Georgetown, Del., Oct. 10—The Kieffer pear crop in lower Delaware is almost a complete failure and high prices are expected to prevail. The shortage is due to killing frosts and freezes at a time when the buds were in full bloom.

MORALS RELIGION AND COMMON SENSE

Insurance companies tell us that a million lives have been saved by the drop in the death rate since prohibition. We spend $74,000,000 less per year to relieve drink-made poverty. Over 500,000 fewer are drunk on our streets per year. Alcohol insanity has dropped two-thirds. Diverting our former drink bill of billions of dollars to legitimate business has made possible the automobile boom which put 15,552,077 automobiles on our roads, giving employment to 7,000,000 people. It writes every month a billion dollars of new insurance and adds $30,000,000 to our country's savings.

Advertise—The luck lays a larger egg than the hen, but the hen gets all the credit and glory because she advertises with her cackle.

Eastern Shore Happenings

Seaford, Oct. 11—The later whiteman, the third occupant, was only injured slightly and was treated by physicians at his home.

It was the third grade crossing accident in which Engineer Winfield S. Wallace has piloted a locomotive within the past three months.

* * *

Dover, Oct., 12—Arrangements have been completed for important breed selection demonstrations for Kent county poultry raisers under the auspices of County Agent Russell E. Wilson and Hoke S. Palmer, of the University of Delaware Agricultural Extension Department.

Demonstrations will be held October 19, at 1:30 p. m., on William P. Poole farm, near Harrington; October 20, at 10 a. m., on Joseph Kohout farm, east of Hartley and October 20, at 1.30 p. m., on :W. V. Cosden farm, southwest of Dover.

* * *

Salisbury, Oct. 12—The local office of the Victor Lynn Transportation Company was informed at noon that the Victor Lynn, a power boat of 400 tons, reported missing en route from Salisbury to Richmond, Va., arrived at her destination today, 30 hours late.

The vessel left here Friday afternoon and below Tangier Sound rain and wind of near hurricane velocity were encountered. The craft was not badly damaged, and none of the cargo of canned goods was jettisoned.

Four licensed pilots were on the boat, to whom credit is given for the craft's having weathered the severe storm, the local office stated.

Seaford—William O. Johnson, of Blades, 61 years old, ex-sheriff of Sussex county, was injured severely here when his automobile, which he was cranking while in gear, started, catching him under it and dragging him some distance into a tree.

His hand, with which he held to the bumper, was so badly hurt that the thumb had to be amputated. Several of his ribs were broken, his face and head cut and it is feared he is injured internally. He is a wealthy brick manufacturer.

* * *

Seaford—Wilbur D. Cassel, proprietor of a plumbing establishment, was badly injured when he fell down the steps of a back porch at his home. His face caught in a wire clothes line, cutting him severely and rendering him unconscious.

* * *

Chestertown—Plans for holding first annual horse show are progressing nicely, according to a statement made last night by Stephen R. Collins treasurer of the Kent County Horse Show Association, under the direction of which the show will be held on Armistice Day, November 11, on a field on the farm of Lewin U. Skirven, 1 mile from town.

At a meeting of the members of the association the following officers were elected: President, William T. Dixon, and treasurer, Stephen R. Collins.

Georgetown, Oct. 9—The chestnut crop in lower Delaware this year will be small, it is stated, owing to a blight in most of the trees during the spring and summer. Weather conditions also have been unfavorable this season.

Many years ago the forest abounded in chestnut trees, but in recent years they have been depleted and the wood used for manufacturing purposes. A quarter of a century ago, before there was such a demand for the wood, farmers were able to gather the nuts in large quantities and sell them. While there are large numbers of the trees throughout different sections, for some reason the crop of nuts has been small in the past few years.

* * *

Georgetown, Oct. 11—Hog cholera has broken out in the vicinity of Dagsboro and within the last two weeks many of the farmers have lost porkers they were raising for their winter supply of meat.

Seizing time by the forelock, nearly all of the people in that section of the county who have hogs that have not contracted the disease are having them vaccinated.

Their combined ages aggregating 339 years, two of Queen Anne's county's oldest churches this month celebrate important anniversaries in their long and honorable history.

Last Sunday historic Old Dudley's chapel, near Sudlersville, commemorated its 142d anniversary, and on Sunday, October 18, St. Luke's church, Church Hill, will observe the 197th anniversary of its founding.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the celebration of the one hundred and ninety-seventh anniversary of the founding of St. Luke's on the 18th, which will be St. Lukes Day. The celebration service will be held at 11 o'clock and members of the Sunday school will participate. Further announcements with detailed program will be made next week. Rev. L. I. Insley is rector of the church.

Kent Island citizens have determined to make a strong bid to provide a permanent site for the annual national guard encampement of the State of Maryland.

Recently announcement was made that state officials were seriously considering the advisability of buying a tract of land of about 900 or 1000 acres to be used each year when the state militiamen bivouac for the annual military maneuvers.

Kent Island citizens and business men are confident that they have found the ideal location on Chesapeake Bay, about 5 miles below Stevensville, and only a slightly greater distance directly across the bay from the Naval Academy in Annapolis. The tract of land, which comprises the farms of T. Roland Carville, Isaac Grollman and Wilbur Moore, contains 900 acres of high land, with a two-and-one-half mile bay frontage.

Options already have been taken on the property and it is stated that the deal could be closed for approximately $60,000.

* * *

Bridgeville, Oct. 9—H. B. Joseph, of Rehoboth, has closed a deal for the erection of fourteen new cottages costing from $3,000 to $4,000 each, to be erected at Rehoboth Beach.

Salisbury, Oct. 9—Three persons were injured, one seriously, when a train on the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway, demolished an automobile at a grade crossing east of St. Martin's station this afternoon.

