RIDGELY

Firebells mingled with the ringing of the church bells Sunday morning about 8:30 o'clock, when it was discovered by the Rev. Mr. S. A. Troxell that the Reformed Church was on fire. Fire had started from dust collected in the large pipe conducting the heat to the second floor and was burning between the two floors. Help was soon on hand and in a very few minutes the fire was under control before any great damage was done to the building. No services were held in the church during the day on account of the fire.

FEDERALSBURG

The Woman's Club in its program Wednesday, February 22d, observed Washington's Birthday fittingly with interesting biographical sketches, and appropriate music. The decorations were patriotic, the programs suggestive of the proverbial cherry tree episode, while a diminutive "George" and "Martha" were there in person.

The guessing of flag conundrums proved entertaining and "Martha Washington" candies added unexpected "sweetness" to the occasion. Mrs. W. S. Noble, Mrs. Lee Wheatly, Mrs. Harry Poole and Mrs. Kenneth Corkran composed the committee in charge of the day's program.

Washington's Birth Celebrated

The State Roads Commission has placed at prominent intersecting streets, conspicuous sign boards directing the wayfarer to the various routes, giving mileage to prominent towns en route.

May We Introduce—

Mr. R. H. Bunney, representing the Fuller Brush Co., of Hartford, Conn. Any housewife who has seen the brushes put out by this firm, or who has seen the wonderful ads carried in all the big magazines, will be glad to welcome Mr. Bunney and see his wares. The brushes are excellent in quality and price, and are well worth your time to look them over.

The Fuller Brush Co., is unusual in that it presents its wares solely through its agents. This eliminates the "middle man," the jobbers and the retailers—and enables you to get these brushes at factory price. This is your only way to ever see them, remember.

You will like Mr. Bunney, we are sure. Just give him a chance,—that is all he asks for.
