Miss Sadie Garrett	624,500
Daniel Cecil	500,000
Noble W. Kelley	525,000

Saturday, November 5th, at 2 p. m., is the final closing date of The American Union Auto contest. Under our rules we are privileged to close October 29, November 5, or 12, not earlier than October 29th and not later than November 12th. However for the reason that the territory has not been anything like thoroughly canvassed, the management deems it good business judgment, both for the contestants and the paper, to extend the contest one week.

Many sections of the county are not being systematically canvassed for new subscriptions and renewals and should be gone over, house by house.

Federalsburg, Hillsboro, Ridgely, Goldsboro and Greensboro are towns in which a house to house canvass would pay. Then there are other smaller sections in which a good subscription business could be developed by a worker who would be a winner.

80,000 Extra Votes

Until November 1st, 5 p. m., there will be given 80,000 extra votes with each $10.00 in subscription business turned in.

NO EXTRA VOTES OF ANY KIND WILL BE GIVEN ON BUSINESS TURNED IN ON November 2d, 3d, 4th or 5th.

This Week's Winners

Miss Sadie Garrett and Mrs. Effie L. Hignutt were the winners of the $10 and $5 cash prizes offered for the greatest and the second greatest amount of business turned in for the week.

GOOD CANDIDATE FOR HOUSE OF DELEGATES

Mr. Sherman L. Tribbitt, one of the Republican Candidates for the Maryland House of Delegates, whose advertisement appears elsewhere in this paper, is one of Caroline County's most energetic and successful young business men.

Mr. Tribbitt has been associated with the Prudential Life Insurance Company for a number of years and is one of the leading representatives of the company.

During the late World War, Mr. Tribbitt served in the U. S. Army from September 25, 1917 to June 2, 1919.

He is not an office seeker, he was sought by his party because of his integrity and his pualifications to fill such a place. A vote for him on the 8th day of November will be a step toward bringing about better conditions in our state and county, and you will make no mistake in casting your vote for him on Election Day.

"FOUR HORSEMEN OF THE APOCALYPSE" COMING TO THE PALACE THEATRE

Mr. Bryant, manager of the Palace Theatre, has secured for Saturday the widely advertised film "The Four Horsemen of the Apocilypse." This play is adapted from the book of that name by Blasco Ibanez, which caused such a stir upon its appearance.

The picture is a massive production, a masterpiece of moving picture art. It has met with unqualified success in the cities where it has appeared. Denton is fortunate in having such a chance presented, and all who can will do well to take advantage of the unusual opportunity.

Parish Day Services at Hilsboro

On Friday, October 28, there will be a Parish Day Service at Hillsboro, at 11:00 o'clock, the celebration of the Holy Communion, with an address by Bishop Davenport. After the service luncheon will be served by the ladies of the Parish, to which all guests are cordially invited.

HILLSBORO COMMUNITY CLUB TO GIVE BENEFIT

"The Daughter Pays," a novel that created a sensation on two continents, when it was first published, forms the plot of Elaine Hammerstein's latest Selznick picture, which is to be shown at the Hillsboro Theatre on November 4, for the benefit of the Community club.

"The adaptation of Mrs. Bailey Reynold's story provides Miss Hammerstein with a role that allows full play for her remarkable capabilities as an emotional artist. As the daughter who gives herself up to a loveless marriage in order to wipe out an ancient debt of her mother, Miss Hammerstein is said to present a characterization that will immediately enlist the sympathy of the observer."

SENATOR WELLER WILL FURNISH SEEDS

Senator Weller will be very glad to distribute, free of charge, his quota of vegetable and flower seeds for spring planting, to any resident of Maryland who will write him, by postal or letter, to room 227, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C., on or before November 15, 1921. He will send each applicant one package containing five varieties of seeds, or a larger number of packages, if requested.

Care should be taken to give the correct name and address for mailing.

Revival Services at the M. P. Church

The revival services which are being held at the M. P. Church are attracting good audiences every night. There is a fine mesasge from the pastor, Rev. J. A. Dudley, and excellent singing under the leadership of Miss Edna Pretzman, of Baltimore. Mis Pretzman is not only a capable director but a good soloist. THese meetings will continue until November 6th.

Anthony Morton has opened up a tin shop, for heating, ventilating, roofing, etc.

DENTON WINS THE LAST BALL GAME

Whitewashes Federalsburg to Tune of 6 to 0 Last Saturday

GOT ONLY THREE HITS.

