About your Health

Things You Should Know

by John Joseph Gaines, M. D.

ALCOHOL

I am aware of treading dangerous ground in discussing alcohol even as medicine, it has no other legitimate use, but that any agent good for sickness should be destroyed, I emphatically deny. Gold leads the world as a basic instigator of crime. But no zealot would abolish gold. It must be endured for the good it may do.

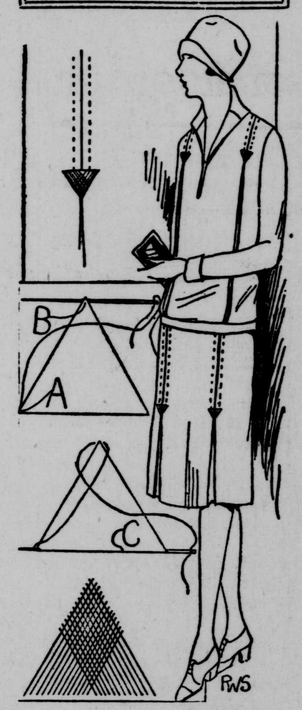

More aged people die of pneumonia than of any other disease. It is here that alcohol in medical administration, is at its best as a life-saver. It has added years of life to those for whom life is most precious. Alcohol is nearer a specific in the dreaded influenza than any other drug we possess. Alcohol has supported the typhoid victim over the crisis, and started him on the highway of health. These virtues should maintain it in the ranks of our most valuable medicines. Opium kills. Its habit is the most tenacious and degrading—yet we never hear about prohibition and destruction of the poppy. The politician cannot use opium as a monkey-wrench to throw into somebody's political machinery, so he permits it to be regulated in a logical, legal way without ostentation, as is being done today. The abuse of alcohol is well-known, making of it a very bad master, instead of a most valuable servant.

Practical Instructions In HOME SEWING

By Ruth Wyeth Spears

EMBROIDERED ARROWHEADS.

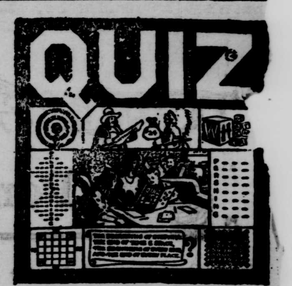

Cut a little triangular shaped piece of cardboard to use as a guide in marking.

After marking around the arrowhead bring the thread through at the lower left hand corner of the triangle as shown at A in the sketch. Then short straight stitch under the point of the triangle as at B.

Next take a long stitch at the base as at C. For this stitch bring the needle out as near as possible to the place where the thread was first brought through.

Take a stitch at the top of the triangle just below the first stitch and another at the base bringing the needle in and out just inside of the previous stitches. Continue until the entire space is filled in as shown in the sketch of the finished arrowhead.

FARM BUREAU NEWS

College Park, Dec. 28—Premiums for the Maryland State Corn Show, an annual event held under the auspices of the Maryland Crop Improvement Association in connection with the annual meetings of the Maryland Agricultural Society the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation, were anouced by J. E. Metzer, secretary of the former organization.

The show will be staged at the Hotel Rennert, Baltimore, where the farm meetings will be held, beginning January 6. Premiums are provided for five classes of corn and two classes of soybeans.

Class 1 of the corn exhibit will be for ten-ear samples of Reid's yellow dent, grown in Maryland or other states. Class 2 is likewise an interstate contest but for ten-ear samples of white dent corn. Class 3 provides premiums for other varieties of yellow dent and white cap corn and entries will be restricted to Maryland growers. In all three classes, identical premiums are offered which consist of $15 for the first place; $6 for second; $4 for third; $3 for fourth; and $2 for fifth, sixth and seventh.

Class 5 has been provided for agricultural club boys, exhibiting any variety. The premiums are: $8 for first; $6 for second; $4 for third; and $2 for fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh.

Premiums are offered for peck-exhibits of Virginia and Wilson soybeans, the two leading varieties grown in Maryland. Premiums in each of these classes are: $5 for first; $3 for second; and $2 for third, fourth and fifth places.

