the bowels into activity with harsh cathartics.

What the liver and bowels need is a gentle and natural tonic, one that can constantly be used without harm. The gentlest liver and bowel tonic is "Cascarets." They put the liver to work and cleanse the colon and bowels of all waste, toxins and poisons without griping—they never sicken or inconvenience you like Calomel, Salts, Oil or Purgatives.

Twenty-five million boxes of Cascarets are sold each year. They work while you sleep. Cascarets cost so little too.—Adv.

Those who wait for the help of the "uplifters" and politicians may never secure help.

Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills are simply a good old-fashioned medicine for regulating the stomach, the liver and bowels. Get a box and try them.—Adv.

Don't eclipse the good heart in you by a mean, selfish deed. Sunshine is what makes the corn grow.

HAD LOST HOPE

But Doan's Effected a Complete Recovery After Other Remedies Failed. Now in Good Health.

Mrs. Stitsworth

Mrs. J. A. Stitsworth, E. Bell Ave., Red Key, Ind., says: "Kidney trouble came on me suddenly and before I realized it I was in a critical condition. My body bloated and my feet and ankles swelled like toy balloons. The kidney secretions burned terribly in passage. My face puffed up and the flesh under my eyes and on my cheeks hung down in folds. I had smothering spells, when I thought I would die.

So much water had collected under my skin, I weighed 176 pounds, a gain of 45 pounds. My sight failed and little black specks passed before my eyes. I felt drowsy and was so nervous, I couldn't stand the least noise. Rheumatic pains darted all through me and it felt as if every nerve in my body was affected. Medicine didn't help me and I had little hope or strength left. Finally I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they restored me to health. I am now well and strong."

SLEEP MALADY FOLLOWS "FLU"

Always Has Appeared in Wake of Epidemics of Influenza.

IS TRACED BACK TO 1730

Italian Scientists Study History of Disease—Best Way to Avoid the Sickness Is to Keep Resistance at High Point.

Rome.—Sleeping sickness, or sleeping headache, as the Italian scientists prefer to call the malady which has appeared in Rome and several other Italian cities, is believed by Prof. Giuseppe Sanarelli, the distinguished Italian bacteriologist, to be the same as that which followed other waves of influenza. Pope Benedict XIII died from influenza in 1730. The after effects of the epidemic at that time were so baneful that his successor, Benedict XIV, waived the fasting of churchmen during Lent, and similar action was taken by Pope Leo XII in 1890, when there was another wave of influenza, or la grippe.

Keep Up Resistance.

Professor Sanarelli, who has been studying the disease, says that the best way to avoid sleeping sickness is to keep the powers of resistance up to the highest point, as it seems to attack chiefly persons who are in a run-down condition. He also warns the public not to be unduly alarmed about the disease, and says he is unwilling to concede it is highly communicable or contagious until the actual cause of the malady is determined. And he does not think the germ will be discovered until after extensive experimentation with the brains of monkeys, such an expensive work that it can be carried out only with the aid of the millions of some philanthropic millionaire like John D. Rockefeller.

Professor Sanarelli says because of the sporadic appearance of the disease it is reasonable to assume many persons carry the germs but are immune to the disease until there is some sudden let-down in their physical condition which overcomes their power of resistance.

As the malady always makes its appearance at the same season as infantile paralysis and cerebrospinal meningitis, or spotted fever, and as it persists in reappearing occasionally between epidemics, Professor Sanarelli says it is not strange that it is frequently believed to be identical with them. However, he thinks it is quite a distinct disease, as it is confined chiefly to adults and does not leave the serious effects of cerebrospinal meningitis.

Diagnosed in Different Countries.

The malady has been diagnosed in widely scattered parts of the world in 1917, 1918 and 1919. At least one hundred cases were reported from English cities in 1918, but it died out in June. Until this year it had not been reported in Italy since 1889 and 1890, when it appeared in Mantua. Many persons died then after a few days, sometimes even hours, of lethargic sleep which could not be overcome. Bulgaria also had an epidemic at that time, and cases occurred in the United States.

The illness begins with mental depression, which is followed by sleepiness, which develops into complete prostration. Drooping of the eyelids and frequently a crossing of the eyes occur. Loud talk and even shaking will not arouse patients suffering acutely with the malady, who answer incoherently to all inquiries and fall immediately into sleep again. The face is generally colorless and devoid of expression.

Professor Sanarelli is a member of the faculty of the University of Bologna and was formerly professor of microbiology and public hygiene at the University of Montevideo. He was also formerly undersecretary of state for agriculture in Italy.

Fish, Given "Drink," Comes Back to Life

London.—The whole town of Yarmouth has viewed a small fish, a bream, and marveled. It has been named Jonah No. 2. Robert Watling, Coltishall, Norfolk, caught a 20-pound pike on Barton Broad. Some time later, when the pike was cleaned, a bream was found inside it. When examined, the bream's tail was seen to quiver. "Thereupon," said Watling, "I poured a drop of brandy down the fish's throat and placed it in a bait can, changing the water every 20 minutes. It soon began to revive, and in a short time was swimming around as full of life as ever."