Calvin Donoway, Pittsville merchant was rushed to the Peninsula General hospital here, where examination by surgeons revealed that he had sustained a broken leg and numerous cuts and bruises. He will recover.

A. P. Christopher, operator of the car, owner of large orchards in Worcester county, received injuries which were not serious enough for admission to the hospital.

New Secretary of War?

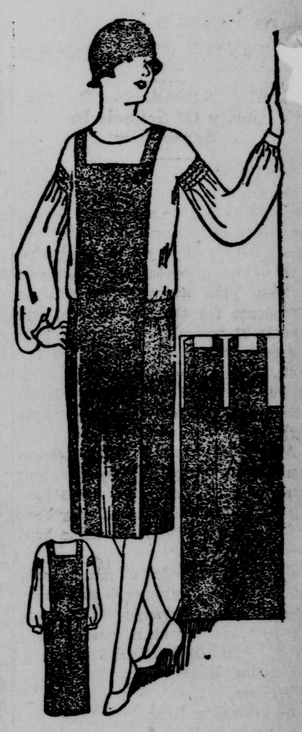

Rumors from Washington, indicate Secretary of War John W. Weeks will resign his post, and that he will be succeeded by Dwight F. Davis, who has so capably executed the duties of Secretary during the absence of his Chief, that President Coolidge will consider him as new head.

PRACTICAL INSTRUCTIONS IN HOME SEWING

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

YOU CAN CUT THIS DRESS WITHOUT A PATTERN

NEW VERSION OF THE JUMPER FROCK

When the jumper dress sprang into popularity last season it was greeted as a purely American fashion. Now many of the French dressmakers are evolving clever adaptations of it! Not that one dares hint over here that a style could originate anywhere but in Paris. No matter where the jumper frock originated, the Parisian version of it have many little touches that lend piquancy and style.

The model I have sketched for you here is typical. The jumper portion of the dress is of fine tan homespun. The soft satin blouse is also of tan but in a lighter tone. A bright red flower with equally bright green leaves is embroidered in silk at the corner of the square neck. This gray bit of color is dsitinctly smart.

Two and three quarters yards of thirty-six inch material will make the jumper portion of this dress. All the pieces are cut perfectly straight except at the shoulder seams, which are slightly sloped, as I have shown in the little cutting chart at the right.

Measure on the figure the correct waist length also the skirt length and the width the panel should be. Add three inches on each side of the skirt portion of the front panel for plaits. Mark these measurements on the material and proceed to cut.

In putting the dress together it is a good plan to let the belt extend under the panel so that the plaits may be tacked to it.

This kind of dress also offers splendid makeover possibilities. An old frock that is worn under the arms may be recut along these lines, or a last year's silk dress may be used for the blouse portion. It is important that both the blouse and jumper harmonize well in color and if you are using old materials it may be necessary to dye them in order to get the color effect you desire.

RAY GRIFFITH FUNNIER THAN EVER IN "THE NIGHT CLUB"

New Paramount by Directors of "Forty Winks" at the Palace Theatre

He idolized one girl and then when she left him at the altar rail he swore off all women—until he met the other "most beautiful girl in the world," anyway.

That's the way we find Raymond Griffith, Paramount's high-hat comedy star in "The Night Club," which will be the feature at the Palace Theatre Tuesday night next, October 20. Griffith is featured in the cast with Vera Reynolds, Wallace Beery and Louise Fazenda.

"The Night Club," written for the screen by Walter Woods from William de Mille's stage play, "After Five," is a story of a young idealist, who finds himself heir to a cool million, and all he has to do to collect is to marry a certain girl. But that's the catch, for Robert White (Ray Griffith) has just convinced himself that he can get along quite well without association with the charming sex, especially since he was "stood up" by the "only girl" on his wedding day.

But then, circumstances alter cases and when Bob sees the girl in question, it's a different story entirely. He makes some crack about it being an easy way to make a million by marrying the girl. Edith Henderson (Miss Reynolds) overhears him and comes to the conclusion that there is one fortune hunter who is going to get stung.

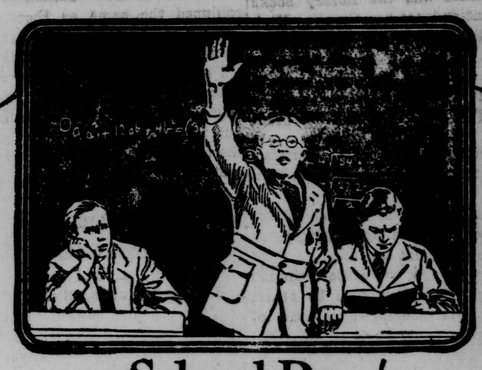

Bob is completely taken back whe he learns what Edith thinks of him and decides to show her he don't give a whoop about the money by taking his wife, in which event the million would go to the girl, according to the will.

Try as he will, every time Bob attempts to make a dramatic exit from the picture the thing turns into a farce and only tends to make him the more ridiculous in Edith's eyes. As a last resort he bargains with Diablo (Beery), a Spaniard, to kill him before witnesses. In the meantime, White patches things up with Edith and then, when he sees Diablo approaching he almost passes out competely.

You start laughing with the first reel of "The Night Club" and never let up for a single moment till the final fade-out. You haven't seen a thing in screen comedies till you've seen this one.

Neighbor—Well, Johnnie, how is your grandfather standing the heat?

Johnnie—I haven't heard yet. He jist died last Friday.

School Days/
Is your boy's eyesight normal?

Bob's parents knew the tremendous importance of normal eyesight to children. So they had Bob's eyes examined. The slight defect revealed was corrected easily (and in time), by the eyeglasses prescribed.

Evidence Bob's quick answer—his better report cards.

Wellsworth Windsor spectacles are sturdy and good looking.
