School Notes

Mrs. J. Kemp Stevens, music supervisor for Caroline County, will give demonstration lessons in the second and sixth grades Thursday afternoon. The lesson in the second grade will begin at 1 o'clock, sixth grade at 1:45. Mrs. Stevens will give a practical demonstration of the work she is doing throughout the county. The parents of the pupils in these gades are invited to attend. It is requested that parents be on time so as not to disturb the progress of the lesson, which invariably occurs when there are late entrants.

Following the demonstration lessons, the elementary pupils will give a May Day pageant entitled "All in a Garden Fair." This is a flower pageant and is very pretty. All patrons and fiends are invited to attend the performance at 2:45 in the auditorium.

Greensboro's track prospects this year are very favorable. We did not lose a track man by graduation and several were gained from schools up the county. Again, several winners of last year who defeated local men were lost by various schools through graduation.

The High School Glee Club will make its initial appearance at the Parent Teachers' Association Monday evening, May 5th. Every member of the association and friend of the school is asked to be present at 7:30 p. m. During the first part of the evening the glee club, under the direction of Mrs. Paul C. Phillips, will furnish music. These people are doing some fine work. Come and enjoy their songs. During the evening the following topics will be discussed: 1. How the home may improve school attendance; 2. How the school and the home can combine to cultivate in children the habit of reading the right kind of books. At the close of the discussion several members of the association have consented to furnish music.

WEATHER AND CROP REPORT

This week was the most favorable of the crop season to date. It was characterized by sunshiny weather, which was favorable for drying out the soil, for plowing, and for general farming activities. Much plowing was done. Temperature for the week averaged normal. The 23d and 26th were cool while the other days were mild. Light showers occurred on the 25th and 28th.

Wheat and rye are in good condition except poor to fair in the lowlands. Grasses are fair. All are improving in southern Sussex County, Del. Sowing of oats was general except in the Allegany Mountain region. Early-sown oats in southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore are coming up.

Apple-tree buds are now showing in Western Maryland and continue to swell in the other northern-border counties; they are ready to open, or are opening in central and southern counties. Peach, pear, plum and cherry trees are in full bloom, except ready to bloom in the Allegany Mountain region. Strawberries are coming into bloom over the section to the eastward of the Blue Ridge mountains.

Planting of early potatoes, of peas except in western Maryland, and of truck crops made good progress during the week. In some localities planting of early potatoes and peas has been finished. Early potatoes planted in March in the southern counties failed to come up as a rule and are rotting or have rotted. Early-planted peas in southern counties are up, are looking well and are making a good stand; to the northward late-planted peas are coming up in some localities.

Tomato seeds are being sown. Ealy-sown tomato and tobacco seeds are up.

The season continues fully two weeks behind the normal. Warm and continued sunshiny weather is needed.
