CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAM HAS BEEN EXCELLENT!

Opening Day's Program Was the Best Entire Day Program Given in Nine Years of Chautaqua in Denton—Nayphe Carried Audience With Him—Fred Dale Wood Delivered Fine Lecture Monday Evening—Others Were Splendid

NOT ONE POOR NUMBER ON ENTIRE PROGRAM

This past week has witnessed one of the best Chautauqua programs that has ever been offered to Denton. The people who purchased season tickets have had their highest expectations fulfilled, and have gone away from each session feeling that their money had not been wasted.

Not all of the entertainments pleased all of the people. That is to be expected of any community of people, where interests are varied. But all the entertainments pleased some of the people and some of them pleased all the people.

The week's program opened on Saturday afternoon with an address by the temporary superintendent, Mr. A. F. Serle who was in charge until Sunday, when Prof. G. A. Rossweiler of Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa., took charge in place of Mrs. M. S. Munro, who had been scheduled. The lecture was followed by a concert by the Eckhoff Colafemina Company, consisting of soprano, tenor, flutist and pianist. The evening program they presented was even more pleasing than that of the afternoon.

Nothing could be more unique and interesting than the lecture of Julius Caesar Nayphe on Saturday evening. Many expressed the opinion that this one feature was worth the entire cost of the season ticket. Mr. Nayphe, born in Athens, grew up in Palestine, amid the scenes familiar through the Bible. His education was completed at Harvard University, and he has since become an American citizen.

The lecture was on the order of a pageant, with exquisite scenery of the most intricate woven tapestries. Vivid descriptions, given in a most delightfully, witty way, brought strange pictures before one's eyes, of the land where Christ walked, talked and taught and the customs He knew.

Six young ladies from Denton aided Mr. Nayphe in his pageant, wearing beautiful Oriental garments, some of which were very old and costly. The wedding outfit worn by one young lady was worth several thousand dollars, as the ornaments and necklaces were made of hundreds of small solid gold coins. The entire display of tapestries and costumes is valued at $10,000.

Sunday evening a union meeting of all Protestant churches was held in the tent, with the Rev. Mr. V. E. Hills in charge, and the Rev. Mr. L. K. Ziegler and the Rev. Mr. J. A. Dudley participating.

The concert company of Saturday gave several sacred selections and the Denton Choral Club sang two anthems. Following this Mr. Nayphe gave an exposition of the 23d Psalm, explaining the phrases which to us have seemed to be figures of speech, which when explained, were found to be literally as written. It was a most impressive and beautiful sermon and was enjoyed by the large audience which filled the brown tent.

Monday's program presented, in the afternoon, the first of two lectures on "Jack and Jill" by the superintendent, followed by a delightful entertainment by the Hoyt Sisters. Small wonder that our boys in France enjoyed them.

With the songs, dances and monologues, they gave a varied and entertaining program. Mr. Wilhelm, the pianist, did creditable work as soloist and accompanist.

In the evening the Hoyt sisters again gave a mighty clever performance, followed by a lecture by Mr. Fred Dale Wood. Mr. Wood, scheduled for Thursday afternoon, substituted for Dr. Carolyn E. Geisel, who is very ill, and about to undergo an operation. While we regretted exceedingly that Dr. Geisel could not be with us, it seems to be the general opinion that the substitute was a mighty good one. The lecture centered on the subject of "Wishing and Wanting."

The second lecture on Jack and Jill was given Tuesday afternoon. These two lectures were an urgent appeal to the girls of the country to keep up the moral standards of both the boys and girls.

This lecture was followed by an entertainment given by the Howell Concert Trio, who also appeared in the evening. These artists, contraito, baritone and violinist, gave an excellent program and were much enjoyed.

The lecturer of the evening was Captain Arthur Hunt Shoot, of Canada, who spoke in place of J. Hugh Edwards, M. P. Mr. Edwards has been delayed in leaving Wales and will not arrive for some time. Captain Shoot proved an able substitute, and discoursed in an interesting, instructive maner on "The New Canada and the Young America." If all Americans believed in America as much as the speaker does, there would be no need to fear of strikes, bolshevism, Socialism, and all the other isms which are now flooding this great country of ours.

