Make Someone Happy Tonight

THERE are many little things we can do to promote happiness in this old world of ours—things which cost us little in time, energy, or money.

A kind word over the wire, a telephoned invitation, a social call—strengthen friendship and make life worth while.

No means of communication does more to further human happiness than the telephone. A great many people use it to keep in close touch with their friends and home folks who live in nearby cities and towns.

Why not make some out-of-town friend happy tonight by the gift of your voice and smile? There are reduced rates after 8.30 P. M. You can talk over a good many miles of wire for less than a dollar.

Your telephone directory will give you full information.

Knowledge every father should impart to his son: Learn to save before you learn to shave.

Ben Franklin liked books.

Within their covers he found wisdom—the wisdom which when put into practice, earned for him a reputation as a great American.

We observed his birthday on January 17—it having been two hundred and sixteen years since his birth at Boston.

Franklin's philosophy may be summed up in one word—THRIFT.

And the bank book is text book in the study of thrift. It was the book which Franklin heeded most because there, in black and white, was the result of his endeavors.

"Spend less than you make if you would succeed,"—said Franklin's famed "Poor Richard."

Uncle Johns' Poem

CITY VS. COUNTRY

You can fool around the city, till you're old enough to die, with yer soul a-gettin' smaller every minnit; you'll ketch yerself alongin' fer a stretch of azure sky, or a medder with some clover-blossoms in it. . . . You can hang around the shady spots an' loafer dens of town, tryin' to make 'em think you are contented,—but don't you sorter realize you're tryin' to swaller down as big a lie as ever was invented?

You can jog around the pavement, not enjoyin' any load, an' pretend that you are happy though retired,—but, blame it all, you'd ruther trot along a country road, where license an' policemen ain't required. . . . You can speed up all you want to, or slow up like a snail, or take a nap I reckon if you're sleepy,—you dream about the city man a-sweatin' in hsi jail, an' the very idea starts you feelin' creepy. . . . Now listen to a feller that is able to advise,—it wouldn't be the truth if I denied it,—the little farm you live on is next to Paradise—don't pine fer city life until you've tried it.

Yr. own Uncle John.
