CHIP OFF HAMMER GOES THROUGH EYE

William Cohee Nearly Lost the Sight of an Eye While at Work Friday

REPORTED RESTING EASY

One never knows when he is likely to be hurt, seriously or only slightly, and it behooves every one to be as careful as possible.

Last Friday afternoon, while engaged in his regular occupation at the Den-Mar Mobile Co., William Cohee was seriously injured, not from running machinery, nor from taking chances which were dangerous, but from a very simple thing—while using a hammer to drive a steel gear on a shaft, a piece of steel flew off the head of the hammer and flew in his eye, going entirely through both sides of the eyeball and lodging below it.

He was rushed to Baltimore to the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital in the evening train, accompanied by Mr. Finn, also an employee.

An operation was performed Sunday but was unsuccessful in securing the piece of steel, as the doctors discovered it was lodged back of the eyeball, and the only way to get it would be to remove the eye. As Mr. Cohee is suffering very little from the injury, the doctors are of the opinion that it will be unnecessary to remove the steel, and that he will have partial use of the eye. Late reports are to the effect that he is resting comfortably.

SERVICE MEN ARE TO BE KEPT INFORMED

One of the official acts of General John J. Pershing upon assuming his new duties as Chief of Staff of the Army on July 1, was the issueing on that day of an order establishing contact between the War Department and the Bureau of War Risk Insurance for the purpose of keeping former service men informed of their rights under the War Risk Act and aiding them in securing these benefits through the cooperation of the personnel of the Army with the Bureau of War Risk Insurance.

This order, General Order No. 27, issues the following instructions to practically the entire Army:

Assistance for ex-service men in their relations with the Bureau of War Risk Insurance.—1. It is the purpose of the War Department, acting through its available personnel, to assist ex-service men in every possible way in securing contact with the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, thus enabling them without delay to renew or convert their insurance, to secure medical or dental treatment, hospitalization or vocational training, or to present their claims for compensation.

2. The obligation is imposed upon all personnel adjustments throughout the Army, recruiting officers and regular officers on duty with theNational Guard and organized Reserves, to aid their less fortunate ccomrades. Such officers will at once familiarize themselves with the orders and circulars relating to the War Risk Insurance Bureau, in so far as these instructions refer to renewal or conversion of insurance, compensation, medical or dental treatment, hospitalization and vocational training so that intelligent assistance and advice may be afforded ex-service men in regard to their relations with the Bureau.

3. The officers mentioned will obtain without delay direct from the War Risk Insurance Bureau, a supply of all blank forms needed by ex-service men in their contact with this Bureau.

4. Upon application from ex-soldiers, the officers mentioned in paragraph 2, will furnish blank forms, will assist in the preparation of applications, will carefully examine all papers or instructions on the forms in question and will themselves promptly forward the completed applications or statements directly to the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.

Warnings have been sent out from College Park, Md., to all those interested that hog cholera has been found in the drove of hogs owned by J. T. Lister of near Denton. Treatment was given to 15 shoats and 4 sows and we are glad to report that no more of Mr. Lister's hogs have died since the treatment.

Any persons owning hogs should report at once if any disease is found. Such report should be made to W. Collins Thomas, county agent, or to the county veterinary at Ridgely.

There will be a benefit entertainment by the members of the Methodist Protestant Church for the Aged Peoples Home, Westminster, Md., on the lawn of Mr. M. Bates Stephens, next Thursday evening. A silver offering will be taken and refreshments will be sold after the prgoram. All are cordially invited.

MILK SITUATION IS CLEARING SLIGHTLY

This is a rather critical time for many of the dairymen of the county. Quite a number of things have had a hand in making the milk situation as it is. Among these are lack of purchasing power in foreign markets for condensed milk, as well as a decrease in purchasing power for whole milk in home markets, coupled up with an increased production due to the attractive prices for whole milk which obtained a few months back.

It is reported many farmers are feeding milk to their pigs rather than accept the low prices offered by some of the local milk concerns. They feel that this is more profitable than marketing it otherwise.

For a long time farmers have hauled their milk to creameries, cooling stations and condenseries and have accepted with little question and complaint the weights, test and price which the dealer saw fit to give them. When the farmer goes to buy, this procedure is reversed equally to his disadvantage.

