SURVIVORS TELL DRAMATIC STORIES OF WRECK OF ZR-2 AT HULL

Breaking Girder Caused Disaster

The cause of the disaster, according to the best information obtainable here, the base of the destroyed dirigible, was the breaking of longitudinal girders amidship, made of an aluminum allow, cutting the airship in halves.

An explosion of either hydrogen or petrol occurred immediately after the girders gave way, and flames burst through the structure, but the explosion, it is declared, was not the cause of the breaking up of the airship.

A statement made by an employee where the ship was made stated that when the balloon was first filled with gas several weeks ago twelve girders were strained. These, he testified, were not replaced, only repaired.

London Staggered by Wreck

The American and British victims of the disaster to the ZR-2 at Hull will be recorded a great public funeral, probably in London it is considered certain. The Air Ministry had the project under advisement and an announcement regarding it was expected at any time.

In London the day following the atmosphere was somewhat akin to that which followed the receipt of news of a serious disaster during the war. At the Air Ministry, which yesterday was a beehive of activity with elaborate preparations for the trans-Atlantc flght, there was today a sensible depression on all sides.

It was at Howden, Hull, Leeds and neighboring towns, however, where lived the wives and relatives of many of the men whose lives were snuffed out by the disaster, that the loss was most keenly fe t. In these places, too, were the English brides of nine of the American enlisted men who came to England for the trans-ocean flight. Those young women had been eagerly awaiting the time of the ZR-2's start for America and had expected soon to follow on board a Government transport to their new homes.

As the dirigible was still British property, not having yet been turned over to the American authorities, all investigations of the calamity will be supervised by the British Air Ministry.

U. S. Had Paid Part

Washington—The cost of the ZR-2 has been estimated at $2,500,000. What the loss to this Government will be has not yet been determined. Although the big ship was not turned over to the Navy, this country has paid part of her construction cost.

10,000 TONS OF FERTILIZER TO BE BOUGHT IN POOL

Purchasing by Talbot Farmers' Federation Will Be That Much.

Probably the largest meeting in the history of the Farmers' Federation of Talbot County was held in the courthouse Tuesday afternoon at Easton. Every available seat was occupied and there were many standing. The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the fertilizer question and also for placing orders. John A. Arringdale presided and called on the representatives of about a dozen firms to express themselves in regard to their goods.

At the conclusion of the discussion members of the buying committee were kept busy taking orders. Several organizations throughout the country had representatives present and it was stated that meetings will be called at once for the purpose of determining the quantity of fertilizer needed.

Prices were quoted from the various dealers and the cheapest bid offered was accepted. Several prominent farmers stated that while only several hundred tons were ordered, before the week ends at least 10,000 tons will be ordered. The federation has obtained a special price, which is about $5 a ton less than the local dealers are asking. This means a saving to the county of $50,000 on fertilizer alone. The order will be placed with a Baltimore firm, and will be shipped here in boats at a freight rate of $1.25 to $1.50 a ton. All sections of the county were represented and a lively discussion took place about the qualities of the various brands. The successful bidder gave an account of the way in which his product is made and a number of the buying committee who recently inspected the plant vouched for the description.

TOLD TO ADVERTISE CROPS

Marketing Product Without Aid of Middleman Explained

Co-operation in the planting of crops, as well as in the marketing, is necessary for the success of the farmers of today, according to S. J. Lowell of New York state, master of the National Grange, at a combined picnic of the Sussex County Grange and members of the Farm Bureau, held at Oak Orchard August 19th. Nearly five thousand farmers attended the picnic, most of them coming in their own automobiles.

W. J. Coverdale, secretary of the National Farm Bureau Federation, was also a speaker and explained what changes the Farm Bureau is making throughout the country by instituting a new method of marketing crops by taking a short cut through the present maze of agents and commission men. Advertising, especially newspaper advertising, is to be extensively used during the next year to show the customer how to secure farm products much cheaper and yet give the farmer a better price. The parcel post system also came in for praise and has furnished the farmer with the means of reaching city customers at a small cost.

R. J. Allen, of Seaford, president of the County Farm Bureau, and Robert G. Houston, a prominent granger of Georgetown, were also speakers.

"NO THOSE BONDS HAVE NO FACE VALUE. IF YOU HAD COME HERE BEFORE YOU BOUGHT THEM WE COULD HAVE SAVED YOUR MONEY FOR YOU."

"I WAS INFORMED WHEN I BOUGHT THEM, THAT ANY BANK WOULD LEND 80% OF THE FACE VALUE ON THEM. I DO NOT KNOW WHAT TO DO NOW."

THE ACID TEST

The biggest blessing of any community is its banks and the conservative men at their heads. They are the guardians of our financial existence and welfare, aiming at all times toward security. Can you imagine the man, who has fallen prey to one of the many disposers of valueless stocks and bonds, seeking financial relief? Then is when he learns only too late that he has been victimized of his earnings, whereas, a few minutes consultation with his home banker would have made him secure for all times had he sought and accepted his advice.

MORAL—The day of the gold brick will never pass; the strength of the home bank will never fail.
