ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS for the School of Engineering, as well as for the College of Arts and Sciences, will be held in the Civil Engineering Building, Homewood, Monday-Saturday, June 20-25, 1921, beginning at 9 a. m. each day, under the auspices of the College Entrance Examinations Board.

OPENS NEW ADDITION TO STORE

J. Ed Nichols, a prominent Main street merchant, who has been enlarging hsi store by adding a 35-foot addition in the rear, opened the new section for business last Saturday.

The new addition has greatly added to the attractiveness of the store and it will probably be a business builder.

Mr. Nichols has added to his store new lines of goods to which he expects to make additions from time to time.

Some of the new goods include women's ready made apparel and Ladies' and Men's oxfords.

Before long Mr. Nichols expects to remove about 10 feet from the front of his building to conform with the new Main street building lines and will at that time put in up-to-date display windows which will greatly enhance the looks of his store.

WEATHER REPORT

The sunshiny week just closed was the most favorable of the crop season to date. It was exceptionally favorable for plant growth, and with the drying out of the soil farming operations made excellent headway. The warm wave that began on the 21st terminated on the 23rd with severe thunder-showers, which gave light rain, and in some localities hail.

Wheat has improved in all sections; though rusted over the central and eastern portions, it is now in good condition generally; heading is beginning in western Maryland, and continues over the remainder of the section. Rye and oats remain in good to excellent condition; rye has headed and on the Eastern Shore it is in bloom; oats are making good growth, and in Garrett County are 6 inchs high.

Corn planting was resumed, and has progressed rapidly. From 75 to 90 per cent. of the corn to be planted is now in the ground. Early-planted corn is coming up generally, although some replanting has been necessary on low ground.

Early potatoes are in good condition and growing nicely. Peas continue to bloom in the western and northern counties, and are maturing in the southern counties. Truck and gardens have improved and are in fair to good condition.

Pastures are good to excellent.

Harvesting of strawberries continues in the southern, and has advanced to the central counties; they are ripening in the northern, and blooming in the western counties. The sunshiny week caused a marked improvment in strawberries.

Setting out of tobacco plants continues, and setting out of tomato and sweet potato plants has begun.

ARE THE JAPANESE REALLY EFFICIENT?

Not If You Judge Them By Their Telephones, Says Julian Street

Although the Western World has begun to take for granted that the Japanese have reached an enviable position in the world because of an alleged efficiency in all matters, a close inspection of actual facts shows up the Jap as almost childish. Writing for McClure's Magazine in an article entitled, "Are the Japanese Efficient?" Julian Street, noted traveler and writer, gives many instances of stupid Japanese inefficiency, particularly as to telegraphs, telephones and transportation.

"Tokyo, with a transportation problem which ought easily to be solved, has utterly inadequate street car service," says Mr. Street. "The rush hour there is only saved from being as terrible as the rush hour in New York by the lack of subterranean features.

"But it is in all matters having to do with communications that Japanese inefficiency is most strikingly brought to the notice of strangers. The postal service is poor, the cable service is expensive and absurdly slow (when I was in Japan it took about ten days to cable to America and get an answer back), and the telephone service is unbelievably awful. All these, like the railroads, are owned and operated by the Government

"It is like opera bouffe. Though the demand for new telephones far exceeds the supply, the government makes no appreciable effort to remedy the situation. Every year an absurdly small number of lines is added to the existing system. These are assigned by lot among those who have applied for them. Thus, if a man be lucky in the draw, he may get a telephone within two or three years. But I know one gentleman in Tokyo who was not lucky in the draw. At the ripe age of sixty-seven he applied to the government for an addition office telephone. The instrument was installed shortly after he had celebrated his eightieth birthday. Long may he live to use it!

"If one be in a burry to have a telephone put in, one does not apply to the authorities, but attacks the problem in a manner more direct—either through a telephone broker or through advertising. Thus one can get in contact with a person wishing to sell an installation and a number. The number must, however, be in the exchange serving the district in which the telephone is to be placed.

"Though this is a very expensive method, it is the one usually employed in Tokyo and other large cities. A telephone for the business district of the capital may cost as much as twelve hundred dollars, but in a residence district it will be considerably cheaper—five hundred dollars or less.