The main thing which brought the local situation to a climax was the closing down of the cooling stations at uQeen Anne and Goldsboro without a moment's notice. One morning the milk was accepted as usual and the next the farmers were faced with a closed door.

Since that time—several weeks ago—the Queen Anne shippers have organized 100 per cent. strong in the Inter State Milk Producers Association, of Philadelphia, and have had their cooling station reopened. On Wednesday evening of this week a meeting was held at Goldsboro which was attended by at least 200 farmers. It is probable that 100 per cent. of the shippers around Goldsboro will have joined the Inter-State Association before the end of the week. By so doing they will be in a better position to have some say in regard to marketing their product which costs them no little amount of time, labor, money and worry to produce.

BAND IS GIVING WEEKLY CONCERTS

Several Thursday evenings past those persons who have gone for the evening all have been entertained by Elijah Truxton's colored band which has played a number of selections in front of the Denton Drug Company.

The music has been greatly enjoyed judging from the large audiences which have stood around to listen.

The band consists of thirteen pieces and is lead by a cornet played by Elijah Truxton and consists of three cornets, two clarinets, two altos, two trombones, two drums, a base Hirnadna horn. The majority of the members of the band have only been playing for seven months, but they go at it like veterans.

It is possible that the band will continue to favor the town with selections on Thursdayevening and it is hoped that such is the case as that would furnish a little diversion for the residents on that evening.

FELL DOWN STAIRS IS BADLY BRUISED

Monday evening an accident happened in the home of Mr. A. E. Miller which might have been very serious, Mrs. Miller, who is a cripple, started down the steps from the second to the first floor of the house, whether she caught her foot on the step or lost her balance or what she does not know other than that she was picked up at the bottom of the steps in a much bruised condition. A large bump immediately appeared on her forehead and from that and other bruises sustained it is thought that she must have doubled right over and rolled down the steps. The attending doctor is of the opinion, however, that there are no internal injuries and that a little rest will restore Mrs. Miller to good health.

GIRLS TO CAMP OUT LAST WEEK IN JULY

A Girls' Camp for the benefit of the members of the Caroline County Girls' Club is being planned to be held at Greens' Point Rest, Dorchester Co. the last week of July.

The aim of the camp is to develop leaders in club work, hence Community leaders; to teach the girls in their natural environment amusements, games, etc., which can be carried back to their communities; to aid in the development of the fourfold or 4-H Life training of the Head, Hand, Heart, and Health; to broaden the vision of the girls by coming in contact with girls from other communities. And with it all, to give them some recreation along with their club work of the year.

The mothers of the girls are invited to attend this camp also, and a number of them have planned to go. Thirty-seven girls have already returned their cards saying that they are going to be able to go.

Greens' Point Rest is right on the river with a good bathing beach, bath houses, pavilion with seats and electrically lighted, where programs may be held, a big pine grove for shade and a good-sized house for sleeping quarters.

A splendid program is being arranged. Miss Jones, assistant girl club leader, Miss Venia M. Keilar, state home demonstration agent, Mrs. Bell and Miss Knight, district agents all from the University, College Park, Md., will nave parts on the program.

The only difficulty we are having is finding enough ways to get these girls all down there. Any kindhearter Dentonian who would be willing to take a half day off and help get some of these girls to camp, please notify me. It would be a four-fold favor—to the girl, to your county, to yourself, and time.

Very truly yours,
EDITH G. NORMAN

KENT AND SUSSEX FAIR AT HARRINGTON JULY 26

The Kent and Sussex Fair Association at Harrington, Del., is again the first to open its annual week of amusement, entertainment and instruction to the people of the peninsula.

The opening date is July 26th, and, as usual, the fair offers a fine racing list and abundance of other sports as a good big list of entries of farm and household exhibits.

Last year the Harrington Fair was conceded to be one of the best on the circuit, despite the fact that it was the youngegst of the group. This year's fair gives promise of being much better, particularly in t he matter of exhibits.

This fair is centrally located and convenient to the people of Caroline County, which gave a large attendance last year and will give a larger one this year. You can meet your friends at the Harrington Fair.