Federalsburg's base ball team submitted to a white-washing Saturday on the local diamond when it went down to defeat, 6 to 0. As one would judge, something turned up to destroy Federalsburg's plans and that something was the masterful pitching of Danforth, Denton's twirler.

Only three hits were made off his delivery and one of these of the lucky sort, when Johnson in fielding the ball fell.

Fifteen strikeouts and not a base on balls further reveals Danforth's control. Hummer, who pitched Princess Anne to victory over Frederick in the Maryland series, yielded eight hits and gave three bases on balls and uncorked two wild pitches.

The Denton team gave Danforth excellent support, the only error being charged to Johnson, while six boots were made by Federalsburg. Melvin, playing second for Federalsburg, did the best playing for his team, robbing Bowwdle of a sure hit in the third with men on second and third, making the third out. Again in the eighth, he covered a lot of ground and tossed out Newcomer at first. About the largest crowd of the whole season was on hand to witness the last game of the year.

Motors Collide and Wreck Each Other

A serious automobile accident, which fortunately resulted in no severe personal injury, occurred here last Sunday, when two cars collided at the curve known as "the Point," opposite Long and Beale's store.

In the northbound car, which belonged to Mr. W. H. Anderson, were Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Dr. Smith, Mr. Clayton Kauffman and son Leslie, all of Denton. Mr. Oliver Goslin, accompanied by his wife and baby, was driving the southbound car, and in passing another car, did not observe Mr. Anderson's car approaching. All the occupants of the Goslin car hurt. Both of the automobiles were were thrown out but none seriously wrecked.

OVER TWO MILLION FARMS HAVE AUTOMOBILES

Thousands of Motor Trucks and Tractors for Speeding up Production

And not all flivvers, either. Advance sheets of the U. S. 1920 Census swear to these returns—a total of 2,146,512 automobiles or more than 882 machines for every 1,000 farms.

Pessimists who bemoan the "poor farmer's" inability to come back with a rush of prosperity had better paint their blue goggles pink. The farmer is "right there," fellows, and while he is just now in too much of a hurry to sell his crop at low figures to get ready cash, you'll find the farmer right at the bottom of the reconstruction boom we all believe in.

And this year's farmer is a much speedier citizen than ever before because he is well-motored and has rubber wheels under him. Do you know that two out of every 100 farms in the United States have motor trucks today? There are now 139,169 such trucks.

Pennsylvania leads with 9,372; New York has 9,259; Iowa 8,910; Ohio, 7,319; Nebraska, 6,548; California, 6,416, and Illinois 6,154, to name a few.

Besides, there are no less than 246,139 tractors in the field making 38.2 tractors for every 1,000 farms. The mule-power farmer of the "one-hoss" shay is the one you see in the movies, but the fellow who is going to give backbone to our coming era of prosperity is a high-powered machine proposition of vast capacity and plenty of pep and speed, comments Sugarman's Indicator.

Plan Citizenship Lectures

A committee consisting of the district chairmen of the League of Women Voters met in Denton on Tuesday October, 25th, to arrange for the citizenship schools throughout the county. Owing to meetings of various kinds in the different localities a full schedule could not be arranged. Greensboro will have a lecture Wednesday evening, November 2; Preston, October 27; Federalsburg will have three lectures during the week beginning October 31, on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday evenings; Ridgely on Monday afternoon, October 31.

Gentlemen, as well as ladies, are invited to attend these lectures. Denton has had three lectures and expects to have the fourth after election.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Sprague of Manasquan, N. J., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Virgil Moore.

W. W. Newcomer is moving today toh is new home on Riverton Avenue, from the farm on the Burrsville Road.

TODAY IS BIRTHDAY OF THEODORE ROOSEVELT

The Roosevelt Memorial Association organized to perpetuate the memory and ideals of the former president, Theodore Roosevelt, adopts a seal in honor of his 63d birthday, October 27. The seal was designed by James Earle Fraser, who modeled the Victory Medal and the Buffalo nickel, and whose bust of Roosevelt is in the Capitol at Washington. The seal bears the words, "Roosevelt Memorial Association."

MINSTREL SHOW HERE TONIGHT

Darling, Browne Vaudeville Company appeared for their first performance at the Hilisboro Theatre, Hillsboro, last Saturday evening and were received with a full house, standing room even being at a premium. The show was very good and many persons commented on the quality of the show for the price.

This evening Denton is to be favored with an evening's entertainment by this dark-face company who will try to please the people of Denton with their jokes and dances.

