On turning to see who it was she was confronted by a crowd of Italian laborers who were boarding the train and it was a hard matter to tell which one had tugged at her hand bag. After getting on the train she discovered the pickpocket had opened her bag and taken several articles of value, but had missed a small pocketbook in the handbag which contained a sum of money.

While on their way home, Monday night Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lingo of Seaford were held up by two Negro highwaymen near St. Luke's P. E Church. One of the Negro's carried a big bludgeon and drew back to hit Mr. Lingo, but a hurried move on his part, running his hand back to his hip pocket as if to pull a gun, caused the Negro to change his mind, while his accomplice fled. During the excitement Mrs. Lingo fainted, and while Mr. Lingo looked after his wife the other Negro got away.

INDIAN PLEADS FOR FISH RIGHTS

Aged Chief Recalls Treaty Made With the Governor of Washington in 1855.

CHEERED BY LEGISLATORS

Protests Against Disregard of Pact Which Recognized Right of Indians to Take Salmon in the Yakima River.

Olympia, Wash.—Sixty-six years ago in the spray of Prosser falls, an Indian chief and the then governor of Washington respectively pledged their people to abide by a pact.

This pact recognized the perpetual rights of the Yakima tribe to fish where from time immemorial the red man had taken his salmon.

The Indians had been reluctant, saying to Gov. Isaac I. Stevens, "but when you are dead, who will bear witness to your promises?" And the governor had replied:

"I pledge the Americans to keep the promises as long as the mountains stand, as long as the sun shines and the river runs!"

Calling upon these mute witnesses and summoning the spirits of the dead, Chief Meninock of the Yakimas has just made a speech of protest at the whites' violation of that treaty, in the state senate chamber here, which is the most dramatic recorded in its annals.

Boy When Treaty Was Made.

And that speech, which would do credit to the historic orators of his race, with its sharp challenge to the white man's honor, bids fair to correct a wrong the Indians had hitherto borne in silence.

Meninock was a boy when the treaty was made. He had stood attentively beside his father on that occasion. Today he is 80, and wrinkled. Much water has run over Prosser falls since then, and the salmon have dwindled. Also, the whites have enacted fish and game laws which conflict so with the treaty of 1855 that Meninock was recently arrested for taking salmon from the Yakima river.

A few days ago Chief Meninock and other tribal leaders, together with their wives and children, appeared at the imposing state lodge of the white men at the state capitol here to protest. In their feathered and beaded trappings and scarlet blankets they projected a vivid picture of the past into the busy legislative councils as the chief rose to speak in dignified protest.

Calls Upon Spirits.

"My heart is glad today," said Meninock with solemn mien and sonorous tongue, "because you have said you would listen to what we have to say. It makes me feel that you want to do right by my people whose privileges have been taken and who are sick and sad for being deprived of the food which has given them health and strength.

"I call upon the spirits of the dead and upon those witnesses which Governor Stevens himself invoked to testify that I speak the truth—for the white-topped mountain still stands and the river still runs over the falls where the salmon in season come to leap."

When the old chief sat down among his people the assembled legislators broke into a storm of approving cheers, and the senate committee which has the Indians' case under advisement immediately went on record as favoring the claims of Meninock and his folk, as included in a bill already introduced.

"White men," said the chief as he marched away, "are not so much dishonest as they are sometimes short in memory."

CHARGES 2,933 CASUALTIES

Report Says Japanese Killed or Wounded This Number of Koreans.

Shanghai, China.—The Korean Red Cross in Shanghai has made public a statement charging that Japanese forces killed or injured 2,933 Koreans on Chinese soil in Manchuria from Oct. 9 to Nov. 5 last year. The number of houses and dwellings said to have been destroyed is 1,982, the number of churches burned twenty-five and schools nine. Philip B. Loh, head of the Korean Red Cross, said the record had been compiled in six counties.

Put Dynamite Under Car When It Refused to Move

Ed Meyer, a road builder of Hazelhurst, Miss., cranked and cranked, but the flivver wouldn't go. He became exasperated and finally put 47 sticks of dynamite under it. It went. Spare parts littered the country.

Superstitious negroes, 15 miles away, thought the end of the world had come and held prayer meetings.

Carpenters Accepted Cut in Wages.

