Georgetown, Del., Feb. 29—Thirty pennies distributed in the Sunday school of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, at Millsboro, nine months ago, by the late Rev. George R. Ellis have earned during that time $4.30, which will be applied to the parsonage fund.

Upon receiving the pennies, the Sunday school scholars put them to work earning something. The children made investments by clubbing together, in sugar, chocolate, favors made and sold.

From the proceeds they reinvested and kept on selling until the 30 pennies had earned for the church the amount reported.

Salisbury, Md., Feb. 29—Fire in the Main street building occupied by the Nock Bros. Company and the Woman's shop threatened destruction of the heart of the city's commercial section this afternoon.

While the blaze was at its height and all the city's apparatus was being pressed into service the source of water supply in the city was exhausted and the pumps were moved to the wharves and water obtained from the Wicomico river.

Attempting to batter down a door opening into a section of the building Chief Fred A. Grier, Jr. Auston Moore and M. S. Taylor were temporarily overcome by heat and smoke as the draught caused flames to burst through.

At 2.30 the blaze was under control after putting up the most stubborn resistance experienced by the fire department in the past 20 years.

A big railroad truck got loose on a down-grade track at Delmar a few nights ago and burst through the doors of the car shop at that place. It sent several men into track holes to seek shelter and filled the shop with steam from the broken pipes. There were about twenty men working in the shop at the time and all escaped injury except William J. Dutton of Georgetown, who recently was transferred from here to Delmar. He was somewhat bruised when he jumped down a track hole to escape being hit by the truck.

SUPPORTING UNIVERSITY

That the agricultural interests of Maryland are staunchly supporting the University of Maryland's legislative bill for $2,140,000 is apparent from the resolutions adopted by The Maryland Agricultural Society and the Maryland Farm Bureau at a recent meeting.

The Board of Directors, composed of officers of the Farm Bureau, heads of county organizations and State-wide agricultural community associations such as the Tobacco Growers' Association State Dairymen's Association, etc decided to ask the Legislature to allow the University a 15-year bond issue of the amount of the Bill in addition to the amounts already allowed by the Governor in his budget. It was stated in the resolution that urgent need for the reduction of taxes and of Governor Ritchie's efforts in that direction was realized but that nevertheless it was felt that even under these conditions there was no desire to handicap agricultural agencies.

"The budget as submitted," it was added, "has been allowed very limited increases for some State work which cannot meet the needs in educational, investigational and extension work of the State University at College Park and similar needs for medical and associated departments in the hospital at Baltimore."

The development of the State institution was endorsed. Copies of the resolution have been sent to the legislators with the request that they use their influence to see that the University's plans are adopted.

MARCH TO BE VERY COLD

Andrew Jackson DeVoe, the Hakensack weather prophet, predicts the following weather for March:

March will be very cold, stormy month. It will be clear the first day or two, but then it will cloud up and about the 5th or 6th there will be a blizzard with heavy snows. This will be followed by fairly moderate weather, with one period of cold squally weather on the 13th or 14th. About the 20th there will be the equinoctial storm, with rain followed by snow and then a blizzard. That will be followed by two days or so of cold weather, but there will be several pleasant days toward the end of March and probably a snowstorm on March 27 or 28.

JOKES

Elizabeth—Sis and I were going to see the "Covered Wagon" last night but they stopped it.

Peggy—Why?

Elizabeth—To grease the wheels.

Babe—Mae, I saw your picture the other day.

Mae—Where, Babe?

Peggy (interrupting)—On a salmon can, poor fish!

A very hopeless young man wrote this Valentine to his better be-half. My dear—I am sending you this to tell you that I will be your valentine; may our hearts entwine, for I'm all thine.

Two days later, he received this inswer, the envelpoe being addressed, "Rush—Perishable." "E Pluribus Unum."

Clara—He gave me an army and navy kiss last night.

Helen—What kind is that?

Clara—Oh, that's rapid fire, about sixty a minute.

Teacher—Charles, you haven't a thing in your notebook. Do you realize you will get "E"?

Charles—"E", excellent, well, that's pretty good.

The Central Office Operator

FORTY-EIGHT years ago the telephone was a toy, thought by many to have no commercial value; today it is an indispensable factor in our daily lives. Day in and day out the flashing of myriads of tiny lamps, the calling signals, on the switchboards continue, and day in and day out the operator must be on the job.

¶Good telephone service is only possible because the central office operator is intelligent, willing and interested in her work.

¶From expecting little, the American public has been educated to demand a high quality of service, and gets it ---the most efficient in the world.

Aptly has the telephone been called "The Sentinel That Never Sleeps"