PREDICTS NEW ALASKA RUSH

Klondike Pioneer Expects to See Tent City in Spring at Hyder.

Seattle, Wash.—Hyder, Alaska, center of the Stewart river mining properties, will become a tent city rivaling Nome and other famous "strike" towns, if the expected spring influx of prospectors is realized, according to James W. McDonald, pioneer of the Klondike, who was in Seattle recently.

"The world is going to see another tent city in the spring," Mr. McDonald said. "Hyder's future is assured, and there is every indication that when the snow goes off thousands of people will flock to the little town."

Most of the newcomers will be disappointed, Mr. McDonald asserted. Hundreds of them are used only to placer mining, while the Stewart river properties are all hard rock. The district will not be fully developed for five years, he said.

Large Lemons.

Fresno, Cal.—A horticultural freak of more than usual interest has been discovered in Fresno county in a lemon tree whose fruit average 22 inches in length. The fruit is a cross between a lemon and a grapefruit, having the flavor of the latter.

LID IS NOW ON IN ALASKA

Newest Mining Camp Is Real "Spotless Town."

Gold Seekers Rushing There in Spring Will Find Place Quiet as Church.

Ketchikan, Alaska.—Hyder, newest of Alaskan mining camps, is a "spotless town" and many stampeders who may rush there in the spring are not going to find drinking, dancing and gambling going on wide open, as in the gold camps of the first stampede in '98, long before prohibition came, according to reports received here.

If Hyder's new residents find anything out of the ordinary next spring they may find it in Stewart, a Canadian town not far from Hyder. It is probable, however, that the red-coated constables of the Royal Northwestern Mounted police, who kept order at Dawson in the gold days, will be at Stewart next spring to see that things are within the law.

For a very brief period this winter Hyder was "wide open," according to reports.

"Whisky and beer were sold at many bars, girls were dancing, pianos were thumped and roulette, blackjack and faro were being played," wrote one miner from the town.

Then John Ronan, former territorial senator, was appointed United States marshal and he closed everything up. "Bang went the lid and hundreds could not get away from Hyder fast enough," the miner wrote. "Many went to Stewart. There everything seems to be wide open."

Hyder would have had a population of 20,000 in three months if the "lid" had been left off, the miner predicted. But the "lid" was clamped down and the population dwindled.

MUST READ THE PSALMS

Used in Reading Test for Aliens at Ellis Island.

Required to Read From 30 to 40 Words in Any Language He Desires.

New York.—Uncle Sam will soon be conducting great classes in reading the Psalms almost at the feet of the Statue of Liberty. The pre-war practice of examining all immigrants who come by steerage at Ellis Island has been restored.

More than 1,000 men and women will read from the Psalms there daily, and Miss Liberty, who stands a stone's throw from the island slip, could hear if she were incarnate.

Reading from the Psalms is the literacy test for admission to this country, which went into effect in May, 1917, and is now receiving its first real trial because immigration during the war was small. The law provides that an immigrant, with a few exceptions, must be able to read from thirty to forty words in any language he or she desires. The department of labor devised the Psalm as the fairest for all.

Immigration inspectors are equipped with cards in all languages, with verses from the Psalms printed on them. All types of script are represented—German, Arabic, Hebrew, Japanese, Russian, and so on—except Chinese, for that nationality is not permitted to immigrate.

Lest any alien learn, parrot-like the verse of the Psalm that a friend in this country had to read, the inspectors have at least 40 different verses in each language, one verse to a card.

Primary examination at the island will require many more employees. Immigration authorities have estimated it will take $1,000,000 more annually to increase the force to a proper size as well as to raise salaries of present employees so that skilled workers will not leave the service for private employment.

EX-DUKE WINS AGAINST STATE

Confiscation of Estate by People's Commissioners in Germany Held Illegal.

Berlin, Germany.—The former reigning duke of Gotha has won his suit against the free state, which peremptorily confiscated his property and incorporated it among the state's assets without affording the duke the slightest reimbursement. The duke immediately began suit to recover the estate and also claimed damages. In their defense the people's commissioner pleaded that they had acted within the letter of their prerogatives and were not answerable to the court. This plea has been rejected by the new tribunal, which has decided that the seizure of the duke's property was illegal. A special commission will now negotiate for a compromise.

MULES IN COASTING RECORD

Slide Five Hundred Feet Down an Icy Hill Road Near Chillicothe, Ohio.

Chillicothe, O.—A record was made in local coasting annals when Jeff and Jerry, two draft mules owned by a local wholesale grocery firm, toboganned 500 feet down an icy hill road.

The Ross County Tuberculosis sanitarium on Belleview Hill, west of Chillicothe, was running short of provisions because delivery wagons were unable to make the trip up the ice covered road.

A driver for the firm said that Jeff and Jerry, the trusty mules, could make the ascent. Midway up the slope they began to slide, and to keep the wagon and its contents from going over the bank the driver unharnessed the mules.

Jeff and Jerry sat down and slid to the bottom of the hill. A horse on the slope nearby decided to imitate the mules, but slid into a fence.

