TOMATO PACKING MERGER PLANNED

Berlin, Oct. 25—Plans for the consolidation of Maryland and Delaware co-operative tomato canneries and the organization of tomato growers of the two states into one body, through the efforts of the Tri-State Canners' Association, have been anounced by co-operative tomato packers in Worcester county.

The organization of the packing industries of the two states, embodying a complete tomato-canning merger in this section, is expected soon.

Charles C. Gelder, of Princess Anne, prominent agriculturist and chairman of the Tri-State Canners' Association, is making preparations to call a meeting of the co-operative cannery operators this week to take further action on the merger, which was suggested at the Tri-State Canners' Association meeting last winter in Wilmington.

The 1925 tomato season in Worcester county and on the Shore proved to be one of the heaviest in yields of any the farmers of both the Eastern Shore and Delaware have ever experienced. Chairman Gelder, with W. T. Dickerson, directors of the Bureau of Markets of the State Board of Agriculture, and F. B. Bomberger, chief of the Maryland division of markets, will meet in Wilmington this month to map out a program that will embrace both

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run-down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions.

FARM BUREAU CORRALLING ITS FORCES FOR THE BIG MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

Nine counties in Maryland, just one-half of the present Farm Bureau counties of the state, are making ready for an intensive campaign to re-enlist the old members on new three-year contracts and to enlist as many new members in the organization as is possible. For weeks, the state Farm Bureau office, through its department of organization, has been working zealously on the plans for this drive and no stone has been left unturned to bring about the ultimate success of this extra effort to increase the membership of the organization in the state.

One of the unique features of the preliminary work is the training school for the county campaign managers being held in Baltimore this week with speakers of unquestioned ability to lead the discussions and show the successful way of handling membership drives of this nature. Among the speakers will be: E. P. Cohill, M. Melvin Stewart and Miles H. Fairbank, president, secretary-treasurer and director of organization, respectively, of the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation, Dr. Thomas B. Symons and Dr. F. B. Bomberger, director and assistant director, respectively, of the University of Maryland Extension Service and also specialists from the latter institution.

The campaign proper will be started in November, following several weeks of preparation and educational work in the various county Farm Bureau locals of the state, of which there are more than 100. Following this, the solicitation work and actual signing up of old and new members will take place simultaneously in all nine counties. The results will not be known much before the last of November or the first of December. The counties included in the campaign together with their campaign managers are as follows:

Howard county, A. W. Nichols; Baltimore, T. C. Sherrill; Montgomery, J. W. Jones; Anne Arundel, C. Ashby Duvall; Harford, Walter Spencer; Carroll, John S. Bushey; Talbot, G. Brent Rieman; Worcester, C. R. Hare and Caroline, Paul C. Sewell.