TUCKAHOE NECK

A very good audience heard Mr. Chan at Harris Chapel from three to four o'clock last Sunday afternoon. Mr. Chan is a Chinaman who came to this country about seven years ago, and who is studying in Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia. When he has completed his course he will return to China as a minister and medical doctor. A collection was taken for the young man. He gave a splendid description of Chinese customs. Those who heard him went away wiser concerning conditions in China.

Messr. D. Clopper and H. B. Wright took a trip to Oxford, Easton and Wye last Friday and located an ideal spot for their boys' camping trip, which will take place after the threshing season is over.

Several ladies from this vicinity attended a meeting of the Maryland League of Women Voters at the home of Mrs. Beckwith on Saturday, July 2. We are glad of the opportunity to become more intelligent voters.

Our first good shower of rain came on Monday, July 11. It was truly refreshing.

The sale of E. C. Anthony was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira H. Samis entertained his mother, brother, sisters, and families last Sunday by taking dinner to Oxford after the morning church service.

Denton vs. Bridgetown

The Denton Base Ball Club went to Bridgetown Saturday and were defeated by a score of four to nothing. The Denton Club was crippled by having Neal, Newcomer and Merriken out of the game, and the grounds were very rough and sandy and our boys could not handle themselves on the heavy diamond.

LOCAL MERCHANTS GIVE SATISFACTION

While Mail Order Houses Get Money and Keep It—No Refunds or Exchanges

PLAY SAFE—BUY AT HOME

It probably has happened to you. Your father "whipped" you and then told you that "this hurts me worse than it does you, son."

So, in "whipping" you, we want to say that we feel the same as your father did.

Maybe this "whipping" isn't intended for you—it's aimed at folks who mistakingly patronize the Mail Order Octopus.

It's for the men and women who turn down local merchants in the futile quest of getting greater value than their money represents.

For years, your meerchants have been telling you about their goods. This has been done slowly and serially, in a plain, homely, matter-of-fact way, but aggressively and persistently and regularly and frequently.

Into this advertising they have thrown the benefit of their marketing experience, an experience based on the merchandise needs of the town, which they have gained through the years in which they have been in business here.

The whole fabric of their establishment rests on the patronage that you give them. Knowing this, they have gone into the market, carefully considering your individual wants and your family requirements and closed contracts to receive and pay for merchandise that they think you will buy as necessity arises.

The fact that you do buy from the Octopus is a great disappointment to them. They know that you have sent money out of town and that to the home town it is lost forever. They also know that on their shelves are goods far superior in quality to those you sent away for, and that in the end would have been a far better investment.

And so, indefinitely and endlessly, cross-purposes between you and the local merchants will continue as long as you let yourself be hoaxed by the catalogue houses. The business man steadfastly serves you with honest merchandise at a legitimate profit, most of which is spent in the community. The mail-order-pirate serves you with inferior merchandise and waxes rich on his sales. His earnings are spent in a far distant community.

The town merchant keeps everlastingly at you. The catalogue houses are persistent, too, but more adroit, inasmuch as their lurid publicity borders on false pretense, yet keeps within the pale of the law. Merchants of this community do not stoop to fraudulent means to get your business. Theirs is a fairer way of an open display of the goods and honest, cleanly advertising. From a logical standpoint there isn't any argument that favors the patronage of a mail-order-house, because its whole system is founded on humbuggery and human credulity, and the pulling power of clever misrepresentation.

Mail order purchasing is simply a speculation. Home-buying is an investment. Conservative people do not speculate. They want ample return for their money. It is this class that keeps the local stores going,, and it's the speculative class that keeps the stability or profit in the investment of mail-order-houses going. There is no stability or profit in the investment of catalogue buyers because they are not careful and reckon not on a substantial return for every penny of their outlay.

You can't propely indulge in the sentiment of home-building if you practice disloyalty to your town. And you are disloyal to it, if you send your money to the Octopus. For merchandise that is better and just as cheap is on sale at the stores of the town merchants.

In the matter of the sale of the real estate of George W. Bailey, deceased, Calvert C. Merriken, trustee, filed a report of sales and an order of ratification nisi was passed.

MR. STRAUGHN BUYS BULLOCK'S BARGAIN HOUSE

Another change in the business world of Denton took effect the middle of last week when Mr. N. C. Straughn purchased the store of Mr. C. H. Bullock, known as Bullock's Bargain House, on 6th Street, between Main and Gay.

