SELECT YOUR CAR'S DOCTOR WITH CARE

While the country is groaning under thousands of new and unnecessary laws, it seems strange no effort has been made to protect the automobile owner from the ravages of the incompetent motor mechanic, who yearly causes millions to mourn and destroys far more millions in values. Fortunate indeed are the residents of any town that boasts an automobile mechanic who understands what he is doing when he "takes down" a car and seeks to put it together again.

Reconditioning a motor is a highly skilled work. Cylinder wear is not the only condition that must be dealt with. First must be determined which of the cylinders is most worn, for this must be reground within the limits of 5/10,000ths of an inch puls or minus, with not more than 1/1000th of an inch taper. Piston rings must be fitted in the grooves with not more than 4/1,000ths of an inch clearance. Fancy what is bound to happen when a man with no knowledge of micrometer work undertakes such a task, yet this is only the beginning of putting a motor together. Alignment of all other parts to syncronize with the operation of the reconditioned cylinders is of equal importance and calls for even greater skill. If there be a lack of accuracy in alignment in a single one of many other parts, trouble is bound to develop, for it is impossible for one point well done to compensate for another.

The average man's purchase of an automobile is an important matter to him. With proper care and efficient repair there is scarcely a car on the market that will not last five or eight years. Unfortunately when "the old bus" gets a little noisy, too often it falls into the hands of a mechanic butcher. Car owners will act wisely in looking closely into the skill of those they hire as automobile doctors.
