DO YOU WANT THIS CONTINUED?

The cost of government in the United States for the past year has been more than the total value of all the wheat, all the corn, all the oats and all the potatoes grown in the United States during the year. Our four greatest crops were not sufficient to pay the government's expenses on a peace time basis.

WILL YOU VOTE
TO CONTINUE THIS SHAMEFUL WASTE?

HENDERSON ITEMS

Received too late for last week.

Mr. James R. Melvin has returned home after spending a few days this week in Wilmington.

Mr. and Mrs. T- Alda Montague spent Sunday with friends at Leipsic, Del.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Walls and daughter Evelyn were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Gooden on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Alda Montague and children visited the latters parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Moore of near Kenton on Tuesday.

Our commnnitp was greatly surprised to learn that Miss Grace Smith one of our school teachers, and Mr. Malcolm Pritchett of Claymont, Del., were married Sept 11th, and had been keeping it a secret. There many friends gave them an old time seranade Satueday night and wishing them good luck and prosperity. They will reside in Wilmington after Jan. the 1st.

Mrs. Harvey Bickling and Mrs. Preston Harris of Wilmindton are visiting their parents Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Clough of near town this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Quillen have returh home after spending a few days in Baltimore and Wilmington.

Mrs. Norman wishes to announce to those who have exhibits and were unable to bring them to the district exhibit that she desires them brought to the County Exhibit not later than Tuesday.

Wooden shoes will give us a new gait. Those who live in towns afflicted with old brick sidewalks already have it.

College students are helping to run trains. It is good athletic work and more interesting than conjugations or philosophies.

Bullfighters in Madrid have gone on a strike. This is one which all humane people would like to see indefinitely prolonged.

If the dollar bill is worth only 50 cents compared to what it could buy in 1914, how soon before we shall be down to stage money?

Germany is said to be planning another war. This may explain why our scientists can't get any message from Mars; the line is busy.

Perhaps the average Mexican finds it less irksome to fight under any sort of leadership than to work under conscienceless taskmasters.

The world ought to have peace. It is fighting everywhere hard enough for it.

Uncle Sam is "no man's land"—the state of being neither at war nor in peace.

Perhaps a "one-lump" club would be effective in bringing down the price of sugar.

Too many people in this country want to revise the Constitution by blowing it up.

The charges against the profiteers are not one bit more serious than the counter charges.

The sugar bowl could run away with the spoon at this time and neither one would be missed.

The fellow who sold New York chorus girls fake perfume at $6 a bottle is indeed in bad odor.

Ere this we had expected the home outfitting stores to be showing something in cellar lamps.

We should have given a slight adherence to simplified spelling in 1818, when they used "f's" for "s's."

In urging dress economy, however, the school authorities mean fewer dresses and not less material.

In these days of scientific wonders it's a pity some of this political gas cannot be piped into the homes.

Enthusiasm for the overall movement should not be allowed to interfere with wearing out old clothes.

The traders may knock down the price some but none among them can hurt the security of Liberty bonds.

On the other hand, the candidates for president who do not get nominations will be saved a lot of worry.

A little sunshine and a few hot political arguments help a good deal to allay the fear of another coal famine.

Planting a tree when a child is born is a better plan than the old custom of tearing up the new father's best hat.

A dentist urges compulsory inspection of the teeth. We will submit to that, but keep away from us with that drill.

There is again trouble with the sugar supply, so more of the little remaining sweetness in it will be taken out of life.

American clockmakers are swamped by the export demand. It is good to realize that Europe hasn't too much time on its hands.

"Packed like sardines" is an old, old misstatement for crowded human beings. Sardines are greased before they are packed.

Salvador is trying to snub the United States. It is as fierce as the ant that angrily warned the elephant to quit its shoving.

If the threat of 50-cent gasoline is carried into effect the suffering among the automobile poor is going to be something awful.

The quite common possession of the same recipe indicates that dandelions this year may be selling by the individual dandelion.

The ex-kaiser is said to have set by enough securities to enable him to put in the time not spent in cutting wood, in cutting coupons.

Why cannot that Englishman who is predicting an airship that will fly, float and submerge arrange to have it hibernate in winter?

One wholesaler says the high food prices are not justified. Nobody ever thought they were, but what difference does that make?

Belgian troops marched into Germany with flags flying and bands playing. This is one instance in which history does not repeat itself.

Threatened with an election, Mexico seems to be determined to go back to its traditional method of choosing a new government by revolution.

Another factor in the general extravagance is that a man so dislikes to take his $20 shoes into a crowded street car that he hires a taxicab.

