FARM BUREAU NEWS

FARM BUREAU CAMPAIGN DRAWS TOWARD CLOSE

Officials, leaders and individual members of the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation are speeding up the works just now preparatory to the finishing touches which will be put on the nine-county membership drive within the next ten days. Enthusiastic county rallies have already been held in six of the nine counties and taking the enthusiastic attendance at these as a sort of campaign barometer the effort to double the Farm Bureau membership in the state is going to terminate successfully.

One of the unique methods employed in the campaign to insure good attendance at the local inspirational meetings, was that used in Worcester county where a real, live, squealing pig was given away at each one of their meetings. Plenty of publicity was given this plan by the Worcester committee, with the result that farmers, their sons and daughters flocked to the meetings from all sections of the county eager to hear the story of the Farm Bureau as told by prominent speakers as well as to run achance of taking home a pure bred pig.

The campaign thus far, has been a huge success. Farmers are becoming more and more interested in the Farm Bureau and in the importance of organization as a mean of protecting their best interests and it might be stated that in no previous campaign of a similar nature has there been anything like the interest and enthusiasm that has been shown in this membership campaign. It might be further stated that Farm Bureau leadership in the campaign counties has never before been so aroused to the vital importance of inducing their farmers to join the organization which is doing so much for them in many ways and in every part of their county, their state and their nation. All indications point to the fact that the farmers are becoming more and more interested in organization and that they will heed the membership call when they have heard and have been made to understand just what the Farm Bureau is doing and intends to do, for the farmers of this state. A small army of volunteer solicitors is being trained in special schools for the final days of the drive when practically every farmer, whether he is a Farm Bureau member or not, will be visited, told the Farm Bureau story and then asked to renew his contract for three years, or to sign up for the first time, as the case might be. The present Farm Bureau membership in the state is around 7,500 and it is confidently expected that this number will be more than doubled e'er the campaign comes to a close.