Bookings are coming in fast. The two next dates are at Federalsburg for Saturday evening and at the New Theatre in Seaford on Monday, November 7. Turn out and have a good laugh tonight at this special added attraction at the Palace.

WEATHER REPORT

All your life you have probably heard it said that the people of the cold Northwest do not FEEL the cold because the air is so dry. I know by experience that they DO FEEL the cold and dread it more and more each succeeding winter — but well built homes, double windows, and warm clothing help to make it endurable. For instance, if you go to Winnipeg, you are likely to find that some of the hotels have triple windows to keep out the cold, and if you happen to meet your wife on the street when the temperature is 10 or 20 degrees below zero, you may not recognize her, so bundled up she will be with furs or woolens.

Since St. Paul, Minn., happens to be the first important city in the path of the "Medicine Hat" cold waves that sweep southward and southeastward across the United States at intervals during the winter, let us consider that city in connection with our subject. The Medicine Hat region of Canada is only about 500 miles north and northwest of St. Paul, so that the winters of Minnesota, like those of the Dakotas, Wisconsin, and neighboring states, are decidedly cold. Therefore, one would expect St. Paul to have plenty of "dry air" inwinter, if there is anything in the saying that "the people of the cold Northwest do not feel the cold because the air is so dry."

As a matter of fact, the relative humidity at St. Paul for the winter months due to the low temperature averages 80 per cent at the morning and evening observations taken by the Weather Bureau, while at Baltimore it averages only 71 per cent in winter at these two observations. In other words, winter weather is dampeer at St. Paul than at Baltimore, and the same is true of Chicago, Des Moines, Detroit, Cleveland, and many other cities of the North and Northwest.

It may be said further that the sunshine at Baltimore in winter is 53 per cent. of the possible amount, as compared to 32 per cent at Buffalo, 26 per cent at Cleveland, 41 per cent at Detroit, 46 per cent at Chicago, 49 per cent at St. Paul, 25 per cent at Spokane, and 30 per cent at Portland, Ore. Thus it is seen that "winter sunshine" in Maryland is a climatic feature that is worthy of more than passing notice. Is it not a striking fact that the winter sunshine of Maryland is double that of some sections of the Lake Region?

It is INDOORS in the cold North and Northwest that we find the winter air decidedly dry, and it is a great disadvantage. If you read Doctor Evans' "How to Keep Well" you are likely to find some reference to the evils of "dry air" indoors, and the desirability of humidifying. Take St. Paul again, for instance. The temperature of the outside air there in winter averages 16 degrees. When this cold air is drawn into buildings its temperature, of course, has to be raised 54 degrees to make it comfortable within doors, and that sends down its relative humidity to perhaps 20 per cent. This is 'dry air' with a vengeance, and it cracks furniture and causes it to pull apart; it causes the human skin to become dry and uncomfortable; it affects the nose and throat unpleasantly; and it causes people to suffer from certain "dry air" diseases, such as winter itch, which authorities say is rather common in the North and can only be cured by humidifying the air of the home.

In properly heated Maryland homes "dry air" conditions such as I have described do not exist—at least to an extent that is harmful, except possibly in the higher elevations of extreme Western Maryland. If you will ascertain the relative humidity of your Baltimore home on almost any day in winter you will probably find it to be around 35 per cent, though of course it is somewhat variable. That means that the indoor air here in winter, except perhaps in hospitals, is most enough to be healthful. In all my experiments I have never been able to discover any evidence of harm from "dry air" within doors when the relative humidity was 30 to 35 per cent or higher. You can make the most delicate narcissus bloom to perfection in the average Maryland home in winter, but try to make it bloom in the average home of the North and Northwest and more than likely the buds will blast under the influence of hot and excessively dry air.

Attending Chevrolet Meeting

Messrs. Clarence H. Roe and Dukes Roe, of The F. & R. Garage went to Baltimore yesterday in order that they might attend a meeting of the Chevrolet factory representatives and distributors which is meeting today in Baltimore at the Hotel Chateau.

GOOD ADDRESSES AT CONVOCATION

Diocese of Easton Met Here on Monday and Tuesday in Christ Church

BISHOP MADE ADDRESS

The Middle Convocation of the Diocese of Easton opened at Christ Church, Denton, Monday evening, Oct-24th. The service was addressed by the Rev. Mr. F. J. Bahannan, of Easton on the subject of "Social Service," and by the Rev. Mr. Alward Chamberlaine, on "Missions and the Centennial."