Following the concert given by members of the opera company on Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Jacob M. Rubin spoke. Mr. Rubin was a Socialist who went to Russia when the Lenine-Trotsky regime began, expecting to find Utopia. His dreams were shattered, his mind set aghast at the practical workings of his theories, and he returned an AMERICAN. His lecture proved intensely interesting and made clear many points on the Russian and Socialist problems.

"The Bohemian Girl" is a favorite opera and it won its way to the hearts of its hearers in Denton. Many people knew some of the melodies without knowing their setting. Now they can enjoy them all the more. The opera was well presented by the company of 25 and the tent was filled.

The Thursday afternoon program had as a lecture the dramatic monologue "Kindling," given by the superintendent. This monologue shows the relation between poverty and crime, and the reaction against untoward circumstances. The musical entertainment which followed was given by Miss Doris Carpenter and Miss Mary McShane, accompanied by E. S. Fulcomer, all of the company appearing in "It Pays to Advertise."

This clever plya was the evening performance. It was successfully presented, and drew much laughter and applause from the large audience.

Friday's program is a full one, including as it does the Junior Chautauqua pageant, "Junior Holidays," John Mangels, the "Hoop Juggling Jester," and an extra lecture by Fred Dale Wood. This is the lecture which was scheduled originally for Thursday afternoon.

The evening's entertainment, the last of the week, will be furnished by Ned Woodman, a famous cartoonist.

And so Chautauqua closes, and the big brown tent will move on to the next town. But memories of Mr. Nayphes lecture will persist whenever we read of Palestine; and the clever little "How'd you like to spoon with me," will go running through our minds for days to come; and the ideas we gleaned from the lectures will develop into something big later on. And so not one thing will be lost, but after we have had time to digest all we have heard and seen, it will be filed away in our mental pigeon holes for future reference.

JUNIOR CHAUTAUQUANS HAVE PLAY FRIDAY P. M.

Junior Chautauqua has been held every afternoon in the tent immediately upon the close of the program. Games, stories, boys' stunts and of course Junior Town Meeting have occupied most of the time. As usual we have our mayor—Deford Beasley, Clerk—Addie Nettle, and our Law and Order, and Service Commissioners. Perhaps the feature of Chautauqua in the minds of the Juniors is the rehearsals of the play which this year is called "Junior Holidays." You older people are going to be surprised when you see what actors and actresses you have growing up among you.

The aim of Chautauqua is to leave some constructive work in each town it visits. Our Juniors also take up this idea, and the Service Commission- with the aid of the Jolly Juniors are planning a Vacant Lot Clean-up Campaign. Our motto is "Give and Get Service."

FARMERS CLUB

On Saturday evening beginning at 8:30 p. m. in the Court House, the farmers club will be entertained by E. P. Walls, of Talbot county, with a motion picture outfit.

Mr. Walls will show three reels of instructive scenes and one reel of comedy.

All farmers and their wives are welcome.

SENIORS ATTENDED BRETHREN CHURCH

Baccalaureate Sermon Was Delivered by the Rev. L. K. Zeigler

LARGE CONGREGATION

The Baccalaurate Service for the class of 1921 of Caroline High School was held last Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the Church of the Brethren.

The auditorium and Sunday School room were crowded, even standing room being at a premium.

The class and faculty assembled at the home of one of the members and marched in a body to the church and to the seats reserved for them.

The service was opened by congregational singing of "Holy, Holy, Holy," followed by the devotional services by the Rev. Mr. V. E. Hills, who read the 8th Psalm, followed by a prayer. The congregation then rose and sang America.

The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Levi K. Zeigler, pastor of the Brethren Church, who took for his txt Philippians 3:14 and his subject was "I Press On."

The Rev. Mr. J. A. Dudley led in prayer. The congregation sang "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," followed by the benediction by the Rev. Mr. H. B. Thomas.