Mr. Straughn is putting in a full line of groceries and will handle meats and also a small line of notions, but he will specialize on the grocery and meat department.

Mr. Straughn is an energetic man, and has been selling life insurance for the last two years, representing the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., and later the Reliance Insurance Co., of Pittsburgh in Queen Anne Co. Before taking up the insurance line. Mr. Straughn had been engaged in farming near Hillsboro and Queen Anne.

Mr. Straughn has fixed up the store considerably, giving it a coat of white paint on the outside and making other improvements. He will also keep a stock of green groceries. Business will be carried on on a strictly cash basis.

SPRING RAINS WERE HARD ON WHEAT CROPS

College Park, Md.,—Threshing operaitons which have been completed in some sections of the State and are in progress in others will give the farmers an opportunity to see themselves the effects of the heavy rainfall during the early part of May in reducing the yield of the crop, according to Professor J. E. Metzger, Specialist in Agronomy for the University of Maryland Experiment Station.

Recent investigations in this connection have disclosed the rather unsuspected fact that the comparatively dry years have been the best wheat producing years and that March and May, so far as rainfall is concerned, must be regarded as the critical months in the life of the growing wheat.

The average annual rainfall throughout Maryland ranges from a minimum of 34 inches to a maximum 52 inches. The largest wheat cropes, however, have been produced in years when the average annual rainfall was below 35 and when the rainfall during March and May was less than three inches.

The rainfall this year for May, as recorded at College Park, was 6.29 inches, and was heavy enough to cause a material reduction in the yield of the earlier maturing varieties, according to reports. The later maturing varities, however, were not seriously affected, because of the fact that the wet weather occurred during the first part of the month, and are consequently out-yielding the earlier varieties even in those sections of the State best adapted to the quick maturing kinds.

"This fact may induce many farmers to change over from an early to a late maturing variety," says Professor Metzger, "which would be unfortunate. The safst plan for a grower to follow is never to change from one variety to another without first securing full information as to its adaptability and probably performance under conditions in his section. Our investigations indicate that for the southern parts of the State the early maturing varieties succeed more frequently in producing high yields than do the later maturing kinds and that in the northern and western sections the reverse is true."

FALLS DOWN STAIRS WHEN GETTING A LIGHT

Early Monday morning, Mrs. J. R. Glidden, mother of Mrs. Edith G. Norman, county demonstrator, went to turn on a light at the head of the stairs at Mrs. Norman's home. The light is almost directly above the top step and due to the darkness, Mrs. Glidden took one step to many and fell down the first set of steps to the landing. Her back was hurt in the fall but it is the opinion of the doctor in charge that no internal injuries were received and that Mrs. Glidden will be able to be about in a week or so.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS VERY ACTIVE

The League of Women Voters, at their meeting on Saturday, enjoyed a most interesting address from Miss Engle, the State Organizer, and some of the many good things which she told are as follows:

After describing again the purposes of the League, she impressed the ladies with the extreme need for their becoming intelligent voters and to do this there is offered a program prepared by the Maryland State League, for a school for citizenshlp. This has been divided into four lectures:

The first one deals with the history of Maryland, the development of state government and the executive department.

The second one deals with the legislative department, the processes of legislation and the financial system.

The third, deals with the county government and departments, viz: Schools and hygiene.

The fourth lecture is to be concerning nominations and elections, political parties and their relations to the government, as well as their organization in Maryland.

These lectures will be held in this, the Third District, early in the fall. The course is open to all men who feel their instructions in citizenship is not sufficient for their casting an intelligent ballot. This came about because one of the ladies present remarked she had heard some gentlemen wishing they might have such an opportunity to inform themselves.

Miss Engl said that the second part of the work of the league is to unite women in work for needed legislation. That only by studying carefully the laws of the state of Maryland, and the conditions in the state can there be formulated a legislative program which can mean progress in the problems of vital importance to women. This program once adopted, all women must demand that it be written into law. By unity only can the women succeed.

The first bill desired to be taken up is the Shepard-Towner Bill and the second bill is provided for a State Department of Child Hygiene; also asking that this department administer the funds of the Shepard-Towner Bill.