Dean Bohannan spoke of several of the plans for social service which are before the attention of the diocese at the present time. Chief among these is the permanent camp which is to be established by next summer, if possible, to provide out-of-door life for periods of two weeks for groups of 50 boys and girls. A site for this camp, centrally located and on the water, has already been offered, and a head for the camp has been secured. Funds to build a permanent dining hall, kitchen and sleeping quarters are necessary, but it is believed that the sum of $1,000, which will be sufficient to start the work, can be readily secured among the parishes of the diocese. Dean Bohannan spoke more at length on one special phase of the social service work of the diocese already in operation, namely the Home for Friendless Children, at Easton. This institution is doing a great work under the guidance of its two matrons. Its homelike spirit, the discipline that is maintained without military rule, the cheer and content of the children, make it unique as compared to most such institutions. The Home is, however, far too small for even present needs, and is in poor condition and poorly equipped. Spasmodic donations of money and clothing are made by the various parishes from time to time, but there is no regulfiarity or co-ordination about it. A plan is afoot, whereby the gifts may be made systematically, with particular reference to the special needs at the special time. The outstanding feature of the home is the individuality with which each child is treated. There are only 27 children—all the home can accommodate—so that each child receives personal care. The absence of uniforms is a great aid in maintaining this spirit of individuality.

Rev. Alward Chamberlaine's topic had special reference to the hundredth anniversary of the founding of home and foreign missions in the Protestant Episcopal Church. He likened the call of President Wilson in 1917 to that of Christ, nineteen hundred years ago, when He bade His disciples, "Go ye into all nations." The first prayer-book service in America was offered in 1579 in San Francisco, where a cross in Golden Gate Park commemmorates the event. Mr. Chamberlaine traced briefly the growth of the church in America and the spread of the missionary movement to China, Japan, where it was the first church to establish modern missions, Philippines, Mexico, Canal Zone, Africa, South America and Alaska. He stressed the fact that although a great work had been done, it was little in comparison to the work that still remains; that only through carrying the Gospel to all the world can there come assurance of future peace and absence of wars.

The services on Tuesday opened with an address by Bishop Davenport and the celebration of the Holy Communion. The bishop took as his text, "Where there is no vision, the people perish," and applied it to the present need in the church. He compared the vision of the church of a completed kingdom—the goal for which we must strive— to that of an architect when he visualizes a completed building. The need for religious education, especially among the young people, was emphasized, religious education begetting missions, and missions begetting social service, which he defined as "the application of Christianity to society." The bishop also said that the getting of people to attend church was only a beginning of the work to be done; that the parish is a place of enlistment and training, and that the real work of the church only commences when the people are brought within its doors.

A short business meeting followed this service, and then a masterly address on the work of the Sunday School by Miss Helen I. Jennings. The afternoon session considered, in a conference led by the Rev. Mr. L. I. Insley, the Nation-wide Campaign. Following this came an intensely interesting address on "The Church and the Young Peoule," by the Rev. Mr. R. B. Mathews.

Special music was rendered by the choir for the services, under the direction of Mrs. J. Kemp Stevens. On Monday evening the offertory "Come Jesus, Redeemer," by Palmer, was sung by Mrs. Stevens, and on Tuesday morning the trio "Litt Thine Eyes," from the Elijah, by Mendelssohn, was sung by Mrs. Hix Long, Mrs. Stevens, and Mrs. Roland Fisher.

On Monday evening after the service, the visiting gentlemen and their wives, and the members and friends of the congregation met informally at the Rectory for a social hour.

A delicious luncheon was served in the Rectory Tuesday at 12:30, by the ladies of the parish.

The following out-of-town guests were present:

The Rt. Rev. George W. Davenport, S. T. D., Bishop of Easton; the Rev. Alward Chamberlaine, of Easton, Archdeacon of the Diocese, and Mrs. Chamberlaine; the Rev. F. J. Bohannan, Dean of the Cathedral, Easton, and Mrs. Bohannan; the Rev. W. C. Marshall, Centreville, Dean of the Convocation; Miss Helen I. Jennings, Pottsville, Pa., Provincial Field Secretary for the Board of Religious Education for the Dioceses of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, and Bethlehem; the Rev. Henry Davies, Ph. D., Easton; the Rev. Samuel Borden-Smth, Trappe; the Rev. and Mrs. Hunter Davidson, Stevensville; the Rev. and Mrs. L. I. Insley, Church Hill; the Rev. and Mrs. R. B. Matthews, Easton; the Rev. Sewell S. Hepburn, Kennedyville, Dean of the Northern Convocation; Mr. P. A. M. Brooks, Worton, Mrs. James Merrick, Treasurer of the United Offering of the Woman's Auxiliary, and the Misses Merrick, Sudlersville.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS ORGANIZED SUNDAY

The Knights of Columbus, the secret order of the Catholic Church, met in the Law Buiding, Sunday afternoon, and organized a chapter for Denton and the county. It is understood about forty members were pledged.