Seattle.—Union carpenters voted to voluntarily accept a 12½ per cent reduction in their wage scale. The new scale, $7 for eight hours' work, became effective immediately.

Fruit in the Morning.

Don't make the mistake of going without fruit in the morning. Most of us don't have fruit enough and there is no time when it is more beneficial than as the first course of breakfast. Eating fruit for breakfast is largely a matter of habit. If you get out of the habit of it you soon find no breakfast complete without some sort of fruit.

MAN SPENDS 12 YEARS IN BED

"Invalid" Who Adopts Mode of Living by Choice, Has Brittle Bones.

London.—After 12 years of lying in bed in a London hotel, a man, otherwise normal, resents being annoyed with questions regarding his strange case, and says there is no reason why he should explain his lying in bed any more than anyone else should explain why they get up every morning and rush about all day.

In comfortable financial circumstances, the man adopted his strange mode of living, and now he never leaves his bed except to go to his bath every morning while the bed is being made up and aired. He takes two meals a day, which are served in bed, and he has grown nearly two inches during his 12 years of rest.

Twelve years ago, when he was about forty years old, the stranger, apparently in the best of health, rented a room at the hotel, took to his bed and has been there ever since. Occasionally his puzzled relatives visit him and he receives much correspondence. He has the newspapers sent up to him daily and orders all new books as they appear. Once a month a barber goes to the hotel and cuts his hair and trims his beard.

Has Newspapers Sent Up Daily.

Naturally the long rest has had its effect on his body. The doctors say the bones have become so brittle through inactivity that it would be necessary for him to move carefully if he changed his mode of living. His skin seems normal when the hand is passed down his arm, but a reverse motion reveals a rough, scaly surface which is a recent development and which the doctors cannot explain.

HORSE FOLLOWS THE HOUNDS

Old Timer Will Leave All Peaceful Work Behind When Fox Hunt Is On.

West Chester, Pa.—Caleb M. Harvey of Locust Grove is the owner of a farm horse which enjoys a vacation each year while the fox hunting season is on. Just now it is consuming good oats and getting into condition for the spring plowing.

One day last autumn the animal was pulling a horse rake, according to a witness, when a pack of hounds pursuing a fox came along. It immediately resigned its work and started after the pack. Fences, hedges and ditches formed no obstacle to its passing, and soon it was with the pack and portions of the rake were scattered about the township.

It remained until the fox had been driven to earth and then proceeded homeward. It went to its stall and is still there. In his younger days the animal had been one of the best fox horses in this section, but Harvey was not aware of the fact until he had expended some good money to discover it.

Arrested When Mail to Both Wives Became Mixed

When a Philadelphia postman delivered a letter intended for wife No. 1 at the home of wife No. 2, the latter's suspicions were aroused, so she caused the arrest of Walter A. McNeil, thirty-five years old, of Harriman, Pa., on a charge of bigamy.

Rev. Mr. Gillette, the "marrying parson," who has figured in a number of domestic fiascos, and is now being sought by the police, officiated at the second marriage, when McNeil is said to have married Catherine Klinger on October 31, 1920. She said that she had learned that McNeil was married for the first time in 1908.

Used Private Wire to Get Drugs.

Raleigh, N. C.—In urgent need of medicine, T. A. Turpee, an amateur wireless operator, living on a farm seven miles from here, sent an "S. O. S." call over his private wire to a drug store clerk in town and had his order promptly filled.

To Whitney Warren, a well-known American architect who has given himself whole-heartedly to the cause of the allies, comes the flattering offer of the task of restoring the beautiful buildings of the University of Louvain, which were destroyed in 1914. If he accepts the appointment he can doubtless find many rich Americans who would like to contribute to this great work of reconstruction.

Be Careful And Systematic.

People who pay their bills by check get a reputation for being careful and systematic in their business dealings. Such a reputation means much in the establishment of credit. It costs no more to pay your money out by check than it does to use the hard cash, and you have the advantage of having it in a place that is absolutely safe.

To have money in the bank is of itself a valuable asset in the establishment of credit. And it is possible to practically everyone without one cent of cost. It takes no more money to do business by the checking method than it does by the cash-in-hand method.

We invite you to open a checking account with us. We will help you to make your account a real convenience