The sermon delivered by Rev. Mr. Zeigler follows:

The words of the text make a helpful life motto. Set your stakes far out and work up to them. The great missionary apostle and author of these words is a marvelous example of this. In the beginning of this chapter he gives his autobiography in condensed form, but he humbly admits that in spite of his accomplishments as a loyal son of Abraham, he is nevertheless not yet perfect. He was ever a learner. As an exponent of the message of the Cross, none equals him. His zeal is measured by his sacrifice and devotion. He could have had honor and power and influence no doubt, as a member of the Sanhedrin, but he chose rather to be the great minister and missionary that he was. He believed intensely in the cause that he represented. He "became all things to all men that he might by all means save some." He endured shipwrecks, imprisonments, scourgings, and other perils, but he kept true to his motto, "I press on." Finally, after a well rounded out life of faithful, useful service, he suffered martyrdom, but before he went, he said he had "fought a good fight" and had won.

There are some things we must unlearn. We have accustomed ourselves to place a premium upon material values. There are the moral and spiritual values which can not be reckoned by dollars and cents. The emphasis today must be put where the great Paul and Jesus Christ put it—upon manhood and womanhood, and service, and the "Golden Rule." It is more noble to be honest, and honorable, and useful, and equitable than to be wealthy without these. And whatever other factors we may name as aids in reaching life's goals, these moral qualities will have a tremendous influence. Indeed they are the principal things. It is not what we know, for "whether there be knowledge it shall vanish away," but it is what we are and can do that counts.

It is apparent that "no man lives unto himself." Perhaps one of the first things to be impressed with as we stand on the threshold of life's day is that each of us has a special mission in life and that in the fulfillment of this mission we must do so in relation to our fellows and our God. We must be good members of society-at-large. Then we must be good citizens of our country, have a great love for our country—the best country—and for the colorful emblem that represents her. But the greatest of all privileges and blessings is to fear, honor, love and serve God our loving Heavenly Father. This is foundational.

On the other hand, as for the individual's relation to himself, all the good things that the state provides for his welfare, and that society affords for his pleasure and comfort, and all the blessing and grace of a kind Heavenly Father can not benefit him if he is not responsive to their appeal. Neither can he be of any more use to others than if he were a veritable pillor of stone, if he will not move out of the tracks of his selfish ambition and endeavor to help do the world's and Master's work.

I have cited the great apostle as an example of one whe "pressed on" against great odds, and have named a few essential moral and spiritual qualities, which should be in every individual's equipment. I have also noticed that one's endeavors to successfully reach life's goals are legitimate only so far as they do not infringe on the privileges and rights of other folks and as they do not dishon- or God.

There are three rules, which, if consistently observed, will assure success

PHOTOGRAPHER ADDS NEW EQUIPMENT

Photographer Bradley recently installed in his studio one of the most up-to-date lights for taking pictures, which enables him to make sittings any hour in the day or night with ease. The light is a Markley carbon light of 55000 candle power, and yet it is soft and does not hurt the eye in any way.

DENTON BASE BALL TEAM TO ORGANIZE

The Denton Base Ball team will organize next Monday evening, instead of Tuesday as was published in last week's American Union.

All players and patrons are invited to attend and help elect a manager. The meeting will be held at the office of the Register of Wills in the Court House.

Much enthusiasm has been shown at the games played so far this year and it is the hope of the team that a large number of fans will be present.

If a good team can be organized here it will be a big help to enlivening the town and bringing business here which would go elsewhere.

Show your heart is in the right place and be on hand Monday evening and back up the boys that are putting the base ball spirit over.

HOWARD MELVIN DIES IN DRUG STORE

Had Attack of Indigestion and Dies as He Is About to Receive Relief

EDITOR DENTON JOURNAL

Mr. Howard Melvin, senior partner of the firm of Melvin & Johnson, publishers of the Denton Journal, died in the Denton Drug Store a few minutes after nine Wednesday evening.

Mr. Melvin who has not been in the best of health for a number of years called Dr. Shew of the Denton Drug Store on the phone a little before nine, saying that he had a bad attack of indigestion and asking him if he could give him something to relieve it. Dr. Shew hurriedly mixed a remedy and took it to Mr. Melvin's home where he found Mr. Melvin and another gentleman. As Dr. Shew turned to go, the friend said he would have to go, and Mr. Melvin put on his coat and went to the drug store. He sat down for a few minutes and then asked if he could secure some remedy which he could take home for just such attacks as this. Dr. Shew went to wrap up the package, and Mr. Melvin followed him to the front of the store, and when close to the counter simply sank to the floor, dead.

