INDIANS IN PURITAN DAYS

Four white men are accused of forming a murder ring, that already has to its credit the deaths of twenty Osage Indians Oil had made them rich, and in 1925, as in old Puritan days, it seemed to Christian white men wrong for Indians to have property. They killed them then, and they kill them now. But now it is illegal, and the grand jury will see about them.

Wiser white men don't murder Indians. They wait until the Indians get the money, then go to them with bootleg whiskey, leave the whiskey behind and come back with the money.

The grand jury should also see about them.

THE WAGES OF SIN

The wages of sin is death, or at least, much trouble. Stanford White was killed long ago, his problems quickly solved by a young man from Pittsburgh.

Now, Thaw's wife, for whom White was killed, drinks 8 ounces of a poisonous mixture to kill herself. Clergymen will find in this a good text for a sermon that will not put the congregation to sleep.

Some radical clergyman might even engage Evelyn Thaw to appear in his church as a living text or sad example if she survives.

Henry Ward Beecher, in the Brooklyn pulpit, sold a mulatto girl at auction in old slavery days to emphasize a sermon against slavery.

RIDGELY

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church will hold a cafeteria supper in the church house on Tuesday night, January 19. Supper will begin as early at 5:30 p. m. Dishes range from 5 cents up. Good music. The ladies solicit your patronage.

Caloric Requirements of the Child

DIETITIANS declare that the average boy or girl of four years should receive about forty calories a pound of body weight per day. The average weight of a child of four years is forty pounds. Therefore the total caloric requirement would be approximately 1,600 calories. Calory is merely the name for a certain measure of heat derived from the burning of food.

Necessarily, the caloric requirement of the child is dependent on his temperament, since a child who plays hard and long requires more nourishment than one who leads a quieter life. Rate of growth also has a bearing on caloric requirements. The child who is growing rapidly should be given more food to meet his caloric needs than the boy or girl whose growth is normal.

Mothers know the daily diet should consist of the essential foodstuffs, protein, carbohyrates, fats, minerals and water. The important thing for her is to learn the foods that contain these essentials in a balanced diet. Below is a well-balanced menu for any child six years old compiled by an authority on home economics.

ONE DAY'S MENU FOR SIX YEAR-OLD CHILD.

2-3 cupful lima bean soup made with evaporated milk	75 calories
1 glass milk, orange drink	160 calories
	519 calories
Total	1,840 calories

Children often become wearied of drinking plain milk. Mixing their milk with fruit juices is a welcome change. Following is the recipe for a refreshing milk drink: Mix ⅞ cupful orange juice, ¼ cupful evaporated milk, three teaspoonfuls of sugar, ½ teaspoonful of lemon juice and a few grains of salt. Shake well in a fruit jar before serving.