An interesting feature of the show is expected to be the display of the ear of corn which was awarded the sweepstakes ribbon at the International Grain and Hay Show at Chicago early in December, and which was grown on the farm of A. D. Radebaugh, Harford county. As this ear has been proclaimed the finest one grown in the United States this year and is said to be one of the best ever produced, it will be well worth the careful examination of farmers.

WHEAT SEEDINGS INCREASED 26,000 ACRES IN MARYLAND THIS FALL

Washington, Dec. 30— The area seeded to wheat autumn of 1925 in Maryland is estimated to be 554,000 acres against 528,000 sown in the autumn about 14 per cent. but weather during October and November unfavorable for seeding winter grains hampered and hindered farmers in their effort to carry out their pan.

Condition of wheat on December 1 averaged 79 per cent. of a normal, compared with 83 one year ago, and 88 the 10-year (1915-1924) average of condition on December 1.

A decrease of 15 per cent. in the area sown to rye is reported, giving an acreage this autumn of 15,000 against 18,000 acres sown of 1924 (revised). Condition was given on December 1 at 84 per cent. of a normal.

An average decrease of 1 per cent. for the United States is reported in wheat acreage this fall, as compared with 1924 plantings. The area sown to rye is given at 16 per cent less.

FOOD FOR CHILDREN WHO TRAVEL

Many times, and especially during the summer months, mothers are forced to take their children on trips with them. During these trips, the parent is forced to contend with that ever-present and serious problem of food for the child.

As in almost every other case, the chief source of worry, during these periods, is the milk supply, its source, its purity and its food value. It is not always convenient to get market milk of dependable quality for, in many sections of the country, adequate facilities for its care are not provided. To meet the needs of mothers in these trying situations, science has provided a form of milk, conveniently carried and easily prepared. The cans are in two sizes, the one containing six ounces an.. the other sixteen.

Evaporated milk is just pure cows' milk with more than half of the water removed. None of its food value is lessened; in fact its digestibility is improved. It is easily mixed with water and is, undoubtedly, the most practical form of milk for use as a food for children. Some of the country's leading pediatricians recommend its use, employing the following formula:

From Sixth Week to Third Month.

Milk, evaporated ..... 6 ounces
Lime water ..... 3 ounces
Milk sugar ..... 2 ounces
Boiled water .....26 ounces

Seven feedings in twenty-four hours: 4 to 5 ounces at three-hour intervals during the day and four-hour intervals at night.

From Third Month to Fifth Month.

Milk, evaporated ..... 7½ ounces
Lime water ..... 3 ounces
Milk sugar ..... 2 ounces
Boiled water ..... 29½ ounces

Six feedings in twenty-four hours; 5 to 6 ounces at three-hour intervals during the day and a feeding at 10 p. m.

From Fifth to Seventh Month.

Milk evaporated .....10 ounces
Lime water ..... 3 ounces
Milk sugar ..... 2 ounces
Boiled water .....29 ounces

Five feedings in twenty-four hours: 6 to 7 ounces at four-hour intervals, the last feeding to be given at 10 p. m.

From Seventh to Ninth Month.

Milk, evaporated .....11 ounces
Lime water ..... 3 ounces
Milk sugar ..... 2 ounces
Boiled water .....35 ounces

7 to 9 ounces at four-hour intervals during the day. Last feeding at ten at night.

From Ninth to Twelfth Month.

Milk, evaporated .....12 ounces
Lime water ..... 3 ounces
Milk sugar ..... 2 ounces
Barley water .....34 ounces

8 to 9 ounces at four-hour intervals during day. Last feeding at ten at night.

Doctor—What did your father die of?

Dinge—Ah don't know, boss, but it wasn't nothin serious—Ayer's Almanac.

A bright young city chap was sitting in a country store bragging, and airing off his knowledge.

After numerous bright remarks he said, "I'll bet a dollar that my name is harder than any one's in this store!"

A farmer replied, "Wall, son, I'll take ye up!"

"Well, Stone is my name," said the stranger."

"Mine's Harder."