Word was sent to the Chautauqua tent for Mrs. Melvin, and she hurried to her husband's side. The body was taken to his late home a few doors away on Main Street.

Mr. Melvin was 58 years old, the son of Thomas and Mary Francis (nee Fisher) Melvin, and was a native of this county. Twenty years ago he married Miss Mary Crouse, daughter of Professor Crouse. Three children with the widow survive him: Howard, who is attending Washington College, Mary, who returned last week from Swarthmore College, and Malcolm, at home.

Mr. Melvin has been connected with the Denton Journal since young manhood. Early in the eighties' he, with two brothers, George T., deceased and James F., now of Idaho, bought the paper. Mr. Melvin ran it for several years by himself. In 1888 Mr. Elon S. Hobbs purchased an interest in the paper, and this partnership continued until 1893 when Messrs. Z. P. Steele and Benj. H. Johnson purchased a share. In 1901 the Denton Journal erected the brick building in which they are housed at present Mr. Steele left the firm in 1902 and the firm has continued as Melvin and Johnson ever since, Mr. Melvin assuming most of the editorial duties.

During Cleveland's second administration Mr. Melvin served a term as postmaster in the local postoffice.

At the time of going to press the date and time for the funeral services had not been announced.

The sudden death of Mr. Melvin comes as a great blow to Denton and the entire community. After so many years as a part of the town life, known and admired by everyone, it is hard to think of him as gone from us. The tender sympathy of the community goes out to Mrs. Melvin and her children as they are bowed in sorrow.

LOCAL BARBER DIED SATURDAY AT HOME

Mr. Wm. Edward Boone, a very highly respected and energetic business man of Denton, died at his late home on Franklin Street, Saturday, June 4th, after a short illness. Mr. Boone, through his trade as a barber, had gained many friends, old and young, and was known to all for his loyalty and friendly manner in his business and other walks of life.

Mr. Boone was the son of the late Joseph and Martha Boone of Talbot Co. and was born on a farm near Easton 43 years ago. After years on the farm he moved to Trappe where he learned his trade as a barber, later conducting a tonsorial parlor in Ridgely, Md. He moved from there to Denton nine years ago to engage in the same business, which he served at until his untimely death.

Mr. Boone married Mis Ella Wiloughby, daughter of Thos. and Sarah Wiloughby, of Williston, Md., who survives him. He also leaves a son Aubrey, aged 14 4years.

The funeral was held at his late home on Franklin street, Monday, June 6th, at 2 p. m. The services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. V. E. Hills and interment in Denton Cemetery. Turkey Dinner to Seniors

The Senior Class of Caroline High were delightfuly entertained by Miss Grace Rutter at a turkey dinner at the Brick Hotel, last Sunday, following the Baccalaureate Sermon. All the "fixings" which go with a turkey dinner were in prominence.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS HELD COMMENCEMENT

For the first time in the educatoinal history of Caroline County a class is this year being graduated from the elementary schools. There are in all about 240 pupils completing the seventh grade course in the county and receiving the certificate which entitles them to entrance to any high school in the state without having to take an examination. Elementary Commencement exercises are being held at six centers in the county—Henderson, Greensboro, Ridgely, Denton, Federalsburg and Preston. The graduating exercises of the Denton group of schools were held in Bryant's Theater, Wednesday evening at seven o'clock. These exercises, which were in charge of Mrs. Rairigh, teacher of the seventh grade, were simple, as befitted the youthful graduates, but were very pretty. Mary Farr, a pupil of Concord School, read an essay on the advantages of farm life, which was the joint composition of all pupils of the rural graduating class.

George McDaniel, of the Denton School, read a paper which was a brief history of the wars of the United States. This composition was the product of the combined efforts of the Denton seventh grade.

Music was furnished by the orchestra and by the graduating class themselves in singing their class song.

The a ddress was delivered by Mr. W. J. Holloway, State Supervisor of Rural Schools, who made a strong plea for better conditions for education in the elementary schools. These conditions he outlined as necessitating a well-trained, competent teacher, good buildings and equiqment, regular attendance, and the support of an enlightened, progressive community.