The ladies elected Mrs. O. M. Higgnutt, of Williston, as delegate to the legislative meeting at Annapolis this week, and Mrs. D. W. Davis as alternate. When they make their reports, notice of which will be given in these columns, we suggest that every intelligent woman in the Third District will be paid for attending.

The slogan of the League is "Every Woman an Intelligent Voter"

WOMENS FEDERATION OFFICERS MET TUESDAY

Tuesday afternoon there was a meeting of the executive board of the County Federation of Women's Clubs in the offices of Mrs. Edith G. Norman County Demonstrator. It was decided that the next meeting would be held on August 18 at Choptank and will be in the form of entertaining, all persons attending are requested to take a picnic lunch and during the day bathing may be indulged in as there is a good beach at this point. A large attendance is requested.

Considerable enthusiasm is shown at these meetings of the united clubs and there is usually an attendance of about 200.

Daily Vacation Church School

The Daily Vacation Church School which is now in progress at the Church of the Brethren, started on Monday morning, at nine o'clock, with an attendance of twenty-five pupils. There are three classes, three teachers, and three assistants to care for the work.

The aim of the instruction is twofold: First, to give to the pupil a knowledge of the Bible, its form and its contents, its stories, its teachings, its principles for right living; and, second to present these stories, truths and principles in such a way that the child may appropriate them himself and make them a part of everyday living.

The school will continue this week and next.

Hand Cut Closing Window

Miss Margaret Pastorfield is suffering from a badly cut middle finger on her right hand, a result of closing a window during a recent storm. The window was cracked, and in lowering the sash in a hurry to keep the rain out, the sash slipped from her hands and dropped, the glass falling out and cutting her finger.

DENTON WINS THIRD GAME FROM PRESTON

With Wet Grounds, Playing Was Made Difficult—Score 19 to 14

PRESTON FOUGHT HARD

One of the hardest fought base ball games ever played on Denton grounds was staged here Wednesday between the Preston club and Denton.

Rain fell just about the time to start the game and made the outfield wet—which made the ball wet and sticky and helped to account for the lengthy score.

Brittingham started the game for Denton, but he was hit so hard that he was taken out and replaced by Johnson, who, while he was hit, managed to keep the hits scattered and held the Preston sluggers in check, while Mallonee for the visitors, was hit hard in the last three innings and Preston for the third successive time went down to defeat at the hands of the Denton club.

Followng is a detailed result of the game.

WEATHER REPORT

The week was warm, with a mean temperature about 3.5 degrees above normal. A hot wave prevailed from the 7th to the 10th. Temperatures were seasonable on the 6th, 11th and 12th. Thunder showers occurred in scattered localities on the 9th, and were general from the 10th to the 12th. Rainfall varied from moderate to heavy.

Growing crops improved during the week, having been benefited by the rains of the preceding week. The dry sunshiny weather prior to the 10th was favorable for the ripening and harvesting of grains, and for hay-making.

In Garrett and Alleghany Counties harvesting of wheat and rye has begun, and oats are ripening; in the other northern and also in the central counties wheat and rye are being thrashed and oats are being cut; in the southern counties thrashing of wheat and rye and harvesting of oats have been completed.

Corn shows improvement and is growing nicely. Cultivation continues in southern and eastern portions of the section. Corn is in good to excellent condition, and in western and north-central Maryland it is tasseling. Its height is 2 to 3 feet in southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore, 3 to 4 feet in north-central Maryland and in Washington and Alleghany Counties, and 4 to 6 feet in Garrett County.

Digging of early potatoes continues in the southern counties, and has begun over the remainder of the section except in Garrett County, where they are maturing. The yield is poor to fair. Some late potatoes were planted.

Pastures continue poor, though improving, except fair to good in western Maryland.

Trucks and gardens are now in good condition in the northern counties, and fair in the southern; early tomatoes are ripening in the southern counties and fruiting elsewhere over the section.

THREE LOCAL MEN WILL ATTEND CAMP

Citizens training camps will be held at Camp Meade during the month of August for all men who wish to take their vacation i n camp, which will give them good healthy exercise and at the same time give them the fundamentals of a soldier. Or for those who served in the world war will give them a chance to brush up on the different tactics. Three young men from town have signed up so far and are W. Bateman Draper, John Malcolm Bye, and Philip Worthington Downes.
