RED CROSS MAKES REPORT FOR YEAR

for the past two years, and the secretary is present every Tuesday afternoon, and at any other time by appointment. The office furnishings are all donated. All service is volunteer service, even to the automobile service necessary to do the visiting sometimes demanded in the course of the work.

There is another branch of the Red Cross work the chapter would like to engage in the coming year, if the funds will permit it. We need classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick and in First Aid. These classes teach he essenial needs of the sick room—just what every woman who has the responsibiliy of a home should know, and the lessons in First Aid very often give a bystander the opportunity to save a life that otherwise would be lost.

The Red Cross has touched nearly every section of the county this year from Marydel to Federalsburg, and through our people has reached out to the Walter Reed, Fort McHenry and Greensville, S. C., U. S. P. H. Hospitals, to the Great Lakes and Norfolk Naval Stations, and to the U. S. Army camps at Columbia, S. C., Fort Riley, Kansas, and Fort Bliss, Texas.

The following table is a synopsis of our expenditures for the year:

Service to veterans of the World War	$159.81
Service to civilian families	$234.06
Pueblo disaster	$50.00
Expense of Clean-up Squad to chapter	$52.42
Rent, stationery & postage, telephone and telegraph	$150.00

As the only way the Red Cross obtains money to "Carry On" is through its membership dues we ask the whole population of the county to help keep our Red Cross chapter strong for its continuing duties by giving its support to the Annual Roll Call which began with Armistice Day, November 11th.

The three kinds of dues that will aid us are the annual—$1.00, the contributing—$5.00, the sustaining—$10.00. Fifty cents of each of these dues go to the national organization for its work, th rest remains in the chapter treasuries. Remember that the share that goes to the national treasury is used in much the same way the funds of the chapter are used—in work for our men in the hospitals and for relief purposes.

The motto of the American Red Cross, whether national or local, is Service, and this Spirit of Service pervades it both as a whole and as the smallest chapter.

Fair Exchange

An enterprising tradesman sent a doctor a box of cigars which had not been ordered, with a bill for six dollars. The accompanying letter stated that "I have ventured to send these on my own initiative, being convinced that you will appreciate ther exquisite flavor."

In due course the doctor replied: "You have not asked me for a consultation, but I venture to send you three prescriptions being convinced much benefit as I shall derive from your cigars. As my charge for a prescription is two dollars, this makes us even."—Boston Globe.

NEW FEDERAL ROAD ACT UNLIKE THE LAW OF 1916

Requirements as to how Each State Shall Secure Help is Principal Feature

Washington, Nov. 15.—Requirements as to how each state shall select its federal aid roads constitute the principal new feature of the Federal Highway Act, enactment of which has just been completed, as differentiating from the Federal Aid act of 1916, according to an analysis of the bill today by the Federal Farm Bureau Federation.

To secure part or all of its allotment of the $75,000,000 of Federal funds appropriated for road construction for the remainder of the fiscal year, a state must select a connected road system not exceeding 7 per cent of its entire road mileage for improvement with federal aid. This system is to be divided into two classes of roads, one consisting of interstate roads, which shall not exceed three-sevenths of the system selected and upon which not more than 60 per cent of the state's allotment can be expended without the joint approval of the Secretary of Agriculture, as administrator of the act, and the state highway department. The other class, consisting of intercounty roads, will compose the balance of the system and receive the remainder of the allotment.

The amount of federal aid received on any project, however, is not to exceed 50 per cent of the estimated cost, except in states where more than 5 per cent of the area is unappropriated public land, this latter provision increasing the percentage in 10 states, ranging up to 47 per cent for Utah. Where any state fails to properly maintain a federal aid highway the Secretary of Agriculture after 90 days' notice will maintain it out of the state's allotment and refuse approval of new projects until reimbursement is made by the state.

WASHINGTON STATE ADOPTS CHILD-FEEDING CAMPAIGN

Twenty-two counties in the state of Washington will concentrate this fall on special nutrition work for underweight children and their parents, under the supervision of home demonstration agents. Demonstrations of the best methods of bringing underweight children up to normal weight will be given and will be closely correlated with hot school lunch and supplementary nutrtion demonstratons.

The interest in child feeding has been due largely to the statistics that have been accumulated during the large number of American children of school and pre-school age are underweight for their height. This condition apparently bears no relation to the prosperty of the community or to the financial or social status of the family. Irregular habits, late and hurried breakfasts, cold, unpalatable, and poorly selected lunches, delayed chores, late hours, lack of sufficient daytime rest, and the common use of tea and coffee are contributing causes to this very prevalent condition of malnutrition.

The plan n Washington State is to organize nutrition groups in indvdual communties until a sufficent number of nutrtion workers and project leaders are trained for county and statewide work. The children are examined by the county nurse for defects. Then the parents of the children are asked to sign agreements as home demonstrators to carry on the instructions given in the homes.

Eight weeks are devoted to intensive work. Parents and children meet with the project leader each week, then for three months the progress of each child is carefully followed through monthly consultations with the parents, including weighing and measuring. A daily rest period, the use of at least 3 pnts of milk daily, elimination of tea and coffee, and adherence to a diet recommended by the home demonstration agent, are the main elements in the systematic procedure for bringing underweight children up to normal.

MAKE PACKAGES SAFE

Important Effort to Save Loss in Shipping Being Made

The American Railway Association, working with the Amercan Railway Express Company, are conducting a nationwide campaign to stimulate further interest in good packing of shipments by freght and express.

November has been designated as "Perfect Package Month," and all shipments tendered to railroad and express carriers during this month will be closely inspected as to containers, packing and marks, and special reports will be prepared covering all exceptions. These reports will be promptly sent to shippers interested, for their guidance in the proper preparation of future shipments. Copies of these reports will be forwarded to the American Railway Association, Chicago, or the American Express Company, New York, as the case may be, where they will be summarized and final reports prepared showing the total number of exceptions recorded and the relation the number bears to the total numer of shipments.

As the co-operation of the shipping public is essential to the success of this campaign, the Chambers of Commerce, or other civic bodies of the various cities and towns throughout the country have been requested to assst the carriers in interesting shippers in the proper preparation of their shipments.

But he'll miss all the fun
Of running around.