If wooden shoes should become popular the best graces, in order to be satisfactorily expensive, must be mahogany or rosewood. Or, perhaps, sandalwood.

Our authors of best sellers will accept as a left-handed compliment Ibanez' prediction that the United States will lead the world in letters next century.

Russian revolutionaries can be depended upon to give astute Japan plenty of excuses to remain in Siberia.

At the present rate, it will soon be a narrow choice of having diamonds on one's fingers or potatoes on one's table.

Clothing prices seem to be coming down—perhaps to see what those queer denim things are that men are wearing.

Whether the heart of the world is broken or not, the world continues to function much as it did before. It's very tough.

Silver fox furs are selling at $670 in New York, but maybe they will be able to find something more expensive for summer furs.

The bad weather maker never strikes.

That long looked-for message from Mars must be coming by mail.

In the spring the workman's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of strikes.

Pretty soon the sale of potatoes will pass from the grocer to the jeweler.

"Bologna Goes on Strike," says a headline. There goes the peace of Bologna.

Telling the consumer that coal prices are inexcusable doesn't help much.

The doubling in the cost of marriage licenses emphasizes the high cost of loving.

Somebody presently will spoil the fun by going to work with his overalls pressed.

In the matter of daylight saving, self-determination seems to be working well.

Now it is intimated that the carving of Turkey would cause international indigestion.

The true optimist is the man who believes everything he reads in a railway time table.

Most of those mushroom strikes are of the toadstool variety. At least, they make everybody sick.

People who live in flats will have to be careful how they drop their sabots on the floor at bedtime.

It is a strange contradiction in colors, but the busier the reds get the bluer the world's outlook.

I. W. W. members not only refuse to work, but are resentful toward anybody who desires to do so.

With collars going up in price, the consumer will perhaps wear a black one as a symbol of mourning.

The man who plans to go fishing to forget is prone to remember happier days when bait was easier to get.

"United States chemists plan motor fuel from dried leaves." But that won't help in spring and summer.

There have been days lately when it has been wished the weather man would fall down on his forecast.

An airplane to carry over 100 people is being planned. After a while, we will be able to spend week ends in Europe.

One of the hardest tasks of presidential candidates is to prove to their own satisfaction that they were once poor boys.

If we should all don overalls, go barefoot and live a free life in tents, doubtless we should still have with us a few kickers.

Could any one who has no blue denim wear a patch on last year's suit as a badge of membership in the conservation club?

Warren G. Harding will be fifty-five years of age on Election Day. He is old enough to know and young enough to do. His rival has not yet reached even the years of discretion.

AMERICAN RELIEF REACHES 100,000 IN THE NEAR EAST

The Near East Relief work is divided into three branches, with offices in Beirut, Alexandropol and Constantinople. The latter station, having a personnel of 200, is caring for 32,000 orphans, 12,000 hospital cases and 9,000 in industrial work, giving direct aid in money, clothing and soup to temporary refugees. The committee here visits needy homes, arranging employment and other aid affecting 12,000 people.

In the Caucasus the work now is concentrated at Alexandropol under a personnel of 20 Americans, where 24,000 orphans are fed and lodged. Refugees from Cilicia, on account of banditry in the French zone of Syria, have greatly increased. Col. Coombs, managing director at Constantinople, commends the spirits of sacrifice among American relief workers, which more than offsets the lack of some in experience.

When Americans became beleaguered in the bandit-infested interior, Col. Coombs wrote a circular letter informing the personnel that they were free to leave when they felt conditions warranted it, but only three former soldiers quit their posts. Even after Adana was surrounded Miss Doris Nevin, the late composer's daughter, of Pittsburgh, and Miss Ruth Henry, of Amherst, Mass., voluntarily braved a journey through the Turk lines to take charge of that branch. This was only one of several similar incidents.

GREECE OFFICIALLY THANKS NEAR EAST RELIEF

Washington.—The Greek legation is in receipt of a report from the Greek High Commissioner in Constantinople that the American organization, Near East Relief, is spending about 3,000 Turkish pounds per week (approximately $3,000) in Western Asia Minor, actively helping the refugees of that district, which is under the control of the Greek government.

The Greek charge has written the executive committee of Near East Relief that "it is a very gratifying feeling to know that so many innocent victims are relieved from their sufferings," and expressing his thanks to Near East Relief for its work in Asia Minor.

Get Extra Miles from Your Tires

We repair blowouts and tears. We restore tires that are partially worn to a condition of complete usefulness.

Our vulcanizing equipment is the best. The process cannot injure your tire. On the other hand it returns it to you sometimes as good as new.