The ladies of the local Catholic Church, under the direction of Miss Louise Bukes, served dinner to the guests and members of the newly installed lodge.

GOVERNMENT ACTION MAKING WORLD DRY

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League of America, comes forward with this statement:

"The world is going bone-dry!"

He says Europe is waiting to see how prohibition turns out in America. If police and federal agents win in their war on bootleggers, Europe will straightway ban booze, Wheeler is sure.

"If America makes good in enforcing prohibition, England will be dry in ten years," the dry chief says.

"And with England and the United States on the dry list, the rest of the world will have to turn to prohibition because wet countries can't compete with dry ones in the world's markets."

Wheeler points to these facts on the international prohibition situation, gathered by his organization from official sources:

Great Britain

A very definite and well organized prohibition movement is under way. Despite this the consumption of liquor has shown a great increase, doubtless due to abnormal post-war conditions, demobilization of troops and unemployment. In Scotland liquor cannot be sold in clubs and theatres between 2 and 10 p. m. Drunken persons in public places are subject to fine or imprisonment. In Ireland there are 250 separate legal restrictions on the liquor traffic. The Irish prohibition movement dates from 1838.

Manufacture of beer is almost entirely prohibited because raw material is needed for food. Only the rich are able to get wines and cordials.

Bulgaria

The legislative assembly is being urged to extend permission to cities and villages to vote themselves dry by local option, as in the early days of the prohibition movement in America.

Denmark

Local option is allowed. Two hundred and twenty-nine parishes(counties) have voted themselves dry to 46 wet.

Finland

Finland is bone-dry by action of parliament.

France

Bone-dry prohibition receives little support but a strong movement is on foot to ban distilled liquors. Georges Clemenceau, former premier, backs this movement. Absinthe already is under official ban.

Germany

Federal constitution gives municipalities the right to local option, if 10 per cent of the voters sign a petition. Temperance forces are waging a fight on distilled liquors.

Italy

Sale of liquor is prohibited after 10 p. m. The government is opposed to distilled liquors but favors wine. Absinthe is prohibited. Fifteen thousand saloons were closed during the war. Few have reopened.

Netherlands

Use of cereals for distilling is prohibited. A local option league, with nearly a million members has been formed.

Norway

Distilled liquors and wines containing more than 12 per cent. of alcohol are prohibited.

Poland

Local option is permitted, national prohibition legislation expected.

Spain

An Anti-Alcoholic eague formed in 1911 is meeting with strong opposition from wine-growing interests.

Sweden

Prohibition exists in a modified form. Retail sales of liquors is in the hands of societies which turn all profits into the state treasury. Citizens are given ration cards entitling them to buy limited amounts of spirits every month. Criminals, drunkards and paupers cannot get ration cards.

India

Followers of Ghandi, popular Indian opponents of British rule, are abstainers. The Mohammedans, a considerable number of India's population, are abstainers.—Tenn. Open Door.

A bill calling for prohibition in some form will be presented to the Chilean congress very soon, according to a letter written by President Alessandri to leading wine growers, declaring they must find some means to make profits from grapes without manufacturing intoxicants.

Sewing Bee at Newnam's

The Denton Community Club has very important work to do in providing clothing for needy children in this town. So members and non-members, who can sew, are urged to attend tomorrow afternoon (Friday) in Newnam's upper room.

Mr. Newnam has shown his public spirit by offering to the Community Club for this work, both his room and sewing machines. We know the women will be equally public spirited. Donations of material, old and new, buttons and so forth, are acceptable. An important item of business needs the attendance of all members for this particular meeting.

The remainder of the answers to the questionnaires sent to the candidates by the League of Women Voters, for the purpose of ascertaining their position on bills which are to be considered this winter, are summarized as follows:

Mr. Elwood C. Orrell and Mr. G. S. Todd, Republican candidates for the House of Delegates, and Mr. J. Raymond Charles and Mr. Arthur G. Smith, both Democratic candidates for the House of Delegates, all answered the questions favorably.
