PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE AND CHILD HYGIENE

Asked to outline the duties of the Public Health Nurses in Maryland in caring for mothers and young children Miss C. Ethel Monroe, the State advisory nurse turned to a circular from the Bureau of Child Hygiene that was lying on her desk and quoted "The Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health was organized to help Maryland mothers and children keep well, because many mothers die unnecessarily from some complication of child birth; many babies and young children die each year from preventable diseases, and many children enter school each year handicapped by some physical defect that could have been prevented or corrected. The Bureau works with and through the local health officer and the public health nurse."

"The Public Health Nurse," Miss Monroe continued, "usually gives a large share of her time to activities in furtherance of these claims of the Bureau of Child Hygiene. To help prevent complications of child birth, the nurse visits every expectant mother who is referred to her. She urges her to place herself under the supervision of her physicians very early in the pre natal period, and she helps her make the necessary preparations for her confinement. She also advises in regard to the outfit for the baby.

"Owing to extended territory that has to be covered by each nurse and to the variety of duties of the nurses, it is impossible for them to give nursing care to the mother during her confinement or to do the daily bedside nursing following the arrival of the baby. No phase of the nurse's work is more important than the help she is able to give the mother-to-be, and it is hoped that each year more and more of this can be done.

"In a number of counties, the nurse receives regularly from the local registrars, the names of the new born babies, so that she may visit each mother and help and advise her in the care of the young baby, if the family physician requests it.

Under the drection of the deputy state health officer, the nurse arranges for the 'Well Baby Conferences,' and the child health conferences that are held at regular intervals in each county, and assists the examining physician. These conferences are for well babies, as sick babies are suposed to be already under the care of the physician. Children brought to the conferences who are found to be in need of special care are referred to their family physicans. After the conferences, the nurse visits the parents of the children that need such follow-up care and offers her assistance in getting the corrective work done.

"In her visits in the homes the Public Health Nurse can render a further service to young mothers, and incidentally to the entire community by showing the parents how to follow the doctor's directions in his efforts to prevent the spread of communicable diseases and particularly the so-called children's diseases. It is a common thing for a nurse to hear a mother say 'Johnny has the measles and I am letting all the children play in his room so that they can all have them at once and have it over.' All wrong of course. But the nurse often has to use all her powers of persuasion to make the mothers realize that it is not necessary for all children to have these diseases if proper precautions are taken to prevent their spread.

"The duties of the nurse include in addition to those already outlined, the supervision and instruction of the mid wives.

"In the field of child hygiene as n all other phases of her work, the nurse finds much to do along health education lines, holding classes for mothers, organizing little mothers' clubs, giving talks and distributing literature. In her child hygiene program, the nurse finds some of her most constructive work."

Old Pipe, we're pals for keeps

SIX months ago, Old Pipe, we were headed for absolute divorce. We were wrecked on the twin rocks of Tongue Bite and Throat Parch. I tried tobacco after tobacco. Then . . . I found Prince Albert!

Today, Old Pipe, you're closer to me than a tattooed anchor. P. A. made you sweet and cool as the wind from a laden orchard. P. A. led me out of the hot-pipe desert into the pleasant valley of contented smokers. Comfort fell upon me . . . and it was welcome as rain to a dusty frog.

Say good-bye to worry, you fellows who don't yet know the joys of a jimmy-pipe and P. A. Tell gloom to be on its way. Your first fragrant pipeful will give you a 99-year lease on happiness. Prince Albert is the mildest, sweetest, kindest smoke mortal man ever knew.

Prince Albert gives you a lot more for your money in quantity as well as quality. There are TWO full ounces in every tin of P. A. The U. S. revenue stamp shows you that. Make a break now for the nearest shop where they hand out pipe-peace in tidy red tins.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Look at the U. S. revenue stamp—there are TWO full ounces in every tin.

PRINCE ALBERT