Certificates were presented by Miss Thompson, Elementary Supervisor, in behalf of the Board of Education. Fifty-nine certificates were given out to this group, distributed as follows: Denton School, 37; Cedar Grove, 2; Garey's, 1; Burrsville, 6; Oaks, 2; Hickman, 2; Williamson"s, 1; Concord 1; Williston, 2; Howards, 2; Central, 3.

SHAKESPEARE REVIEW COMPILED BY SENIORS

It is the general custom of all graduating classes to leave something to the future high school students. Sometimes it is the copy of a famous picture, a rare book for the library, or some piece of sculpture.

The Class of '21 of Caroline High School have left a book, not a "rare book," but a book born out of the love of their hearts and the work of their brains and dedicated it to the future classes of the school. These Seniors have compiled a Shakespeare Review, covering the life of William Shakespeare, accounts of the stage, the theatre and London, and a review of some of his most widely known plays.

This is a very creditable attempt and the Seniors are to be congratulated on their work. The Review is printed in pamphlet form and contains 64 pages with cover. The cover is of dark blue with gold lettering, the class colors of this year's graduating class. The editor-in-chief of the work was W. Bateman Draper, who was assisted by Miss Margaret S. Rathell and Kenneth A. Knowles. A number of extra copies were printed and can be purchased at a nominal sum from any of the members of the Class of '21.

CLASS OF 1921 NOW ALUMNI

19 Boys and Girls Leave Local High School to Conquer Larger Worlds

PLAY INSTEAD OF LECTURE

Another class of Carolnie High School has passed through its door and is now known as its alumni. The final service which made this change was the commencement program held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning in the chautauqua tent.

The platform was very prettily decorated with a back ground of trellis covered with vines and roses connected with an arch, through whcih a rising sun spread forth its rays. The front of the platform was covered with vases of roses, daisies and other flowers, making the setting for the commencement program one of the prettiest seen in Denton.

When the curtain rose the class was seated in a semi-circle on the platform.

The commencement play "The Sweet Girl Graduate," which was given this year instead of having a lecture, was very cleverly played, Miss Mildred Fluharty taking the part of the graduate. The gist of the play was that since she was a graduate she knew all that there was to be known, and when the sages offered advice she threw it aside as unneeded, until along came Father Time who she listened to and asked for his help and advice through life. Father time was followed by Cupid who showed her that there was something far greater to life than being a graduate, and brought love to her and the young man. Thus the skit closed in the time honored way of the hero and heroine living happily ever after.

The diplomas were presented to the class by Professor Norstedt, after a few remarks.

The Denton Choral Club did splendid work which was much appreciated, as shown by the hearty applause accorded their numbers.

The program follows:

Song of the Seasons by the Choral Club.

Invocation, Rev. J. A. Dudley.

President's Address, Layman J. Redden.

Commencement play, "The Sweet Girl Graduate."

Carry Me Back to Old Virginny, by the Choral Club.

Valdeictory, M. Hazel Brown.

Cradle Song, Pauline Nichols.

Presentation of Diplomas, Faculty.

Sextette from "Lucia," Choral Club

Benediction, Rev. V. E. Hills.

CAROLINE HIGH NINE WON ITS LAST GAME

The last baseball game of the local school season was held last Friday at Federalsburg, when the Caroline boys gave a return game on their opponents' field.

The Friday previous Federalsburg visited the local team and were beaten to the tune of 8—4.

As Friday's game was the last of the season, the local nine wanted to win it, and did their best to prevent Federalsburg from taking it away from them.

Brown, who pitched for Denton, was on the job every minute, never once losing control or gtting rattled, which was not the case with the Federalsburg moundsman, who lost his head several times.

The fielding by our boys was not up to standard, though Pentz caught two flies, putting two men out in one inning.

The most exciting part of the game occurred when 2 Denton men were on base, and Carter hit to right safely, though the ball rolled foul. The umpire told him at first that it was safe, and he made home before the ball was returned to the diamond. After the runs were scored, the umpire changed his decsiion.

The game stood in Denton's favor from the beginning, they having scored twice in the first, while Federalsburg scored only one run in the first. The final score was 6—4.

At least ten auto loads of fans from Denton witnessed the final match and helped the boys bring home the bacon.