"A curious detail of this business is that low numbers bring the highest price in the open market. This, I was informed, is because green operators, in process of being broken in, sit at that end of the central switchboard at which the high numbers invariably occur, thus guaranteeing the owners of high numbers a grade of service calculated to drive them to the madhouse."

Almost Had It.

One of the Terre Haute ward schools was having a contest in seeing which children could learn the airs of a number of standard songs so they could tell their names when they heard a few bars of the melody played.

After "Home, Sweet Home" and "Old Black Joe" had been played several times the teacher put on the record "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms." It was played a few minutes and she began to look expectantly at the children.

Then a fair little youngster looked triumphantly up from the list of songs he had in his hand. "Oh, it's that believe me in tears all about your charms," he hazarded.—Indianapolis News.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists. 75c.

Among Other New Underthings

AMONG other new underthings that have been presented this season, there appears an innovation in petticockers. This somewhat startling development of a familiar garment never fails to focus attention when brought to notice and to provoke a question—"why the ruffles?" In them, wide pantaloons, with fullness gathered in at the sides to a yoke that fits smoothly about the hips, support row after row of narrow ruffles. These ruffles do not extend entirely round the legs. They have a single purpose and fulfill it to the entire satisfaction of very thin women. This garment should be made of light-weight wash satin or silk. The many ruffles add almost nothing to its weight and prove the best possible means for helping out a figure whose slenderness needs filling out.

In night clothes, a marked new feature is revealed in the use of many colors for both night dresses and pajama suits. Pajamas look as if they might have come directly from China and Japan—and they employ crepe de chine and thin printed silks, usually combining a figured silk in the coat and plain silk in the pants, using the plain silk to border the coat. Occasionally they are made entirely of figured silk with a plain color used in borders of the coat and to finish the pants' legs. There is a wide range of colors to choose from and these garments are adapted for traveling.

Night dresses are made in plain colors and in deeper shades of color than we are accustomed to seeing, as turquoise blue, purple, rose. Crepe de chine is the favored material for them. But these deeper colors have not reached a point of popularity where they can be classed as rivals of white and pink. In bath robes there are some new models that are very attractive. They are made of ratine, cut in kimono style, but gracefully draped. Even the ordinary cotton crepe kimonos are shirred across the front and back, at the waistline, and a very graceful sleeve drapery results.

Lightnin' Bill Jones' Clothes For Near East, Jackie Coogan Helping

Stage stars are "bundling up their bundles." When Near East Relief issued its appeal for discarded clothing to distribute among the destitute in Western Asia John Drew, chairman of the Near East Relief National Theatrical Committee, at once got busy, and as a result it is expected that at least 1,000,000 pounds of clothing will be given by the people of the stage and screen world alone.

"Certainly," said Bill Jones, whose name off the stage is Frank Bacon, "certainly I want to do something for those poor folk out in the Near East. I've got a lot of extra clothes at the house, and you can bet I'll 'bundle up a bundle' of old clothes—and some new ones, too—and send them parcel post to Near East Relief."

Then Mr. Bacon, whose play, "Lightnin'," has run over 2,000 times in a single theater in New York city, took down from the hook in his dressing room the old familiar suit he wears in the character of Bill Jones. "I might even send them this," said the star. As a result of this suggestion the "Bill Jones" suit will be auctioned off at a big affair in New York and the proceeds used to purchase clothing for the sufferers in Western Asia.

Little Jackie Coogan, who burst into fame as "The Kid" in the latest Charlie Chaplin film, saw a photograph of a little Armenian orphan boy and very promptly said that he'd like to send some clothes over there to those "poor kiddies."

"I've got a lot of clothes, and I can only wear one suit at a time," said Jackie. Jackie's bundle, which has already been received by Near East Relief, at 1 Madison avenue, New York city, was bigger than Jackie himself.

Brigadier General J. Leslie Kincaid, state chairman of Near East Relief, is hoping that the people generally all around the state will follow the example of these stars of screen and stage and at once make up a bundle of their spare clothes to send to the Near East.