FIND BRIDE'S BONES IN ROME

Disappearance of Artist's Wife May Be Solved in a Murder Trial.

Rome.—Two developments in the tangled and mysterious case in which Ignatius Mesones, a Peruvian painter, is charged with the murder of his girl bride, came to light. The skeleton of a woman known as Maria Rotellini, who was supposed to have committed suicide here two years ago, was exhumed and positively identified as that of Senora Mesones, and Mesones admitted to the court that his wife had disappeared on December 27, 1917, instead of sailing for America, as he had insisted hitherto. He also expressed the belief that Senora Mesones and the Rotellini woman were the same person.

Mesones told the court that for the purpose of obtaining money from his wife's family he invented the story that Senora Mesones had gone to America. Investigation by authorities has shown the supposed Maria Rotellini first appeared in Rome on the day Mesones says his wife vanished.

HUGE STATUE FOR ARGENTINA

Buenos Aires.—As voyagers entering the harbor of the greatest city of North America behold the majestic Statue of Liberty, so within the present year those coming to the greatest city of South America will behold a majestic sentinel, a towering statue of Christopher Columbus.

The monument of the great navigator will not, like the Liberty statue in New York, stand in the harbor, for Buenos Aires has no real harbor, but will rise nearly 100 feet in height from a point near the water's edge.

What Summer Will Bring

WE know now what summer will bring in the way of clothes for children and the end of Lent ought to see their little wardrobes completed and out of the way. There never was a time when their belongings were more carefully thought out or more tasteful and practical. Designers of little girls' dresses and hats seem to have been inspired and to have turned out apparel that interprets what childhood is—or ought to be—and the result is a lot of simple and dainty, or simple and sturdy clothes, according to the childish demands to be made on them.

Two good examples of the straightforward but ingenious modes for girls of eight to thirteen, for every sort of ordinary wear are pictured above. The little dress at the left is made of plain chambray and might be of any of the several cotton materials that are used for substantial summer dresses. They all come in pretty colors and are usually made up with collar and cuffs, and sometimes pipings, of white cotton goods. In this chambray dress white batiste answers for the accessories and the narrow frills that edge the collar and cuffs are finished with a picot edge.

Crossbar dimity or lawn, or a fine gingham will make the other dress successfully with white organdie in the collar and cuffs, or the design can be copied in heavier cottons. The tiny bow of narrow black ribbon at the front of the collar is not to be overlooked because it is everywhere present in the new cotton clothes for both grownups and children.

Hats—"Among Those Present"

BUYING a trousseau is, of course, the most alluring of all shopping, but standing right next to it is the perennial joy of buying a new hat—an event that comes along often in these modern days. When a woman loses interest in her headgear, something has gone very wrong with her, and life has lost a lot of flavor. Some women declare that buying a new hat proves a comfort and an inspiration in time of trial, and is better than medicine; there is a lot in the psychology of clothes—otherwise they would not be worth writing about.

Now is the season when millinery shops are flourishing, for they are full of enticing spring millinery—in which sports hats occupy more space than ever. But, leaving out this particular line, we find among those present in all displays, hats of which the four shown above are types, and all of them worth considering.

At the top of the group is a flame-colored model in which a soft shape, made of narrow ribbon and piping braid, provides a hat of much distinction to begin with, finished with a wreath of airy feathers in the same color. It is beautiful in any of the fashionable light shades. Just below it at the left is a joy forever in hats, with satin crown and braid brim, the latter having a flounce of malines bordered with ribbon draped over it. You can imagine it in leghorn color with garden roses and fine grass completing it—picturesque enough for any time. A delightful street hat of silk, at the right, is considerably trimmed with a wreath of blonde feathers, narrow ribbon and an ornament, in taupe tones. Finally one of the endless varieties that appear in the ribbon hats reveals that they have an important place in the old season's styles. This hat is faced with paon velvet and covered with ribbon loops.

Julia Bottomley

Veils on Fur Hats.

Veils are not often worn with fur hats. The veil flattens the nap of the pelt and gives hard lines. When a veil is worn with a small fur toque there should be plenty of veil—that is, the veil should be big enough to swathe the small hat with soft, overlapping folds. When it is necessary to wear a veil with a feather hat have a veil of generous size, which may be thrown lightly and loosely over the plumes and not flatten them down in tight, close lines.

Cleans White Shoes.

If the buckskin uppers of your shoes are soiled you can clean them neatly and cheaply with sandpaper. Buy a sheet of the finest grade, costing a few cents, and cut off a little strip. With this rub the leather gently until all dirt disappears. One sheet of paper will last for a number of cleanings.

Again the Painted Hat.

After the artist has laid down his brushes, only a little work remains for the milliner to do on the hat of taupe Panama; merely to adjust the bow and band of French blue moire ribbon and to put in the facing of bright blue. The painter uses colors almost futuristic—yellow, blue, green, rose.

The Busy Husbandry.

Probably no other system will ever be devised for losing long and valuable lead pencils out of one's waistcoat pocket which will quite equal for efficiency shaking down the furnace.—Ohio State Journal.
